December Ends On Frigid -36 Degree Note On Mon.

Temperatures in the Thief River Falls area during December averaged about 2½ degrees below normal with an end of the month low of -36 degrees. However, although this figure is calculated from official weather records, the resulting averages may not give a true picture of area weather for the month. Official temperature readings for three days were not even recorded. Two of those days were during a cold spell when daily low readings were more than 10 degrees below zero and at least one daily high was also below zero. On one additional day the low reading was not recorded and on one day the "official" high was 2 degrees colder than the low. As a result, there is no record of more than 10 per cent of the daily readings.

Observations that were recorded indicate that the December mean temperature was 5.82 degrees or nearly 2½ degrees below the five year average of 8.23 degrees. The average of 16.3 degrees. The average daily low was -2.0 degrees or more than two degrees colder than the five year average of 0.2 degrees.

The official low for the month was -36 degrees recorded on December 31. That is significantly colder than the month has recorded in recent years. The lowest reading for December during the past five years was -28 degrees in 1972. The previous low was -26 degrees in 1968. In 1969 the low was only -15 degrees with -18 degrees recorded in December 1969.

The high for the month was 31 degrees recorded on December 9. This is also unusually low. The average high reading for the past five Decembers was 38.2 degrees. Twice during the past five years the month's high was in the 40's. The high for December 1969 was 47 degrees.

Official weather records indicate that the area received at least 10 inches of snow during December. This figure can not be compared with previous years because snowfall measurements were not recorded for the past two years and earlier readings are listed according to measurements of melted snow with December 1969 having a high of 2.55 inches.

Daylight Saving Time To Begin Sunday Morning

Thief River Falls area residents are advised to set their clocks ahead one hour on Sunday at 2 a. m. (or Saturday evening if preferable) to stay in time with the rest of the nation. Daylight saving time is being reinstated as an attempt to conserve energy on a national basis.

For the past several years daylight saving time has been in effect nationally from the last Sunday until the last Sunday in October-a six-month period.

School Board To Discuss Several Topics Monday

Four items for potential discussuon are included on the agenda for the Thief River Falls board of education at its initial meeting of 1974 on Monday. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. in the school district service center.

Wallace Sparby, vice chairman of the board and regional delegate to the Minnesota School Borads association, will review pending legislation and other matters relating to the state association.

Discussion will be held on development of policy toward the teaching of controversial issues in the local school district.

David Olin, school district attorney, will report to the board and discuss with board members items which may be expected to take place in the coming year.

Initial discussion is also expected on the status of interscholastic athletics at the middle school level.

Skaar Discusses Legislature At Rotary Meeting

Rep. Andrew Skaar of Thief River Falls commented on the coming legislative session Monday when he was guest speaker at the regular noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club.

Rep Skaar said he expects the legislature to create a department of energy as suggested by the governor although there is disagreement over its powers. Some legislators are suggesting that a commission should have broad powers in the energy field while others believe an energy board should be only advisory to the state department.

Creation of such a department would mean one more agency with which any business planning to move into the state or expand or originate in the state would have to deal. The energy department would have authority to act on certificates of need applied for by any energy user or potential energy user in the state.

Turning to agriculture, Rep. Skaar noted that a decrease in the number of dairy farmers in the state could result in a situation whereby there may be milk rationing within several years. Higher grain prices and the difficulty in obtaining quality hired help were cited as reasons for dairymen turning away from cattle operations.

The Thief River Falls legislator also commented on the flexible session of the legislature which he said is now in the trial stage. He said the session will start on January 16 and predictions are that it could last anywhere from mid-March to mid-May.

Plans are being made for a new legislative office building, he said, with a prize of $50,000 offered to the architect devising the best plan for such a building. All legislators will now have their own offices, he said, while a few years ago legislators had only their desks on the floor of the House or Senate.

The public should discuss the possibilities of a full-time legislature, he said, because pressures are strong for a mini-Congress in Minnesota.

Social Security Man Here Tues.

Bob Nygaard, social security representative of the social security district office in Grand Forks, N.D., will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Adventist Welfare Center Busy In '73

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Despite an active year in which large quantities of clothing were distributed to persons in need, the Seventh-day Adventist welfare center ended 1973 with a heavy inventory which volunteers would like to see distributed.

"It doesn't do anyone any good hanging in here," said Mrs. Eugene Howes, who has been directing work at the center for the past three years and is one of its most active workers. "There are some awfully nice dresses there, and look at those coats, too. We're sure there must be someone who can use them but who doesn't know about our service."

Perhaps Mrs. Howes is right, but there certainly are many persons who do know about the center and who have gratefully received assistance during its 14 years of operation. During that entire peroid the center has been located on the second floor of the Thief River clinic on LaBree ave. S., across the way from the Northwestern hospital.

CHECKING THE REGISTER of persons who have received assistance from the Seventh-day Adventist welfare center during the past year are, left to right, Mrs. Eugene Howes, Mrs. Leo Herber and Mrs. Ralph Robidoux. The local center helped 1,533 people during 1973.

During the past year, according to records maintained by Mrs. Howes, the center distributed 14,021 items of clothing to 1,533 persons, as well as shipping 1,660 pounds of clothing for overseas distribution.

In addition to the clothing assistance, the center gave out 55 sets of new bedding and 76 articles of new clothing purchased for persons in need. "We are not able to give new items to everyone," Mrs. Howes said, "but there are cases where we are not able to fill a need from our supply of used articles and then we buy what the people need."

As an example she cited several students who have come from overseas to attend Northland community college. They have arrived with only light clothing suitable for more temperate climates and without funds to acquire a wardrobe of warm weather clothing. The welfare center has helped to supply the means to fill the need.

Volunteers working at the center put in 1,462 hours of recorded time in their project work last year, but countless hours of assistance undoubtedly went unrecorded. Some of the volunteers do a great deal of work at home for the center, such as cutting squares for making quilts, or cleaning and pressing used clothing items. One volunteer knit mittens while wintering in California and returns with a box of mittens for the center each year.

Last year volunteers made 155 pillow cases, 34 large quilts and eight children's quilts for distribution to needy families. The center furnished two davenports, a chair and a television set where needed and assisted three families who were victims of home fires with bedding and other items.

Whenever we hear about a home fire we try to contact the people and see if they need anything we can provide," Mrs. Howes said. "We especially try to help with bedding because many church groups and others often help with clothing."

Four families received complete layettes for babies, including two dozen diapers, blanket, shirts and other items. And at Christmas time the center distributed 38 baskets and boxes of food to families in the area.

According to statistics kept by Mrs. Howes for her annual report to the sponsoring Seventh-day Adventist church, the center spent 1836 to accomplish the year's activities. That covered primarily the purchase of new items for distribution and supplies needed for making items such as quilts.

The center is open to the public on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Among the main volunteers working at the center in addition to Mrs. Howes are Mrs. Leo Herber, Mrs. Ralph Robidoux, Mrs. Harold Wangsnes, Mrs. Eunice Sorenson, Mrs. Leona Chwinlkowski and Mrs. Ray Nelson.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Reck of Red Lake Falls, was employed in Thief River Falls by the J. C. Penney company. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs Conner Corbett of Devils Lake, N. D. He was employed in this city by KTRF radio station.

Rev. John Beau Lac of East Grand Forks officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Ed Neibauer of Mentor presided at the organ. She played Handel's "Precessional" and the traditional "Bridal Chorus" for the processional and accompanied Dennis Kolb of Mentor as he sang, "Because", before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer, as the couple knelt at the altar.

Candelabra graced with sprays of yellow pompons, white gladioli, greens and white bows formed the altar setting. The pews along the center aisle were marked with hurricane lamps, yellow bows and greens.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over satin, designed with scalloped tiered skirt that flowed back into a cathedral-length train. The gown was fashioned with Mandarin collar, Victorian sleeves and a narrow satin panel that flowed from the neckline to the hem. Her Juliet headpiece of lace over satin was made by the bride's mother. It was embroidered with pearls and held a chapel-length veil. She carried a cascade of yellow and white roses, white daisy mums, statice and Trailing ivy.

For sentiment, she carried her mother's handerchief and at the neckline wore an heirloom heart shaped pin, set with pearls, which belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Lyla Burt.

Other attendants were Debbie Gagner of Mentor, friend of the bride; Mrs. David Boostrom of Minot, N D., sister of the groom; and Mrs. Milo Reck of Red Lake Falls, sister-in-law of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns of sheer daisy print over yellow with leg-o-mutton sleeves. Ruffles outlined the low neckline and edged the bottom of the skirts. Their white picture hats were trimmed in sashes to match their gowns. Each carried a nosegay of bronze and white pompons, yellow daisy mums and yellow ribbon streamers. Their pearl pendants were gifts from the bride.

Wearing similar attire was the bride's sister, Michelle Reck, who served as flower girl. She wore a long yellow ribbon in her hair together with fresh yellow daisy mums and bronze and white pompons. From a white basket trimmed with yellow mums and netting, accented with leather leaf, she scattered yellow rose petals as she preceded the bride to the altar. Her engraved charm bracelet was a gift from the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Reck was attired in a floor-length gown of green double knit with an over lay of green lace on the bodice. Her long sleeves were of sheer lace. Pearl and gold trim marked the empire waistline and completed the the high neckline. Her accessories were in gold. The mother of the groom wore a floor-length gown of deep pink crepe with high neckline and long sheer sleeves. Her silver accessories accented the silver trim on her belt. Both wore corsages of yellow roses and white daisy mums.

Special guests were Mrs. Lyla Burt of Walhalla, N. D., grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Hill Rogers of Winnipeg, grandparents of the groom.

Parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reck. Mrs. Dean Hayek registered the guests while cousins of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Anderson of Winnipeg, presided at the punch bowl.

Centering the serving table was a three-tiered Lady Windemere wedding cake, decorated with yellow daisies and topped with a heart and wedding bell ornament trimmed with pearls, netting and lace. The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Mervin Hyde of Brooks, great-aunt of the bride, was cut and served by Mrs. Cameron Burt of Walhalla, Mrs. Gerald Burt of Cavalier, N. D., aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Harold Holmgren, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Ted Rodgers of Winnipeg, cousin of the groom.

Pouring were Mrs. Graig Wawers, friend of the groom, and Mrs. Delbourne Reck, of Deerwood, aunt of the bride, who used the silver service given to the groom's grandparents at the wedding 63 years ago.

Do-It-Yourself Not Suggested For Furnaces

Do-it-yourself tampering with heating systems in the effort to conserve energy is dangerous and should not be done, fire marshal Wes Werner warned recently.

He said that cases have come to light recently in which householders have altered the vents in their heating system in order to reclaim heat that goes up the flue. One result has been to imperil members of the household by exposure to asphyxiation.

"Proper venting of heating units is of critical importance," Werner said. "The heating plant, including the venting, is designed to obtain maximum efficientcy and maximum safety. It should not be tampered with. If it appears not to be operating properly, a trained service man should be consulted."

As an example of the dangers of tampering with the heating system, he cited the case of a householder who diverted the vent from the gas furnace through an old oil hater as a second heat exchanger. Escaping fumes put the family in serious danger.

"If you feel you are not getting top efficiency of your heating system, contact a furance man. Your fuel supplier can help you get proper service."

SRSEA To Take State Of Minn. To Arbitration

For the first time, the state of Minnesota is being taken to binding arbitration, according to the Minnesota Education association (MEA).

The arbitration is sought by the State Residential Schools Education association (SRSEA) a statewide local of the MEA. A hearing is scheduled for January 7.

According to SRSEA president LeRoy Schiller, a teacher at the St. Cloud reformatory for men, five issues have created the impasse in bargaining between SRSEA and the state of Minnesota:

(1) Salaries;

(2) Injury on duty (welfare schools don't have it for their teachers);

(3) Publication of contracts at the state's expense;

(4) Negotiations leave with pay for SRSEA negotiators, and

(5) Sabbatical leave (permissive, either with or without pay).

Schiller also is SRSEA's contract negotiator.

Vern Buck, a member of the bureau of mediation services staff and a long-time member of BMS' predecessor, the state labor conciliator's office, said he cannot remember any other time that the state has been taken to binding arbitration.

Fuel Shortage Adds To Winter Driving Woes

The mounting energy crisis, fuel shortages and pollution controls, when combined with the usual hazards of winter driving, may make this winter a real nightmare for drivers, according to a national traffic safety authority.

Douglas M. Fergusson, director of safety services for Nationwide Insurance Co., and chairman of the National Safety Council's Traffic Conference, warned drivers recently that slippery pavements and reduced visibility will compound driving problems in many parts of the country throughout the winter months.

"In view of the current concern about fuel conservation and pollution controls, engine tune-ups and good vehicle maintenance can be critical factors in getting through the winter months without mechanical failures that can lead to traffic jams and accidents," Fergusson said. "First and most importantly, have your engine tuned by a competent mechanic. A tune-up should include inspection of the electrical system, timing, points, plugs and the emission control devices on late model cars. This will reduce fuel consumption, while at the same time assuring dependable starting at low temperatures and fewer stalls in traffic."

In addition to the basic tune-up, he urged drivers to also heed the following equipment recommendations that have been developed by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards of which he serves as a member:

HEATER-DEFROSTER SYSTEM—must clear fog and frost off your windshield rapidly—and keep it clear. If not functioning properly, check the thermostat or adjustments to the control mechanism. Your check should also include the rear window defroster if your vehicle is equipped with one.

WINDSHIELD WIPERS—may have dried out in summer heat. Live replacement blades are inexpensive and do a better job in wiping away slush, and snow without streaking. Check your washer solution for adequate anti-freeze protection.

LIGHTS—must be in perfect working order. Check for and replace burned out bulbs and broken or cracked lenses. Winter grime and road salt corrode sockets and reflectors. Clean all lights frequently during inclement weather.

BRAKES—a poorly adjusted, failing or grabbing brake can force you into an uncontrolled skid on slippery pavements. If your brakes grab or pull to one side, have them checked and adjusted by a competent mechanic.

TIRES—good tires are important all year long, but especially so during the poor conditions winter slings at you. Snow tires provide additional pulling power in loosely-packed snow. Studded snow tires, where legal, improve stopping and pulling ability on ice.

TIRE CHAINS—reinforced tire chains still remain the ultimate traction aid in deep snow or glare ice conditions. Keep them in your trunk for severe weather conditions.

On the topic of emergency kits, Fergusson reminded motorists of the following items: a shovel, a container of sand or rock salt, a tow chain, battery booster cables, and emergency flares and lights.

"Remember," he concluded, "while winter adds additional hazards on the roads, proper planning and maintenance today can prevent traffic accidents and tieups tomorrow!"

THE NAUGA IS NOW PRESENT IN MILLIONS OF U.S. HOMES.
NAUGAHYDE, AS THEY CALLED IT, WAS FIRST USED IN HANDBAGS AND LUGGAGE. THEN IN FURNITURE UPHOLSTERY.
BY 1940 RESEARCH BROUGHT ABOUT A VINYL RESIN TYPE OF NAUGAHYDE WHICH MADE THE RANGE OF COLOR, PATTERN AND TEXTURE VIRTUALLY LIMITLESS. DURABLE NAUGAHYDE, FOR EXAMPLE, CAN SIMULATE SILK, COTTON, WOOL OR SUEDE AS WELL AS ORDINARY LEATHER.
TODAY NAUGAHYDE IS MADE IN NEARLY 1,000 COLORS AND PATTERNS IN BOTH UPHOLSTERY AND APPAREL. SOME NAUGAHYDE FABRICS ARE MADE WITH PERFORATIONS INVISIBLE TO THE NAKED EYE AND CAN "BREATHE."

Perishable Food To Have Quality Date By Jan. 1

Minnesota consumers will have a new tool to guard against waste in food budgets when the state department of agriculture begins enforcement January 1 of new state regulations mandating open dating of selected classes of perishable foods, states Commissioner Jon Wefald.

Beginning January 1 processors must print the quality assurance date on certain food products that are perishable in 90 days or less. These will primarily be fluid milk, shell egg and bakery products.

Commissioner Jon Wefald conceded there may be some confusion during the orientation phase of the new program considered one of the national models in mandatory open dating.

"Not all foods normally considered as perishable in 90 days or less are required to be dated. And consumers are already finding many food products our law and regulations exempt are being dated.

"Our law and regulations apply primarily to selected dairy, egg and bakery products. The law specifically exempts from open dating all meat, fish, poultry, frozen foods, fresh fruits and vegetables. Our regulations exempt, at least during this initial phase, all foods that have a quality assurance period of more than 90 days," Commissioner Wefald explained.

He added that during the transition period consumers will find a variety of open dating labeling. Some products may bear only an actual date, without explanation that is later required. Unexplained dating will be considered freshness dates or the last date the product should be sold.

"We expect this practice will be brief. It is necessary, in the consumer interest during this transition period, to allow processors to use inventories of preprinted packaging. Forcing the industry to destroy packaging could have increased consumer prices on some products. Processors also have reported difficulties in obtaining conforming new packaging materials and mechanized package dating machines," Commissioner Wefald explained.

He declared the new law and regulations "have far more pluses than we anticipated. The dairy industry has already implemented the new open dating requirement well ahead of the January 1 deadline on most of its fluid milk products. We also are seeing a wide variety of exempted products now being voluntarily open dated."

Driving In Car Pools Can Mean Extra Problems

"Who's driving today?" is a question of increasing urgency this winter as more and more drivers are forming car pools to try to cope with the fuel crisis.

But an even more basic question, according to a nationally known race driver, should be, "Who is driving when roads are snow-clogged or ice-slick from a winter storm?" According to Tom Abbott, a Detroit road course driver who also conducts performance driving classes for police officers, extra passengers in your car pose a special problem for any driver.

First, extra passengers mean the driver must be more responsible for all those riding with him.

Second, the extra weight of the passengers in the car may change the driving characteristics of the vehicle—a problem that can be exaggerated by the extremely low coefficient of friction on ice or snow-covered pavements.

"Race drivers must drive on the brink of disaster," Abbott commented; "but there's no reason why a pool car driver can't practice a few common sense precautions to help get himself and his passengers through without driving on the brink of disaster."

Abbott cited the following tips, supported by research conducted by the National Safety council's committee on winter driving hazards:

(1) With all your passengers aboard, and before you get out in traffic, get a feel for the road surface so that you know just how much or how little traction is available, and how your car will handle.

To do this, Abbot explained, gently apply the brakes or accelerate in spurts to find out when the wheels slip or spin. When they do, slow down and do all maneuvering with a gentle, delicate touch.

(2) Always remember that braking distances on glare ice may be as much as nine or 10 times the distance you would expect on dry pavement.

That means, according to Abbott, that in spite of to or from-work traffic you must increase your following distances proportionally.

"No matter what kind of race we may be in," Abbott added, "as good competition drivers we must always be aware of even the slightest change in the ability of our tires to grip the track's surface. The same is true of the passenger car driver who wants to protect himself and those riding with him.

"Top-flight professional drivers use every legitimate aid to get the best bite between their tires and the track's surface," Abbott added, "You can, too, on winter-slick roads."

Snow tires, studded tires where legal, and reinforced tire chains will help you get there and back, Abbott recommended, but added this warning:

"Even with the best traction aids, far slower than normal speeds are essential when the going gets slippery. Slow and easy is the secret.

"When you're the driver, remember that your passengers are depending on you!"

Representatives Of SBA Unable To Visit Areas

As a result of the energy shortage, the Small Business administration's representatives will not visit the communities of Duluth, Bemidji, Windom and Rochester during the month of January. The federal government is curtailing as much as possible travel by federal employees in order to do its part in conserving energy.

According to Paul W. Jansen, district director of the Minneapolis SBA office, the circuit rider program will resume during February. However, the program is now being studied in order to determine the frequency of loan officer visits to the communities listed above.

Any small businessman interested in visiting SBA's loan officers can do so by making an appointment through the Chamber of Commerce in each of these communities. The addresses and telephone numbers at Duluth and Bemidji are Duluth Chamber of Commerce, 200 Medical Arts Building, Duluth, 55802, telephone 218-722-5501 and Bemidji Chamber of Commerce, Bemidji Avenue & Third Street, Bemidji, 56601, telephone: 218-751-3540.

Only 30 Miles Of Interstate Left Unfinished

Opened to traffic last Friday was a 12-mile stretch of Interstate 94 between the Fish Lake interchange on Interstate 494, northwest of Minneapolis, and the Crow river just inside Wright county.

With the opening of this segment of the freeway, there remains only a gap of some 30 miles to be completed between Fargo-Moorhead and the Twin Cities, from three miles southeast of Clearwater to Albany in Stearns county. The superhighway is held to be an important trade artery whose completion will benefit considerably the prospertity of the regions it feeds and traverses.

Interstate 94, extending some 1,600 miles from Billings, Montana, on the west to Port Huron, Mich., will link agricultural and raw materials producing regions with manufacturing and industrial centers like Milwaukee, Chicago and Detroit by overnight truck.

The 12-mile segment just opened has interchanges at TH 241, connecting it with St. Michael, at TH 101 in Rogers, and at CSAH 30 and 85th Avenue North in Maple Grove, as well as the Fish Lake interchange that links it to Interstates 494 and 694 encircling the Twin Cities metropolitan ara.

Economist Will Provide Counsel To Hwy. Dep't.

Minnesota highway department will employ a professional economist February 1, whose task it will be to keep tabs on the health of the regional economy and provide expert counsel on how public transportation facilities—or a lack of them—may affect our personal fortunes in the North Star state.

Dr. Ellen Temple of Richfield, a native of Danville, Va., recieved her doctorate from Duke University in 1971. Her thesis dealt with the evaluation of fiscal policy alternatives in state government. Presently an associate marketing representative of the IBM corporation's data processing division, Dr. Temple also served as a research assistant of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston.

Dr. Temple will serve the commissioner's office as a policy planner, planning, administering and coordinating departmental functions productive of information required in economic analyses of highway planning. Foremost among her tasks will be analyses of probable economic consequences of prospective highway projects, as required by federal action plan guidelines.

Additional professionals in other fields will soon be hired to round out the department's capacity to expertly evaluate the non-engineering aspects of prospective highway improvements.

Twenty Million To Pay Higher SS Taxes This Year

"One year ago I wrote a column warning that social security taxes were going up, effective with your first paycheck of the new year," states Arch Booth, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"It looks like that is going to become an annual tradition.

"Last year both the tax rate and the wage base (amount of money on which the tax is paid) went up.

"This year, it's just the wage base that's being raised from $10,800 perhaps to as much as $13,200. In other words, if you make more than $10,800 you will be paying more social security tax in 1974. The maximum amount of the tax goes up from $631.80 to $772.20 for an employee. The employer has to match that.

"The new tax increases are needed to finance a two-stage increase in social security benefits voted by congress. Benefits will go up a total of 11 per cent.

"Some 30 million social security recipients will get the increase. The bill for it will have to be paid by the 20 million people who earn more than $10,800," Booth said.

"Contrary to what is commonly believed, increases in social security benefits are way ahead of inflation. For example, between January of 1970 and July 1 of 1974, the consumer price index will have increased by a little over 24 per cent. In the same period, social security benefits will have gone up 68.5 per cent.

"A column like this will get me letters—some of them heartrending- from social security recipients who have led exemplary lives and believe they 'deserve' the increase. It's hard to quarrel with that. The problem is, the government cannot 'give' anyone anything it has not first taken away from someone else.," he emphasizes.

"So, while there are undoubtedly people who 'deserve' the benefit increase, there are also people who do not 'deserve' the tax increase necessary to pay for it.

"As some philosopher said, most debates about values are not debates between right and wrong but between rights and rights, and this makes their resolution endlessly complicated.

"One might also question the morality of Congress raising the social security tax for the rest of us, while exempting itself, its employees and the employees of the federal government," Booth said.

"The pat answer is that government employees have their own pension plan, to which they contribute a part of their pay. Well, so what? Many employees in the private sector also pay into private pension plans, and they have to pay social security taxes, too. Federal employees are now the largest single group exempted from social security taxes.

"Beyond the moral questions, moreover, there's a practicial reason for worrying about the social security increaes," the Chamber of Commerce official warns. Social security taxes during their working lives, even counting interest. The most a worker could have paid in taxes since the program's inception is $5,271. At maximum 1974 levels, in a little over 18 months this worker would get back everything he put in.

"Now, here's the real problem. Today's higher benefits are being paid out of higher taxes on today's workers. That system works fairy well as long as there are more people working, and therefore paying social security taxes, than there are benefit recipients. But what would happen if there were more recipients than working taxpayers, as has happened in the railroad retirement program?

"As you probably know, our birthrate has been dropping sharply. We now appear to be headed for a condition of zero population growth sometime in the future.

"ZPG is desireable, even necessary, for many reasons. But it has the potential for raising havoc with social security, because there will be fewer young workers to support a larger aged population.

"What happens then? Will the smaller (relatively speaking) working population be able to carry the burden? Will the recipients stand for a cut-back in payments? Will the system collapse?

"These are very serious questions. Someday, we will be forced to answer them. Until then, it looks like Congress will go on raising both the benefit levels and the tax, as though there's no tomorrow," Booth concludes.

Explains Terms Used To Advise About Weather

Knowing the language of the weather reporters and forecasters will help motorists contend with winter storms, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W.R. Hoaglund advised recently.

He offered these explanations of weather warnings that are important to winter travelers on the highways:

Snow—A steady fall.

Heavy snow—Four to six inches in the next 12 hours; six or more in the next 24.

Blizzard—Winds of at least 35 miles per hour, temperatures of 20 above or less, wind chill of -20 or lower.

Severe blizzard—Winds of at least 45 miles per hour, dense snow, temperatures of 10 below or lower, wind chill, -37 or lower.

Cold wave—Rapid drop in temperature within 24 hours.

Warning—Storm imminent.

Hoaglund advised that the danger zone for motorists out of their cars starts at 10 above with a wind of 20 miles per hour and a wind chill of -25. At -10 degrees, it starts with winds of 10 miles per hour (wind chill -35) and at -30 it starts with no wind at all. Proper protection includes layers of warm clothing, hoods that permit covering mouth and nose, warm mittens (not gloves) and warm boots.

"It is almost always better to stay in your vehicle if trapped by a storm, as the exposure outside is bound to be worse. But it is also important that you be prepared for such a contingency when you set out on a winter trip. You can't always anticipate a storm, and you can't always anticipate a vehicle failure. But you can go prepared and equipped for emergencies."

Vanity Publisher Different From Other Publishers

"Have you ever read an ad like this one?" asks Virginia Knauer, director of the U.S. office of consumer affairs.

The ad states: Want your book published? New York publisher is seeking many kinds of manuscripts. Let us see your manuscript and advise you about its publishing possibilities. Call 000-0000 or write P.O. Box X.

"If it made you daydream of contacting that publisher, take my advice: Be careful," she said.

This type of ad is run by what is often called a "vanity" publisher, quite a different animal from other publishers. It's important to understand the difference if you have ever thought of writing a book or finding a publisher for some treasured family document.

Most publishers carefully study manuscripts submitted by writers or by writers' agents. If a publisher sees no value in a manuscript, he returns it, saying "Thanks, but no thanks."

On the other hand, when a publisher likes a manuscript, he will offer the writer a contract under which the publisher agrees to print the book.

The writer is paid on the basis of royalties. For each book sold, the writer receives a certain percentage of the book's price. In addition, the writer often receives an advance—a down payment against royalties that the book may earn for the author. Since the publisher has invested his own money in printing the book, he is eager to sell copies.

Vanity publishing—also called investment publishing or subsidy publishing or cooperative publishing—works differently. The vanity publisher can be counted on to tell you that your manuscript deserves publication. Instead of offering royalties and an advance, he explains how much it will cost you to have your book printed.

If you agree to this arrangement, the vanity publisher has it made. He prints the book. You get the book. He makes money. The vanity publisher likely will spend little or no money to get the book sold.

The book—every copy—belongs to you. But without facilities to distribute or sell your book, what will you do with all the copies?

If simply having the book in print is important to you, why not speak with a local printer? He may well carge less than the vanity publisher and at least you will know where you stand—surrounded by stacks of your own book.

If you want a New York or other out-of-town publisher to consider your manuscript, contact several to find the best deal for you. Start by checking the selected list of book publishers in 'The Literary Marketplace, which is published by R.R. Bowker Co. This guide should be available in your public library's reference collection.

Minimum Wage Goes Into Effect January 1, 1974

Effective Jan. 1, 1974, a new minimum wage rate of $1.80 per hour for employees 18 and older and $1.62 for employees 17 and younger is required by the Minnesota fair labor standards act and regulations. Overtime compensation is also necessary after 48 hours a week at not less than one and a half times the employee's regular rate of pay.

Employers covered by the U.S. fair labor standards act must comply with the Minnesota higher standards, $1.80 $1.62, unless the federal minimum wage rate is increased and exceeds that provided by state law. These employers, however, will remain under the more ribid federal provision for time-and-a-half overtime compensation after 40 hours. Hotels, motels, restaurants, and other businesses which are exempt from the federal overtime standards must comply with the Minnesota overtime provisions.

Certain types of employees are exempt from coverage by the state law. These include some farm workers, camp counselors, outside salesmen, volunteers for a non-profit organization, governmental officials, police and fire department employees, taxicab drivers (although many are covered by federal provisions), babysitters, and executive, administrative, or professional personnel. Further information concerning which employees fit these categories is contained in the act and regulations.

In calculating overtime pay, the regular rate of pay is computed by dividing the employee's total hours worked into the total pay received. This regular rate is then multiplied by one and a half for each hour over 48. Special overtime provisions apply to sales or service personnel in a car or implement dealership, to workers in health care facilities, to employees of the state or other political subdivision, and to highly-paid commissioned salesmen.

The Minnesota Fair Labor Standards Act provides for penalties payable to the employee who is paid less than the wages and overtime compensation he is due. Employers are required to keep records for three years detailing each employee's name, address, occupation, rate of pay, amount paid each pay period, and hours worked each day and each workweek, including beginning and ending hours each day, with a.m. and p.m. designations.

Additonal records are required for the employer to substantiate that an employee is a minor, to take credit for meals and lodging accepted by the employee, and to take a tip credit. A credit for tips received, but only up to 25 per cent of the $1.80 (or $1.62), may be credited toward the minimum wage of a service person who receives at least $20 per month in tips. No credit may be taken for tips shard, only for tips received directly from the customer.

When calculating overtime pay and regular rate of pay, all credits toward the minimum wage must be included in the total pay received. All hours when the employee is required to be either on the premises of the employer or involved in the performance of duty connected with his employment must be included in hours worked. Deductions may not be made from the minimum wage for shortages in money or goods, for purchasing or maintaining uniforms, or for breakages.

Employers are required to keep a copy of the labor standards poster in a conspicuous place for employees to see. Copies are available from the Department of Lbor and Industry, Lbor Standards Divison, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN, 55101. The poster contains only a summary, but a copy of the complete law and regulations is available for a small fee from Documents Secton, 140 Centennial Building, St. Paul, MN, 55155.

Mondale Gives Comment About Oil Price Rise

Following are comments of Sen. Walter F. Mondale regarding the increase on oil prices:

As a result of the cost of living council's recent decision to allow the price of crude oil to rise by $1 a barrel, Minnesotans will have to pay an additional $62 million annually for oil and oil products while the nation's consumers will pay an extra $3 billion a year.

These increases come on top of a 19 per cent rise in fuel costs in the month of November alone, and they represent another step along the road to the "rationing by price" philosophy of this administration.

With oil company profits already up 47 per cent for the first nine months of this year—to a level of $6.3 billion—it seems unjustifiable to continue to allow increases of this nature.

However, the administration seems to believe that allowing crude oil prices to rise sharply will help expand output and reduce demand. And energy policy-makers have not yet realized that it is possible to reduce demand without picking the American consumer's pockets.

But I believe that the overriding philosophy should not be to allow the price system to ration oil products, but to maintain a government regulatory framework which will attempt to keep prices down and thereby moderate the effect on American consumers of higher fuel prices.

I favor a strong system of price controls—which allows increases in prices only in return for guaranteed increases in domestic oil production. Only in this way will we be able to ensure that if prices go up, the American consumer will get something of benefit in return.

In addition, I am convinced that rationing is the best available, short-term way of reducing the demand for petroleum products. And while rationing might involve some immediate dislocations, it certainly seems fairer than hitting the American consumer for additional billions of dollars a year.

But the administration appears reluctant to take the needed steps to control demand in this fashion. Instead, it seems intent upon using increasing prices to increase production—a tactic which, I believe, should only be allowed when we require the reinvestment of profits in domestic exploration and production of oil.

What the cost of living council has done is to allow $1-a-barrel more for domestically controlled oil without demanding anything from the major oil companies in return. As a result, consumers will be paying higher prices with no firm guarantee that increased production in this country will result.

When Congress reconvenes in January, this question will be uppermost in the minds of many senators and representatives. I am hopeful that we will be able to arrive at a just energy policy for the consumers of this nation.

On Jan. 12, 1909, Orville and Wilbur Wright sold their patent rights to the General Aerial Navigation Company of France for $100,000 and an interest in the company.

Avoid Predicaments . . .

Shape Up or Skiing Can Get You Down

Skiers should get into shape before taking to the slopes this winter to assure a safer ski season, according to Dr. Jack End, Medical Director of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, Milwaukee.

A veteran ski patrol member and health expert for the nation's seventh largest life insurer, Dr. End estimates that this season more than 200,000 skiers in the U.S. will take tumbles serious enough to cause a fracture, sprain or cut – that's roughly one per 1,000 skiing hours.

There will be increased emphasis this season on campaigns to curb skiing beyond one's capability (the greatest cause of dangerous falls), Dr. End notes, but he adds that physical conditioning can be a big help in building the strength and stamina to pull out of those predicaments a skier is bound to get into.

His exercise program for a safe and enjoyable ski season calls for:

- Leg lifts and situps that condition the abdomen to handle the bumps common to ski slopes.
- Walking up and down stairs (most effective when walking down backwards) to limber up and to condition the temperamental Achilles tendon.
- Toe stands and half knee bends to guard against the skier's most common malady—knee and ankle injury.

Dr. End also emphasizes endurance type activities that put stress on the heart and lungs such as swimming, cycling, jogging and running. His year around daily routine includes rising at 5:45 a.m. to run 2½ miles.

And, at Northwestern Mutual, the 55-year-old physician spurns the use of elevators and runs up and down the stairs that lead to his seventh floor office.

Area sports fans will be treated, in the true sense of the word, to four basketball games in the closely matched Northland community college holiday tournament which begins tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. and concludes Thursday afternoon starting at 2 o'clock.

With Arctic Cat, Inc., sponsoring the two-day four-team event, fans will be admitted free of charge to all four games involving MCCAA member schools Northland, Rainy River, Waseca and North Hennepin.

Attendance at Northland basketball games has picked up considerably since the Northmen moved into their own gymnasium facility last year. With Northland currently in the midst of its most successful season ever, crowds have swelled to near capacity on several occasions and the fans have never left the building disappointed. Northland's exciting fast break offense keeps everyone's attention throughout the 40 minutes of fast paced action. Free admittance should make the tournament that much more attractive to the fans.

"From a spectator's stand-point, it should be a real good, closely matched tournament," pointed out Northland head coach Chet Engelman. "All four games should be very close. If anyone runs away with any game I'll be very surprised."

Engelman accepts the role of pre-tournament favorite, but expects any of the four competing teams to field championship-contending squads. "Sure, we'll take the favorite's role and see what we can do with it, but everyone is coming here to win the thing and nobody can be counted out."

The Northland squad hasn't had a full practice since the holiday vacation break began December 19. "We'll be tired and stiff, no doubt, said Engelman. "But we'll still plan on running with the ball and try to score a bunch of points."

The well balanced Northland starting line-up will probably include 6-0 freshman Dave Dickey and 6-2 freshman Bill Gusa at guards, 6-2 freshman Ralph Fitts and 6-2 sophomore Tom Kays at forwards and 6-4 freshman Burnie Stephens at center. Boasting a strong bench, other Northland players expected to get in extended playing time include freshmen Joe Brown, Dave Kjos and Mike Peterson. Brown and Kjos could possibly fit into the starting unit.

—O—

A pair of former region eight stand-outs, Tom Evans of Detroit Lakes and Alan Hangsleben of Warroad, lead the University of North Dakota hockey team in scoring.

Evans, a freshman right winger, tops the Sioux scoring charts with five goals and ten assists for 15 points in 16 games. Hangsleben, a junior All-American defenseman, has scored five goals and nine assists for 14 points.

Tom Goddard, a 1973 Lincoln high school graduate, has played in all 16 UND games, collecting two points on a goal and an assist.

—O—

—O—

Thief River Falls was rated 19th in the latest state hockey poll published in the weekly "Lets Play Hockey" newsletter. The state-wide publication listed Edina East number one with Roseau ranked 11th.

NCC Cage Meet Begins Tonight

Northland community college will play host to its first annual holiday basketball tournament beginning tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the Northland gymnasium.

Tonight's first round games initiating the Arctic Invitational meet will find a tall Rainy River quint from International Falls squaring off against a quick North Hennepin five from Brooklyn Center at 7 p.m. while a husky Waseca team goes against the fast breaking Northland squad at 9 o'clock.

The two day tournament will conclude Thursday with the first round losers meeting in the consolation game at 2 p.m. while the first round winners clash in the championship contest at 4 o'clock.

Sponsored by Arctic Cat, Inc., the Northland tournament will feature free admission for all four games.

Coached by Chet Engelman, the host Northland squad will enter the tournament as the pre-meet favorite with the first round Northland opponent, Waseca, expected to form the toughest road block to the title trophy. Rainy River rates as the tournament darkhorse while North Hennepin also figures into the championship picture.

Employing an entertaining fast break offense, Northland has raced to an impressive 6-1 record to date, losing only to highly regarded Lake Region 73-70. Northland wins have been posted over the alumni 103-81, Trinity 104-98 and 117-83, Mayville junior varsity 103-79, Inver Hills 100-84 and Crookston Tech 83-72 in an MCCAA Northwest Division game.

Northland's high scoring offense has averaged 97 points per game this winter with the Northmen breaking the 100 point barrier five times in seven starts. Without relying on defensive exploits, Northland has still managed to outscore its opposition 679 to 569 with seven opponents averaging 81.3 points per game.

DNR Reports 460 Moose Were Shot in 1973 Season

The split season was held from September 22 to October 7 and from December 8 to 16. Permits were issued on a drawing basis to 520 hunting parties of four persons each.

In the previous season, held in 1971, 374 moose were taken by 400 parties.

Like the 1971 season, most of the moose taken this year were bulls—comprising 69 per cent of the total bag. Cows made up 23 per cent with the balance calves and yearlings.

Roger Holmes, DNR Game Supervisor, said he knew of four racks being entered in the Boone and Crockett competition, with the biggest one—a 62 inch spread and preliminary score of 196 points—having a good chance of placing.

Hunters will have to await passage of new legislation before they can hunt moose again, Holmes said.

Dealers Advised About Licenses For Snowmobiles

Department of natural resources has sent a letter to boat and snowmobile dealers instructing them to refuse to accept license applications from buyers and to direct the new owners to deputy registrars.

Joe Alexander, assistant commissioner, said some dealers have been accepting applictions for licenses and advising customers that they can operate without a permit or license until they receive their license from the DNR's License Center.

"This is contrary to the law," he said.

Alexander explained that no one may operate a boat or snowmobile without having either a valid license and number or a permit.

Deputy registrars are authorized to accept applications and furnish permits to operate for 30 days while the DNR is processing the license application. Boat and snowmobile dealers are not authorized to issue these permits, Alexander said.

"Since the boat and snowmobile owner will be operating in violation of the law without a license or permit and must pay the penalty if apprehended, he must assume the responsibility of making sure he has the proper permit or license," he said.

State Residents Are Eligible For Flood Insurance

All Minnesotans who live within flood-prone areas are eligible for flood insurance, providing the county or community in which they reside has elected to participate in the program.

The department of natural resources reported that premium rates are subsidized by the federal government in order to reduce costs to those seeking insurance.

Gene Gere, director of waters, soils and minerals for the DNR, said rates on existing structures in the flood plain are 25 cents per $100 of insurance, or $25 annual premium on a structure insured for $10,000.

To date, said Gere, only 18 counties and 45 communities have chosen to participate in the program.

"There is no cost to the county or community," he said, "only the requirement that they do the necessary paper work."

He said the objections they have received from counties and communities who do not want to take part involve the paper work requirement and opposition t the land use controls designed to guide building of new structures in flood plains.

A state law, enacted in 1973, requires counties and communities in flood prone areas to enroll in the flood insurance program, however, said Gere, many are "dragging their feet".

In the past, insurance has not been available to protect home owners against the threat of flooding. Under the new federal program, single family homes can be insured for up to $17,500 and all other structures up to $30,000. The contents of each structure or unit can be insured for up to $5,000.

Gere pointed out that floods are fairly common in Minnesota. Severe losses were sustained in 1965, 1966, 1969 and 1972 as well as in several earlier years.

During the first week in December, the DNR notified county board chairmen and mayors of flood prone communities that they must take the necessary steps to enroll their respective governments in the program, in accordance with the new law.

Gere said citizens in areas subject to flooding should contact their community or county officials to see what steps have been taken to qualify for the program.

Federal Cutback Reduces Funds For Archeology

Cutback in federal-aid highway financing, together with deferment of highway improvements previously scheduled, has reduced the budget of the Minnesota trunk highway archeological survey from $69,000 in 1972 to $25,000 in 1973.

Federal funds ordinarily account for some 70 per cent of the costs of the program, charged with identifying and investigating archeological discoveries on present or prospective trunk highway right of way. Searches are made in advance of any construction that might damage or destroy relics of historical or scientific significance.

Whenever historical or prehistorical finds are uncovered that are likely to be lost through highway construction, there are three alternatives available to the Minnesota highway department at the discretion of the Minnesota historical society.

If the find is of minimal interpretive value, found to be badly disturbed as a result of agricultural cultivation or other causes, or determined to be of little import, the society will recommend that the work proceed as planned.

The second alternative is to salvage the endangered discovery by means of a full-scale archeological excavation, funded jointly by the historical society and the Minnesota highway department. This affords the society new raw data for interpretation of Minnesota's past while permitting the road to be built on the best alignment.

The third alternative, when a find is too extensive or significant to be removed, is a recommendation by the historical society to preserve the site intact by altering the alignment of the roadway, as in the case of thee prehistoric Indian burial mounds standing beside TH 61 near Kellogg.

Generally, an archeological find must offer some significant contribution to the understanding and appraisal of our society or the culture of our prehistoric forebears in order to qualify for consideration. A discovery of bison bones, for example, would not be a find of archeological significance.

FARE Program Reduces Fatal Highway Mishaps

A dramatic reduction of fatal accidents occurred on selected segments of state trunk highways during hours when saturation patrols were in effect, a department of public safety study of the four-month fatal accident reduction enforcement (FARE) program this year reveals.

Involved were 1,200 miles of roadway, divided into 10-mile segments, on which 59 fatal accidents occurred in 1972. State Troopers were assigned to these segments this year during hours when the crashes occurred last year. One result is that only six fatal crashes occurred this year on these segments at the same hours. At other hours, during the program, 25 fatal crashes occurred.

The program, which was federally funded, included nearly four months of intensified enforcement activities, such as 26,000 hours in addition to the normal patrolling. Each segment received 21.7 hours of special patrolling plus the normal average of 4.4 hours. In other words, the selected segments got an increase of patrol attention of nearly 500 per cent.

Under federal guidelines, the total effect of the program was measured by counting all of the fatal crashes on state highways in the counties in which FARE patrols were operating, and comparing them with fatal crashes last year and with the 1970-72 average. This year's count at the close of the program was 90. Last year it was 124, and the three-year average was 112.

The program resulted in 17,347 additional contacts with motorists which included 10,633 hazardous violatons arrests.

Winterize Your Hair

Everybody knows that summer sun and the swim-and-dry routine are the original hair-wreckers. But did you know that one of the worst things for hair is winter? According to the experts at the Clairol Institute of Beauty, it seems that cold weather and overheated interiors combine to dry hair almost as efficiently as the summer sun. Needed: A beauty prescription to help troubled hair. One such—perhaps the best known—is condition* Beauty Pack Treatment, a deep-penetrating corrective conditioner. You use it weekly if your hair is very damaged, or once a month if your case is slight.

HELPING OUR WILDLIFE
OUR EARLY SETTLERS THOUGHT OF AMERICA AS THE LAND OF UNLIMITED WILDLIFE. BUT BY THE TURN OF THE CENTURY, WE BEGAN TO REALIZE GAME WAS A FINITE RESOURCE. THROUGH DESTRUCTION OF HABITAT AND LACK OF INTELLIGENT MANAGEMENT, OUR WILD BIRDS AND ANIMALS WERE IN TROUBLE.
HUNTER CONSERVATIONISTS SUCH AS THEODORE ROOSEVELT BEGAN TO CHANGE ALL THIS. THEY FOSTERED THE IDEA OF INTELLIGENT GAME MANAGEMENT. THROUGH THE PITTMAN-ROBERTSON ACT (A SPORTSMEN SUPPORTED EXCISE TAX ON FIREARMS AND AMMUNITION ESTABLISHED IN 1937), OVER $400,000,000 HAS GONE TO WILDLIFE RESEARCH AND MANAGEMENT.
TODAY, THANKS TO THE HUNTER, WE HAVE AGAIN LARGE POPULATIONS OF DEER, ANTELOPE, WILD TURKEY, ELK AND OTHER WILDLIFE. THE HUNTER HAS EARNED THE NAME "WILDLIFE CONSERVATIONIST."

Pursuant to Minnesota Laws of 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, Sec. 7, 1, Robert L. Herbst, Commissioner of Natural Resources for the State of Minnesota, hereby publish the text of Minnesota Statutes 1971, Sections 93.52 to 93.58, as amended and supplemented by Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, relating to the taxation and registration of minerals owned separately from the surface.

93.52 CLARIFICATION OF OWNERSHIP OF SEVERED MINERAL INTERESTS, VERIFIED STATEMENT AS TO INTERESTS. Subdivision 1. The purpose of sections 93.52 to 93.58 is to identify and clarify the obscure and divided ownership condition of severed mineral interests in this state. Because the ownership condition of many severed mineral interests is becoming more obscure and further fractionalized with the passage of time, the development of mineral interests in this state is often impaired. Therefore, it is in the public interest and serves a public purpose to identify and clarify these interests.

Subd. 2. Except as provided in subdivision 3, from and after January 1, 1970, every owner of a fee simple interest in minerals, hereafter referred to as a mineral interest, in lands in this state, which interest is owned separately from the fee title to the surface of the property upon or beneath which the mineral interest exists, shall file for record in the register of deeds office or, if registered property, in the registrar of titles office in the county where the mineral interest is located a verified statement citing sections 93.52 to 93.58 and setting forth his address, his interest in the minerals, and both (1) the legal description of the property upon or beneath which the interest exists, and (2) the book and page number or the document number, in the records of the register of deeds or registrar of titles, of the instrument by which the mineral interest is created or acquired. No statement may be filed for record which contains mineral interests from more than one government section unless the instrument by which the mineral interest is created or acquired includes mineral interests from more than one government section. The register of deeds and registrar of titles shall file with the county auditor a copy of each document so recorded within 60 days [illegible]

Subd. 3. Sections 93.52 to 93.58 do not apply to the following severed mineral interests: [illegible]

Nov. 7, Dec. 5, 1973, Jan. 2, 1974

Pursuant to Minnesota Laws of 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, Sec. 7, I, Robert L. Herbst, Commissioner of Natural Resources for the State of Minnesota, hereby publish the text of Minnesota Statutes 1971, Sections 93.52 to 93.58, as amended and supplemented by Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, relating to the taxation and registration of minerals owned separately from the surface.

93.52 CLARIFICATION OF OWNERSHIP OF SEVERED MINERAL INTERESTS, VERIFIED STATEMENT AS TO INTERESTS. Subdivision 1. The purpose of sections 93.52 to 93.58 is to identify and clarify the obscure and divided ownership condition of severed mineral interests in this state. Because the ownership condition of many severed mineral interests is becoming more obscure and further fractionalized with the passage of time, the development of mineral interests in this state is often impaired. Therefore, it is in the public interest and serves a public purpose to identify and clarify these interests.

Subd. 2. Except as provided in subdivision 3, from and after January 1, 1970, every owner of a fee simple interest in minerals, hereafter referred to as a mineral interest, in lands in this state, which interest is owned separately from the fee title to the surface of the property upon or beneath which the mineral interest exists, shall file for record in the register of deeds office or, if registered property, in the registrar of titles office in the county where the mineral interest is located a verified statement citing sections 93.52 to 93.58 and setting forth his address, his interest in the minerals, and both (1) the legal description of the property upon or beneath which the interest exists, and (2) the book and page number or the document number, in the records of the register of deeds or registrar of titles, of the instrument by which the mineral interest is created or acquired. No statement may be filed for record which contains mineral interests from more than one government section unless the instrument by which the mineral interest is created or acquired includes mineral interests from more than one government section. The register of deeds and registrar of titles shall file with the county auditor a copy of each document so recorded within 60 days after recording in the office of register of deeds or registrar of titles

Subd. 3. Sections 93.52 to 93.58 do not apply to the following owners of mineral interests: The United States of America, the state of Minnesota, and any American Indian tribe or band owning reservation lands in this state.

93.55 (FAILURE TO FILE OR RE-FILE.) If the owner of a mineral interest fails to file the verified statement required by section 93.52, before January 1, 1975, as to any interests owned on or before December 31, 1973, or within one year after acquiring such interests as to interests acquired after December 31, 1973, and not previously filed under section 93.52, interest shall forfeit to the state. Thereafter the mineral interest may be leased in the same manner as provided in Minnesota Statutes, Section 93.335, for the lease of minerals and mineral rights becoming the absolute property of the state under the tax laws, except that no permit or lease issued pursuant to this section shall afford the permittee or lessee any of the rights of condemnation provided in section 93.05, as to overlying surface interests. After the mineral interest has forfeited to the state pursuant to this section, a person claiming an ownership interest before the forfeiture may recover the fair market value of the interest, only in the following manner. An action must be commenced within six years after the forfeiture under this section to determine the ownership and the fair market value of the mineral interests in the property both at the time of forfeiture and at the time of bringing the action. The action shall be brought in the manner provided in Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 559, for an action to determine adverse claims, to the extent applicable. The person bringing the action shall serve notice of the action on the commissioner of natural resources in the same manner as is provided for service of notice of the action on a defendant. The commissioner may appear and contest the allegations of ownership and value in the same manner as a defendant in such actions. Persons determined by the court to be owners of the interests at the time of forfeiture to the state under this section may present to the state auditor a verified claim for refund of the fair market value of the interest. A copy of the court's decree shall be attached to the claim. Thereupon the state auditor shall refund to the claimant the fair market value at the time of forfeiture or at the time of bringing the action, whichever is lesser, less any taxes, penalties, costs, and interest which could have been collected during the period following the forfeiture under this section, had the interest in minerals been valued and assessed for tax purposes at the time of forfeiture under this section. There is appropriated from the general fund to the persons entitled to a refund an amount sufficient to pay the refund. The forfeiture provisions of this section do not apply to mineral interests valued and taxed under other laws relating to the taxation of minerals, gas, coal, oil, or other similar interests, so long as a tax is imposed and no forfeiture under the tax laws is complete. However, if the mineral interest is valued under other tax laws, but no tax is imposed, the mineral interest forfeits under this section if not filed as required by this section.

93.58 (PUBLICATION OF ACT.) Sections 93.52 to 93.58, as amended or repealed by this article, together with the other sections of Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, shall be published once during the first week of each month in a legal newspaper in each county in the months of October, November, and December of the year 1973 by the commissioner of natural resources at county expense. Sections 93.52 to 93.58 also shall be published by the commissioner of natural resources at least once in 1973 in two publications related to mining activities which have nationwide circulation. Failure to publish as herein provided shall not affect the validity of sections 93.52 to 93.58 or the other sections of Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX.

(273.039) (LEGISLATIVE FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS RELATED TO THE TAXATION OF MINERALS OWNED SEPARATELY FROM THE SURFACE.) The legislature finds, for the reasons stated below, that a class of real property has been created which, although not exempt from taxation, is not assessed for tax purposes and does not, therefore, contribute anything toward the cost of supporting the governments which protect and preserve the continued existence of the property. These reasons are as follows: (1) In the case of Washburn v. Gregory, 1914, 125 Minn. 491, 147 N.W. 706, the Minnesota Supreme Court determined that where mineral interests are owned separately from the surface interests in real estate, the mineral interest is a separate interest in land, separately taxable, and does not forfeit if the overlying surface interest forfeits for non payment of taxes due on the surface interest; (2) Since this 1914 decision, mineral interests owned separately from the surface have been valued and assessed for tax purposes, as a practical matter, only if the value of the minerals has been determined through drilling and drill core analysis; and (3) The absence of any taxation of mineral interests owned separately from the surface, except where drilling analysis is available, has encouraged the separation of ownership of surface and mineral estates and resulted in the creation of hundreds of thousands of acres of untaxed mineral estate lands which thus are immune from tax forfeiture. The legislature also finds that the province of Ontario in Canada, which has land ownership patterns and mineral characteristics similar to that of Minnesota, has imposed a tax of $.50 an acre on minerals owned separately from the surface since 1968, and $.10 an acre before that. The legislature further finds that the identification of separately owned mineral interests by taxing authorities requires title searches which are extremely burdensome and, where no public tract index is available, prohibitively expensive. This result is caused in part by the decision in Wichelman v. Messner, 1957, 250 Minn. 88, 83 N.W. (2d) 800, where the so called "40 year law" was held inapplicable to mineral interests owned separately from surface interests. On the basis of the above findings, and for the purpose of requiring mineral interests owned separately from surface interests to contribute to the cost of government at a time when other interests in real property are heavily burdened with real property taxes, the legislature concludes that the taxation of severed mineral interests as provided in section 273.13, subdivision 2a, is necessary and in the public interest, and provides fair taxation of a class of real property which has escaped taxation for many years. The legislature further concludes that such a tax is not prohibited by Minnesota Constitution, Article 10. The legislature concludes finally that the amendments and repeals made by Laws 1973, Chapter 650, to Minnesota Statutes, Sections 93.52 to 93.58, are necessary to provide adequate identification of mineral interests owned separately from the surface and to prevent the continued escape from taxation of obscure and fractionalized severed mineral interests. (Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, Section 1.)

273.04 (MINERAL, GAS, COAL AND OIL OWNED APART FROM LAND, SPACE ABOVE AND BELOW SURFACE.) Subdivision 1. When any mineral, gas, coal, oil, or other similar interests in real estate are owned separately and apart from and independently of the rights and interests owned in the surface of such real estate, such mineral, gas, coal, oil, or other similar interests may be assessed and taxed separately from such surface rights and interests in such real estate, including but not limited to the taxation provided in section 273.13, subdivision 2a, and may be sold for taxes in the same manner and with the same effect as other interests in real estate are sold for taxes. (Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, Section 2.)

(273.13) Subd. 2a. (CLASS 1b.) "Mineral interest", for the purpose of this subdivision, means an interest in any minerals, including but not limited to gas, coal, oil, or other similar interest in real estate, which is owned separately and apart from the fee title to the surface of such real property. Mineral interests which are filed for record in the offices of either the register of deeds or registrar of titles pursuant to Minnesota Statutes, Sections 93.52 to 93.58, constitute class 1b, and shall be taxed as provided in this subdivision unless specifically excluded by this subdivision. A tax of $.25 per acre or portion of an acre of mineral interest is hereby imposed and is due and payable annually. If an interest filed, pursuant to sections 93.52 to 93.58 is a fractional undivided interest in an area, the tax due on the interest per acre or portion of an acre is equal to the product obtained by multiplying the fractional interest times $.25, computed to the nearest cent. However, the minimum annual tax on any mineral interest is $2. No such tax on mineral interests is due and payable on the following: (a) Mineral interests valued and taxed under other laws relating to the taxation of minerals, gas, coal, oil, or other similar interests; (b) Mineral interests which are exempt from taxation pursuant to constitutional or related statutory provisions. Tax money received under this subdivision shall be apportioned to the taxing districts included in the area taxed in the same proportion as the surface interest mill rate of a taxing district bears to the total mill rate applicable to surface interests in the area taxed. The tax imposed by this subdivision is not included within any limitations as to rate or amount of taxes which may be imposed in an area to which the tax applies. The tax imposed by this subdivision shall not cause the amount of other taxes levied or to be levied in the area, which are subject to any such limitation, to be reduced in any amount whatsoever. The tax imposed by this section is effective for taxing years beginning January 1, 1973. Twenty percent of the revenues received from the tax imposed by this section shall be distributed under the provisions of section 362.40 (Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, Section 3.)

(362.40) (LOANS TO INDIANS LIVING ON AND OFF RESERVATION.) Subdivision 1. For purposes of this section the following terms shall have the meanings ascribed to them herein.

Subd. 2. "Indian" means a person of one quarter or more Indian blood.

Subd. 3. "Census" means the most recent census taken by the Minnesota department of manpower services.

Subd. 4. "Reservation residents" means Indians living on reservations at the time of the census.

Subd. 5. "Nonreservation residents" means Indians living off reservations in Minnesota at the time of the census, and who are enrolled members of a Minnesota based tribe or band.

Subd. 6. "Person" means an individual Indian, or a partnership comprising Indians only, or a corporation whose stock is owned wholly by Indians.

Subd. 7. "Tribal council" means the reservation business committee or equivalent duly constituted tribal authority.

Subd. 8. The remaining 20 percent of the tax revenue received by the county auditor under section 273.13, subdivision 2a shall be remitted by the county auditor to the state treasurer and shall be deposited in the general fund in special accounts identified as "reservation residents loan accounts" and a "nonreservation residents loan account". The amount to be credited to each reservation residents loan account shall be that percentage of the amount received from all the counties pursuant to subdivision 8 as the number of Indians living on such reservation bears to all the Indians in Minnesota, according to the census. The amount remaining shall be credited to the non reservation residents loan account. The amounts credited to each of these special accounts shall be used solely for making loans to Indians, in the manner provided by subdivisions 9 and 10.

Subd. 9. [illegible]

Subd. 10. [illegible]

Subd. 11. Loans made under subdivisions 9 and 10 shall be limited to a period of 30 years, if made for the purpose of financing nonreal estate purchases. Loans made for the purpose of financing real estate purchases, where such real property is to be used for nonresidential purposes only, shall be limited to a period of 40 years, and shall be a lien on the real property so acquired.

Subd. 12. Any person misrepresenting facts regarding the Indian ancestry of a prospective borrower for the purpose of securing a loan under subdivisions 9 and 10, whether such borrower be an individual, partnership or corporation, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

Subd. 13. The county auditor shall remit the tax revenue received yearly to the state treasurer as required by subdivision 8 no later than December 15.

Subd. 14. There is appropriated annually an amount equal to the tax revenue allotted under subdivisions 9 and 10. (Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, Section 4.)

LAWS 1973, CHAPTER 650, ARTICLE XX, SEC. 8. (SEVERABILITY.) If any provision of sections 1 through 7 of Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX or the application thereof to any person, agency, department or circumstance is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of Laws 1973, Chapter 650, which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of sections 1 through 7 are severable.

LAWS 1973, CHAPTER 650, ARTICLE XX, SEC. 10. (EFFECTIVE DATE.) Except for section 7, (Minn. St., Sec. 93.58), which is effective upon final enactment, Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX is effective as of January 1, 1974. As soon as possible after final enactment but before the effective date of Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX, the register of deeds and registrar of titles in each county shall file with the county auditor a copy of each document recorded pursuant to Minnesota Statutes, Sections 93.52 to 93.58, before the effective date of Laws 1973, Chapter 650, Article XX.

Economist Predicts Economic Expansion To Run Out Of Gas

As a result of the energy crisis, the current economic expansion is expected to run out of gas in 1974.

That's the sobering projection of Metropolitan life insurance company's senior vice president and economist, Dr. Charles Moeller, who believes that any gain in gross national product will be due to inflation and that real G.N.P. for the full year 1974 could be slightly negative.

This disappointing outlook—based upon the expectation of a continuing oil boycott—represents a downward revision from a $1,385 billion G.N.P. to a G.N.P. of $1,360 billion and a drop from a two per cent rate of real growth forecast just prior to the deterioration of the Middle East situation.

The report notes that about two-fifths of energy consumption is accounted for by industry and points out that significant cutbacks here would affect output, jobs and income.

CONSUMER SPENDING—After three consecutive years of strong growth, consumer spending is expected to slow its pace in 1974. This year, expenditures by consumers for all goods and services advanced about 10 ½ per cent over last year, but the outlook for 1974 is for a gain of only six per cent. Following strong expansion in 1973, durables may show no increase in 1974. Nondurables chalked up a 12 per cent increase this year, but a rise nearer 6 ½ per cent is expected in 1974. Consumer outlays for services are expected to grow by 7 ½ per cent compared with 9 per cent in 1973.

INCOMES—Personal income crossed the trillion dollar mark in 1973 and should record a gain of ten per cent for the full year. The rate of growth will be somewhat slower next year, with a 7 ½ per cent gain carrying this key indicator over $1,110 billion.

BUSINESS INVESTMENT—Business fixed investment in new plant and equipment has been exceptionally strong in 1973, up more than 15 per cent. A slower pace of investment is likely in 1974, with total capital spending expected to increase 7 ½ per cent. Corporate profits before taxes jumped 28 per cent in 1973, with a substantial part of the increase due to inventory profits. The latter will not be as large in 1974, and total profits are expected to be off about eight per cent.

RESIDENTIAL CONSTRUCTION—After two years of exceptional growth, housing starts declined to 2.1 million units in 1973 from the record 2.4 million units started in 1972. However, dollar outlays increased by more than nine per cent in 1973. The slowdown in residential construction already underway is expected to continue into 1974, making this sector one of the weakest in the economy. Outlays for the full year 1974 are likely to decline six per cent to less than $56 billion, with private housing starts dipping to about 1.7 million units.

GOVERNMENT SECTOR—Next year, for the first time since 1968, purchases of goods and services by all levels of government are expected to rise faster than total G.N.P.—ten per cent vs about 5 ½ per cent. These purchases will account for 22 per cent of G.N.P.—slightly below the post-World War II high set in 1968.

While neither higher income tax rates nor tax reform are presently anticipated for 1974, Social Security taxes are scheduled to rise again as the earnings base upon which the tax is levied jumps from $10,800 to at least $12,600. "Such expansions of the government pension program," says Dr. Moeller, "point up the very pressing need to maintain a reasonable balance between public and private efforts, and to continue the cost-accountable method of financing the public pension system."

THE INFLATION PROBLEM—Price pressures in 1973, resulting from the tremendous demand for American goods and services both at home and abroad, created a complex problem. Of immediate significance is the high price that will have to be paid for energy to both our foreign sources of oil and for alternative sources of fuel. These increases will permeate all areas of the economy and, under such conditions, say the economists, the elimination of price controls probably would be desirable if the economy is to avoid even more serious distortions and dislocations resulting from attempts to hold prices at unrealistic levels.

LABOR MARKET OUTLOOK—The U.S. labor force next year will probably average 82 million workers. The unemployed proportion of the civilian workforce may reach six per cent, a considerable rise from 1973, as fuel-related problems interfere with industrial output and business activity.

The one favorable aspect of the oil shortage is that it occurred now when the United States is only moderately dependent upon foreign energy sources rather than several years from now when dependence upon foreign oil sources is expected to be substantially greater. Hopefully, says metropolitan life's business economics department, it has focused the attention of the nation on these future developments and accelerated reaction time to attacking this problem through more efficient utilization of domestic energy resources and the development of the new sources and technology that are essential if the United States is to remain a viable economy with an improving standard of living.

Wisc. Feeder Pig Co-op Reports Record Returns

Dr. Norbert Dahlke, general manager of Wisconsin feeder pig marketing cooperative, has announced that $111,443.86 has been allocated in cash returns to members for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1973.

This figure represents the highest per pig and the largest percentage cash allocation in the co-op's 17 year history. For every pig marketed through the co-op during the past year, member-producers will get a cash return of approximately 90 cents per pig.

The cash returns will be paid to member-producers at "District" meetings being held throughout the co-op's four state area of operations during January.

Wisconsin feeder pig marketing co-op marketed 509,000 feeder pigs during its fiscal year. Sales for this period were $10,899,000.00.

"Feeder pigs sold at the highest level in the history of the cooperative, reflecting the general economic level," says Dr. Dahlke. "The pigs were well accepted by hog feeders nationwide—a tribute to the quality of the pigs produced by Wisconsin and Minnesota members."

Dr. Dahlke also commented that the cooperative expects the next year to be a very good one for its producers, although the average price per pig will be somewhat lower. "The volume of pigs handled should surpass preceding years," he added.

The organization's year end financial report also shows that the co-op is debt free.

The co-op markets feeder pigs through private treaty and a regular program of graded feeder pig sales throughout its area of operations.

Co-op feeder pig sales programs are in operation at Lancaster and Monticello, Wis., Oakes, N.D., Sauk Centre and Rushford, Minn. A new sales barn at Perham is presently under construction. The co-op also has feeder pig sales programs in conjunction with equity cooperative livestock association at Johnson Creek, Richland Center, and Ripon, Wis.

Wisconsin feeder pig marketing co-op has its main headquarters at Francis Creek, Wis. and Minnesota division headquarters at Sauk Centre.

Task Of Highway Department Is Rebuilding Roads

At the beginning of 1973, public roads in Minnesota—including municipal streets, township roads and county roads, as well as state trunk highways—numbered 128,064 miles.

State trunk highways accounted for only 9 percent of the public roads mileage in Minnesota, or 12,141 miles. State trunk highways—including interstate freeways—are the only public roads built and maintained by the Minnesota highway department.

From January of 1967, to the beginning of 1973, there were 1,679 miles of new public roads built in Minnesota, 93 per cent of them built by municipalities, townships and counties. Only seven per cent of them, or 119 miles, were built by the Minnesota highway department. "New" public roads are defined as those not previously existing.

Today, the Minnesota highway department's primary task is to rebuild wornout, unsafe and restricted farm-to-market trunk highways—existing routes orginally constructed some 40 years ago for the needs and vehicles of that era. As yet no practicable alternatives are at hand.

With 89 percent of the interstate system completed or under construction in Minnesota, relatively few additional miles of new public roads remain to be built by the state in the foreseeable future, the highway department reports.

Slow down and live.

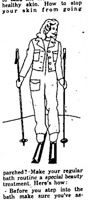
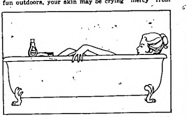
Facing Winter

NEW YORK (ED)—Winter's great for cold weather sports—skiing, tobogganing, even a brisk romp around the block to wake up those hot house bones. Unfortunately, while you're having fun outdoors, your skin may be crying "mercy" from the cold dry air.





There's nothing like winter to take the moisture out of healthy skin. How to stop your skin from going parched? Make your regular bath routine a special beauty treatment. Here's how:

- Before you step into the bath make sure you've assembled the necessary ingredients first. There's nothing worse than stepping out of a tub wet and cold, only to find your towels are out of reach. You'll need a good washcloth or sponge, a long-handled brush to scrub your back, and a warm luxurious towel. The bath is also the perfect place to defuzz legs and work on eyebrows—so you might include a razor (non-electric), tweezer and magnifying mirror.

While the bath is being drawn add a pure bath oil concentrate like Sardo to the water. It's a therapeutic bath oil that'll help relieve flaky, itchy, extra dry skin caused by exposure to winter's frost. (Your face is not the only feature that needs moisturizing!) The final step: pamper your psyche . . . that is, relax, lie back in the tub and think marvelous thoughts! Including a prettier you.

The number one rule for looking great all the time is healthy skin. This winter you won't have to stay indoors to keep your skin glowing. Now you know the secret!

Thought For The Day . . .

Had you thought, as you watched the old year depart and the new year enter, that Monday could have marked the end of time and the beginning of eternity in addition to dividing the old year from the new?

God is the author of time as well as the creator of this universe and all that is in it. As you look at God's great universe with all its greatness and vastness you become aware of the fact that God is a God of extravagance. God did not create but one lake, hill, valley, mountain, river, tree, flower, bird, animal or fish; He created these things in abundance.

There is one commodity, however, that God was not extravagant with; that commodity is time. God gives us only one moment at a time. Life at its best is very brief. Time is life's most perishable commodity, therefore it is imperative that we use it to benefit the lives of others and to bless the name of our Lord. Think: "And the angel .....sware by Him that liveth for ever and ever, ...that there should be time no longer:" Rev. 10:5&6.

Rev. J.L. Hagemeister
Assemblies Of God Tabernacle

Almost Enough . . .

Two professional football playoff games on Sunday...a national championship college football game on Monday night...and three or four bowl games on Tuesday left us almost a little football weary. For fans of the sport, however, the football action is great entertainment.

Perhaps more than any other popular sport, except basketball, football is ideally suited to television. The ball is large enough to be seen quite readily, the action can be followed quite well, and even when a play is piled up at the line an isolated camera or two can give a new dimension through an instant replay.

Hockey broadcasts are almost a total waste because the puck is small, a wide view distorts the play and a close view destroys the perspective. Even in slow motion it is almost impossible to follow the puck which is traveling at a high rate of speed.

Action is easy to follow in baseball, but again the size of the ball is a detriment to television viewing. And although action may be dramatic, the game is often slow from one inning to the next. If a pitcher proceeds to strike out the side, how many slow-motion instant replays does a person want to see of a guy throwing a baseball?

But football is a different matter. Perhaps it is the thrill of contact, the uncertainty of performance, the immediancy of a turn-around in advantage that keeps the viewer in suspense. Whatever it is, we enjoy watching the game immensely.

There may be a few too many "bowl" games during the year, but they give more teams an opportunity for post-season travel and play and individual players more exposure to professional football scouts. About the only bowl missing is a match-up of the two poorest teams in the country in the "Wash Bowl" with the loser to be scrubbed.

Now it's on to the Super Bowl with the Minnesota Vikings, and we wish them well as they battle the Miami Dolphins. But seven football games in the past three days are almost enough...

Lawmaker Lombardi

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

The fact that he is the son and namesake of the late great Green Bay Packer football coach undoubtedly helped State Representative Vince Lombardi win election to the legislature, but he won't be needing that help much longer. The young lawmaker is making quite a name for himself these days.

Most recently Lombardi took a sharp shot at the cost of operating the Minnesota legislature. He pointed out that while the state office building is being remodelled to provide legislative offices plans are being made for a new legislative office building. He terms this "irresponsible behavior" and we are strongly inclined to agree with him.

In addition, he is critical of an added expense whereby lawmakers can charge up to $360 annually in long distance calls without making any accounting of who was called or for what purpose. He says this will cost the state almost $50,000 while the remodeling will hit the taxpayers for over half a million.

It seems to us totally ridiculous to spend half a million dollars remodelling one office building and at the same time making plans for a new one to replace it. By the same token, we see no reason why credit cards should be issued to lawmakers when a watts line is available to them in the capitol building.

This is the type of thing, combined with spiraling costs of increased staffs in the executive branch, that leads to an unbearable burden on the taxpayers of the state. Needed expenditures alone are enough to become a real burden without throwing a lot of state money away on unnecessary frills.

We think Lombardi should be commended for the position he has taken and we sincerely hope he will continue to be a watchdog of the treasury. With liberals now in control of practically all departments of state government, the taxpayers certainly need one.

View From The Ambulance

Following was written by a Poughkepsie, N.Y., man who is concerned about people's lack of use of restraining devices in their automobiles:

I've been reading with avid interst the vociferous complaining by many of your readers against the new seat-belt interlocking system.

As I compose this letter in my mind, the siren of our ambulance is wailing, momentarily drowning out my thoughts. I am in the back of the ambulance trying to keep alive a man we have just pulled from the wreckage of a serious collision.

I've been an officer with our Rescure Squad for a number of years, and I have spent all too many hours hearing the screams, wiping the blood and trying to keep alive those people who, for convenience or comfort's sake, didn't bother wearing their seat belts.

My partner and I are giving external cardiac massage to this middle-aged man who has just had a heart attack as a result of this accident. His wife was killed instantly at the scene when she was thrown from the car. We didn't tell him she was dead, but if he recovers, he'll find out.

Before he lapsed into unconsciousness he told me he was driving south in the parkway, observing the speed limit, when another car pulled out of a side road and hit his car broadside. He lost control and slammed into a tree. He kept repeating over and over, "It wasn't my fault, it wasn't my fault." So many of them say that and mean it. But what does it matter? They suffer anyway.

When I think of how many people I have bandaged and splinted for injuries that never would have happened if they were wearing shoulder and lap belts, it makes me sick.

The real problem seems to be the "It won't happen to me" attitude. I have never met anyone who isn't a "good driver." They jut don't belive that they will ever have an automobile accident.

The emergency rooms are filled with these "good drivers." They don't realize that the human body can't take the slam of the steering wheel into the chest or the ripping and tearing of broken glass at the face.

I have heard all the arguments against the mandatory use of seat belts. The one that really gives me a laugh is the one that goes "They have no right to tell me how to drive my car." I'd like to know where in the Constitution or Bill of Rights it says that the American citizen has the inalienable right to propel a 4,000-pound steel missile filled with 20 gallons of volatile fuel at speed of 70 or 80 miles per hour, in any way he chooses.

Driving a car is a privilege which requires certain conditions. One of the conditions must be protection from injury for the occupants in a collision. Seat and shoulder belts, at this time, offer the best method for this protection.

People must be made to realize that riding in a car at today's highway speeds is not like sitting in their living rooms at home. It is dangerous to anyone, good driver or not. If a man's wife or chilren mean anything at all to him, he won't pull that car out of the driveway without having them securely buckled in their seats. If he has any doubts, let him spend a Saturday night with his local ambulance squad. That will wake him up.

And, by the way, that business of being "trapped in the car by seat belts," is pure nonsense.

Borrowed Nonsense

A wife yelled at her husband, "There are more than 100 empty whisky bottles in the closet! Where do they all come from?"

"Don't ask me," the husband replied. "I never bought an empty whisky bottle in my life."

"Mother, I'm the best-looking boy in my class."

"Why, Tommy, who told you that."

Interesting Opinions

"...by calling attention to a well-regulated militia for the security of the nation, and the right of each citizen to keep and bear arms, our founding fathers recognized the essentially civilian nature of our economy. Although it is extremely unlikely that the fears of governmental tyranny, which gave rise to the Second Amendment, will ever be a major danger to our nation, the amendment still remains an important declaration of our basic military-civilian relationships, in which every citizen must be ready to participate in the defense of his country. For that reason I believe the Second Amendment will always be important."

Ed McMahon, killer—In "Slaughter's Big Rip-Off," Ed McMahon of the NBC-TV Tonight Show depicts one of the most brilliant and savage gang leaders America has ever known. The even more exciting sequel, "Slaughter's Big Rip-Off," opens Wednesday, Jan. 2 at the Galaxy Twin Theatre.

CARROLL BAKER JEAN SOREL
THE SWEET body of deborah

notes from the governor

In my "State of the State" adress to the Minnesota Legislature a year ago I urged our lawmakers to adopt a "tough, practical, enforceable" law dealing with disclosure of campaign contributions.

"Every one of us who has ever campaigned knows that there is a deadly cancer infection our free election system—the way we are forced to finance our political campaigns," I said at that time.

Minnesota has had a law dealing with disclosure of campaign financial information since 1895. But this law, because of major loopholes, has proven virtually useless.

The 1973 Legislature did not act on the campaign financing bill, thus leaving the existing 1895 law essentially unchanged. Our legislators did, however, debate the legislation at length, and they have engaged in intensive consideration of the bill in the months since last spring.

This past week a campaign disclosure bill that I strongly support took a major step forward when it was passed by the Senate Governmental Operations Committee. The bill has already won committee approval in the House and awaits action there on the floor.

The bill must still be acted upon by other Senate committees. But I am confident that the remaining differences can be resolved without major difficulty, and that the Legislature will approve the measure early in its 1974 session.

The proposed legislation contains several basic provisions that I consider essential. It would place limits on spending by candidates for public office; allow for partial public financing of political campaigns through a voluntary $1 check-off on state income tax returns, and place strict requrements on disclosure of all campaign contributions over fixed amounts. In addition, the bill would establish a permanent ethics commission to guard against conflicts of interest and other irregularities by any employee of state government.

The methods by which American political campaigns have been financed have needed major reform for many, many years. At no time in our history, hoever, has the need been greater than it is today.

This bill must be passed in 1974, and I am confident that it will be. While not a cure-all, I believe it will go far toward restoring faith in our political process.

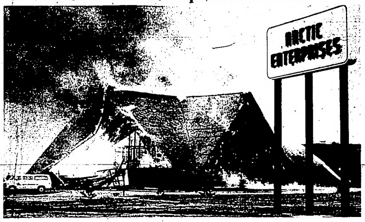
Arctic Fire Times' Top 1973 News Photo



MAY 6 FIRE which destroyed the Arctic Enterprises display building in Thief River Falls has been selected as the top news story in the Times area for 1973. Loss was estimated at $750,000 and the building had been a focal point of community pride. Selection of the top 10 news stories for 1973 is printed below.

Arctic Fire Tops News Stories Here For 1973

Headed by the spectacular fire which destroyed the Arctic display building May 6, Arctic Enterprises happenings in combination provided the top news story of the year in the Times area for 1973. Selection of the top stories was made from review of 1973 issues of the Times.

(1) Arctic Enterprises was constantly in the news during 1973 with much of the news having an economic impact on the community and area. Loss of approximately $750,000 resulted from the early morning fire which destroyed the display building, a focal point of community pride. Cut-back in the snowmobile industry due to two low-snow years and other factors reversed the rapid growth of the company. Approximately 100 local employees had their jobs terminated in late January of 1973 and about 50 more were laid off in late December. General Leisure Products division at Omaha, Neb., was closed, Arctco distributor was returned to Thief River Falls from Fargo, company stock and earnings declined sharply and production was cut nearly in half. Through the reversals company officials affirmed financial strength of the firm and confidence in its ability to hold its position as the top U.S. snowmobile producer.

(2) While the community's primary industry was having difficulties, the agricultural community finished the year in the best financial situation in many years. Rise in livestock prices early in the year had a marked effect on the local farm situation but local cooperation with a national meat boycott failed to materialize. Turkey producers worried about high feed costs but eventually realized their best margins at market time for many years if not in history. And an average or slightly better tan average crop was made spectacular by a doubling of most small grain prices.

(3) Weather again played a major role in area news, in addition to its effect on area agriculture. An extremely dry spring resulted in wide-spread grass and brush fires which consumed thousands of acres of cover and destroyed some buildings, at least several of which were in current use. Wind storms hit the area in July with one of the most wide-spread storms early that month toppling thousands of trees, destroying farm buildings, overturning mobile homes and killing livestock but miraculously causing no human fatalities.

(4) Work was underway in earnest on the Thief River Falls airport which had been transferred to state ownership. Legislative interest in the state ownership—particularly in how the state could remove itself from such ownership—was expressed at a legislative committee meeting held in Thief River Falls. Obligation of the state to complete the improvements agreed upon was sustained and assurance of continued project work was given by the commissioner of aeronautics late in December.

(5) Controversy of a more local level surfaced when the board of education in Thief River Falls approved a health curriculum for kindergarten through eighth grade. Public reaction to sex

City Budget Review Shows Dollar Volume

Thief River Falls city government anticipates income from tax levies and utilities and liquor revenue of nearly $3 million in 1974, according to the budget approved at a recent meeting of the city council. Anticipated gross income includes $2,621,000 from public utilities and liquor funds and $336,413 in tax levies.

Bonded debt of the city at the end of 1973 was $6,292,500 which included $1,225,000 in general obligation bonds, 4,215,000 in special assessments and $852,500 in revenue bonds. Levy for bonded debt retirment in 1974 is $283,565. The city has budgeted debt redemption in 1974 of $387,500 in principal and $306,796 in interest.

Municipal operation of water, electric, sewage and sanitation departments and two liquor stores will provide the city with an estimated $774,575 to transfer into other funds, including $661,440 to the general fund and $113,135 into debt retirement.

Largest revenue producer is the electric department which is budgeted to have total gross receipts in 1974 of $1,242,000, expenses of $699,334 and $542,666 available for transfer. A year ago the budgeted gross recipets were $1,175,000, expenses $645,840 and net available to transfer was $529,160.

Second largest revenue producer is the municipal liquor operation which includes a downtown on and off sale establishment and an off sale outlet on highway 59 south. The two stores are expected to gross $960,000 with expense of $830,160 for net available to transfer of $129,840. Last year income was budgeted at $960,000, expense at $830,160 and net at $135,706.

City water department is expected to have gross receipts of $197,000, expenses of $153,815 and net of $43,185 in 1974. Last year the gross receipts were estimated at $198,000, expense at $158,660 and net at $39,340.

Sewage department gross budgeted for 1974 is $108,000 with expense of $59,200 and net of $48,800. Last year the budgeted gross receipts were $115,000 with expense of $48,610 and net of $66,390.

Sanitation department budget figures for 1974 include expected gross of $114,000, expense of $103,916 and net of $10,084. Last year, when a new truck was purchased, gross receipts were estimated at $100,000, expense at $118,990 and a net loss of $18,090. A rate increase for garbage collection is in effect for 1974.

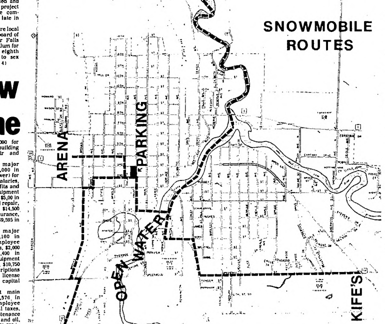
Snowmobiler In Hospital After Local Accident

Mrs. Ronald (Mary) Alby of Thief River Falls was seriously injured in a recent snowmobile accident along Highway 32 south of this city. She fell from one snowmobile and was struck by a second machine.

Alby reported this morning (Monday) that his wife is in Deaconess hospital in Grand Forks where she will be confined for six to eight weeks with a broken pelvis. However, she is reportedly doing well and is allowed to have visitors.



SNOWMOBILE ROUTES to be used for getting to the downtown area during the Cat Country Round-up Saturday in Thief River Falls are shown above. Area to be used for snowmobile parking includes the city parking lot on Knight avenue between Second and Third streets and adjacent streets which will be marked. All snowmobilers must register at the parking area to participate in the bean feed from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. or the prize drawing at 1 p.m.

Emphasis on snowmobiling will be given priority Saturday with a community-wide "Cat Country Round-up" scheduled for Thief River Falls. Activity will also include events at the new snowmobile trail project northwest of the city.

Snowmobilers will be given special consideration for the day as they will be encouraged to drive and park their machines in a designated downtown area, be treated to a free bean feed, participate in drawings for free prizes including a 1974 Arctic Cat snowmobile and be invited to assist in dedication of the snowmobile trail.

No automobile parking will be allowed Saturday in the city parking lot on Knight avenue between Second and Third streets as it will be reserved for parking of snowmobiles. Knight avenue from First to Third streets and Second street from Main to Duluth avenues will also be closed to traffic except for snowmobiles.

Snowmobilers must travel to the parking area by snowmobile and register there in order to participate in the bean feed or prize drawing. Registrants will be issued tickets for the bean feed when they register and the registration slips will be used for the prize drawing. Offered in addition to the 1974 model Arctic Cat snowmobile will be approximately 30 other merchandise prizes related to snowmobiling, such as boots, suits, helmets and other items.

Bean feed hours will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the city auditorium with serving to be done by the agri-business committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Menu will consist of beans, hotdogs, potato chips, dill pickles, milk and coffee.

While the Cat Country Round-up committee emphasized that all persons who wish to participate must come to the area by snowmobile, they added that families who arrive by snowmobile with a towed load of family members will all be eligible to take part. Registration will take place at the corner of Knight avenue and Second street with the Jaycees in charge of registration and maintenance of the snowmobile lot.

Drawing will be held at 1 p.m. in the registration area under the direction of Jon Larson, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Miss Thief River Falls, Laurie Ford, is expected to assist in the prize drawing.

Dedication of the snowmobile trail will take place at the official trail parking lot located three miles north of Thief River Falls on highway 59. Snowmobilers at the park for the prize drawing will be encouraged to ride their machines to the dedication area for the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

A trail ride to show the trail area and shelter which is now under construction will follow the dedication program.

To encourage area snowmobile clubs and drivers to participate in the event, Arctic Enterprises has offered a donation to the Minnesota Multiple Sclerosis society based on miles traveled by snowmobile club members. Clubs will compete on a man-mile basis, computed by multiplying the number of miles traveled by the number of members making the trip.

The community effort to recognize the snowmobile industry and its contribution to the area is being coordinated through the Chamber of Commerce although it is intended to be a community-wide event and not a Chamber of Commerce project, according to C of C president Jon Larson.

"We hope for good participation because we feel the snowmobile industry and particularly Arctic Enterprises has been good for Thief River Falls," Larson said. "While we recognize that conditions in the past two years have caused a down-turn in the spectacular growth of the industry, the Thief River Falls community wants to demonstrate its support of snowmobile recreation through this special event."

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Oliver St. Martin
114 Conley Avenue North

Several years ago a pastor friend who was visiting in Thief River Falls inquired about the family. When I expressed my pleasure at having both girls and their chilren in this city, his comment, "You're in for a lot of thorns, grandma," startled me. He then explained that whenever we saw a grandchild sick or injured, the pain would be more acute than if we were to receive a letter with the information that one of the children had received a cut requiring stitches.

How right he was. There are thorns in having grandchildren within a stone's throw. How those thorns penetrated when two of the little ones had to have surgery when just a few weeks old. It was equally painful to see the distorted arm of the three-year old after he had fallen and broken his arm. Many times we have clenched our teeth and probed for thorns as one of the grandchildren were scolded for accidently spilling milk or breaking a dish. (When our girls were small, I'm positive that we had the healthiest linoleum in town. There weren't too many days that it didn't receive a milk bath.)

Having the grandchildren around isn't all thorns. There are many, many roses, although not always the hybrid kind. Roses cherished are those first smiles of recognition, hearing their first words, seeing their expressions as they open their gifts, and just sharing in ordinary events, which with their comments add spice to otherwise humdrum activities. Planting tomatoes last spring took on added interest when a grandchild asked if he couldn't dig the "basements for Grandpa's plants." Death lost its gloom when seen through the eyes of another child. He explained that the deceased, who had died in the fall, was "busy washing storm windows in heaven; then he would go snow-catting, and in the spring, he would go fishing. When questioned how those things were possible as people in heaven wore robes and crowns, he quickly replied, "Those clothes are only for-going to church on Sunday." His idea of heaven may not be recognized by thologians, but to doting grandparents, it was very clear. But like most grandparents, there are times that we wonder if the grandchilren have any brains. Then, again we know that they are geniuses. One child after being reprimanded for being noisy, was asked, "Do you know what noise is?" He cocked his head and replied, "Yes, it is something you can't see. It goes into your ears and tells you what it is." (Grandma thought that five-year old's rose was perfect.)

Sometimes it's hard to see the roses through misty eyes. The mist was especially heavy Christmas Eve when the same little guy so beautifully told the story of the birth of Jesus and concluded with, "And that is what Christmas is all about." No XXX's at the bottom of a letter could replace that Christmas rose.

Even though there are thorns, the roses far out-number them. Any pain that remains from contacting a sharp point quickly subsides when a grandchild looks up and says, "I love you." To a grandparent, that is better than a dozen long-stemmed roses. (EMS)

Todays recipe is in answer to a request received before Christmas for the apple bars served at the Discovery-Place Christmas party held at Redeemer Lutheran church. We are grateful to Mrs. Oliver St. Martin of this city, for sharing the recipe with Kitchen Karnival.

Apple Bars

Mix together:

6 apples (or more) peeled and sliced
1 cup sugar
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Crust

2½ cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening

Mix with hands as in making pie crust. Combine 2 egg yolks, beaten and enough milk to make two-thirds cup. Add to the flour mixture. Divide in half. Roll out and place in pan about 15½x10½ inches. Sprinkle ½ cup crushed cornflakes on bottom crust. Add apple mixture and cover with top crust. Top with two beaten egg-whites. Bake one hour. While warm glaze with powdered sugar icing.

Mrs. St. Martin and her husband, a retired barber, reside at 114 Noth Conley. After raising a large family, and as the chilren left for homes of their own, or employment elsewhere, Mrs. St. Martin missed having young ones around. To compensate, she now is "Grandma" to approximately 30 children at Discovery Place, where she has been cook for the past three years. Before that she worked in the kitchen at Knox school for 10 years.

She stated that she enjoyes cooking, but is especially happy when she can make a meal for their own family, which includes 27 grandchildren.

It's a bad day to cook.

Record Spending Seen In Biennium

State lawmakers who convene in St. Paul next Tuesday for the 1974 "last half" session of the 68th Minnesota Legislature will find waiting for them a 64-page analysis of what they did, moneywise, in 1973's "first half" session.

The report, titled "Where the Money Comes From, and Where It goes", is a biennial research publication of the Minnesota Taxpayers association. It is sent to MTA members, legislators and other state officials, news media and others, according to Harold T. Miller, the association's research director.

State disbursements this biennium are expected to hit a record high of $5,625,141,460, the MTA publication notes, up more than $926 million from the 1971-73 estimate.

"Here is where the money will go," MTA says, listing: "For education, $2,168,722,543; for welfare and corrections, $1,071,743,690; for highways, $620,888,606; for tax relief, shared taxes, and aids to local units of government, $929,521,367; for general state government, $445,707,846; for the legislature, $23,302,041; for the judiciary, $7,508,359; for income tax refunds, $302,730,000; for miscellaneous purposes, $55,017,014."

Principal state tax sources of expected revenue are shown as: Income taxes, $1,952,423,000; sales tax, $645,327,000; motor vehicle excise, registration and gasoline taxes, $543,627,000; liquor, beer, cigarette and tobacco products taxes, $247,804,879; gross earnings and insurance gross premiums taxes, $154,400,000.

Federal grants and aids are expected to total $1,071,822,664. Opening balances, miscellaneous receipts, lesser state taxes, departmental earnings and various other sources are looked to to provide the remaining $1 billion plus needed to finance the spending total.

With appropriations for education up more than 16 per cent over the preceding biennium, the biggest share—$1,326,622,000—will go as aid to elementary and secondary schools.

Another significant fact highlighted in Research Bulletin No. 49 is that despite assimilation of old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to the disabled into the federal social security program as of Jan. 1, 1974, the amount of state money appropriated for welfare climbed more than $78 million from the 1971-73 level.

The report attributes the climb in welfare spending principally to expansion of the aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) case load. In fiscal 1975 the AFDC case load is expected to average 53,938 families—up 17 per cent for the biennium.

"For the first time in many sessions, no major new taxes or tax rate increases were enacted," the MTA publication notes.

Guide To Study Factory Built Homes Offered

Consumers are often overhwelmed by the wide range of types, quality, floor plans and materials available in factory built housing, William J. Angell, University of Minnesota extension housing specialist, says.

This situation is complicated by the difficulty of comparing the relative advantages of factory-built housing with on-site built housing.

General advantages and disadvantages of factory built housing, a checklist to compare various houses, and other suggestions are found in the "Selection Guide for Factory Built Housing," available from the University of Minnesota, Agricultural Extension Service, Bulletin Room, St. Paul 55101.

When choosing a manufacturer and dealer, consider how long they have built and sold houses and how many houses they have built and sold. Consider the reputation of manufacturers and dealers. Do former customers say they have been treated fairly and are they satisfied with their homes? Check the Better Business Bureau and the manufacturer's bank in the company's home town for a recommendation.

November Bank Debits Increase 22% In TRF

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during November 1973 showed an increase of 22 per cent from the same period a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. In dollars, Thief River Falls bank debits volume during November was $33,367,000. In the same month of 1972 the total figure was $27,451,000.

Bank debits for the most part are checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payment for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and of states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to savings accounts, the accounts of other banks, or the United States government.

January through November totals are up 20 per cent to $310,890,000 in Thief River Falls.

Arnt Aune, director of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, was recognized recently by the Minnesota Vocational association for 25 years of service to vocational education. He was pictured with other 25-year award recipients in the current issue of MVA Viewpoints, the organization's official publication.

Aune was a vocational agriculture instructor for seven years at Elbow Lake and one year at Halstad before serving four years in military service. He became a vocational agriculture instructor in Thief River Falls in 1957 and in 1961 was named director of the area vocational-technical institute.

Annapolis Brass Quintet To Hold Clinic At NCC

Members of the Annapolis Brass Quintet of Annapolis, Md. will conduct a free clinic for area high school brass players January 19 at Northland community college from 10 a.m. to noon.

The opportunity to have these musicians work with area brass players was made possible when the group was scheduled to make a concert appearance on January 19 before the Thief River Falls concert association. Les Torgerson, Northland college music director, arranged to have the quintet conduct a morning clinic on the same day.

Area high school music directors inviting were invited to have their brass players participate in this clinic. The response has been excellent, according to Mr. Torgerson, and a number of schools are expected to attend.

Members of this quintet who will help area brass players in the clinic are: David Gran, trumpet; Halden Johnson, trumpet; Richard Rightnour, french horn; David Kanter, trombone and Robert Posten, bass trombone. This quintet is one of a handful of full-time brass ensembles in the world today.

This is the second of three clinics that the Northland college music department is conducting for area school musicians and is another indication of Northland's desire to be of service to area schools and communities.

Soil Nutrients, Crop Varieties Meeting Topics

Some of the ther topics at the half-day program include seed certification for varietal purity, herbicides, weed control, plant variety protection and the federal environmental pesticide control act of 1972.

Extension specialists Howard Bissonette, Oliver Strand, David Noetzel, Roy Thompson and Charles Simkins from the University of Minnesota will be here to present the information and answer questions, Courneya said.

Information will relate to the sale and use of agricultural chemicals including fertilizer, feed, seed and other agricultural production products.

All agricultural chemical dealers are invited to attend.

Do so-called "big city discounts" really cover the cost of getting there?

Next time you consider an out-of-town shopping trip take a minute to estimate the cost of gasoline, oil, tire depreciation and parking.

education aspects of the curriculum—and to a letter to the editor of the Times regarding a text book used in a senior high school course—resulted in board appointment of a study committee and withdrawal of the controversial book from the curriculum. Also resulting was the formation of a citizen's group known as Citizens for Better Education which asked to review school curriculum in all areas.

(6) Region One commission was in the news during 1973. Sufficient support was given to formation of the commission and commission members were elected from the northwestern Minnesota area. At a meeting held in Thief River Falls and chaired by Ervin Strandquist of Newfolden, Crookston was selected as the regional center by a vote of the commission members.

(7) Good news on the local tax scene was reported by C.W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor, who noted that most home owners could expect a reduction in real estate taxes for 1974. He said a home-owner with a $25,000 house could expect a reduction of about 20 per cent in real estate taxes.

(8) After many years of legal battles and bitter personal feelings, the Grygla school district finally sold bonds and began construction of a new high school building.

(9) Transfer of financial ownership of Northwestern hospital to the city of Thief River Falls resulted in a substantial saving of bond interest costs and paved the way for possible future construction of a clinic facility.

(10) Highway deaths and injuries again made the headlines during 1973, with the most extensive report being in the October 22 edition. An article in that issue of the Times noted three persons killed and eight injured in three separate area accidents.

Unemployment Rate Goes Down During November

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for November, at 4.6 per cent, was down 0.4 of a percentage point from the previous month and 0.3 of a percentage point from a year earlier, Emmet J. Cushing, commissioner of the Minnesota department of employment services, formerly the Minnesota department of manpower services, reported recently.

The state's unemployment rate compares favorably with the national seasonally adjusted rate of 4.7 per cent, up 0.2 of a percentage point from October but 0.5 of a percentage point below a year ago.

Despite the over-the-month downturn in the Minnesota rate, the number of unemployed jobseekers rose 13,800 (22.4 per cent) to total 75,400 in November. Although upswing is substantial, it is about 1,000 below the average October-November increase for the previous five-year period, Cushing said.

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment, totalled 1,451,700 in November, a slight over-the-month increase of 500 jobs.

An upturn of 1,200 in the manufacturing sector was partially offset by a decrease of 700 in the nonmanufacturing category. The rise in manufacturing employment was mainly attributable to increased demand for workers to produce durable goods. This upturn was due primarily to an increased demand for workers to produce machinery. Nonelectrical machinery employment rose by 900 workers and the electrical machinery sector was up 400.

Nonmanufacturing employment was down 700. Cushing noted that although the decrease is small, some categories within the group posted significant changes. A decline of 3,300 in construction was partially offset by a seasonal increase of 2,300 in retail trade. Nonagricultural wage and salary employment rose 54,100 or 3.9 per cent from a year ago.

Manufacturing was up 20,600 workers from November of 1972. Approximately 16,700 of this total took place in the durable goods sector. Machinery led this upswing with gains of 6,300 in the nonelectrical sector and 6,000 in the electrical sector. Nondurable goods employment posted a more modest gain of 4,000 workers. The most significant gains took place in food and kindred products (up 1,800), and paper and allied products (up 1,400) categories.

Nonmanufacturing employment recorded an upswing of 33,400 or 3.1 per cent. The most significant increases were experienced in service (12,900), trade (10,900), and government (5,000).

Cushing said rise in service employment was largely due to added workers in the business and medical services sector.

The upswing in trade was mainly centered in the retail category as eating and drinking establishments and department and mail order stores had substantial employment increases.

The rise in government employment was concentrated in the local government sector as state employment declined by 2,500 and federal employment remained almost stable. Practically all of the local governmental increase took place in the educational and administrative sectors.

Production workers in manufacturing received an average of $178.87 per week for working 41.5 hours at $4.31 per hour. This increase of $2.96 from the previous month resulted primarily from an addition 24 minutes in the work week. Compared with November 1972, average weekly earnings rose $8.55 attributable to a 23 per cent increase in the hourly pay.

Gas Shortage May Lead To Family Activity

A lighter foot on the gas pedal may signal a slowed-down pace of life that Americans will welcome.

After the initial shock of driving 50 mph and staying home weekends wears off, we may appreciate a more leisurely existence, says Susan Meyers, extension family life specialist at the University of Minnesota.

"Even if energy becomes as plentiful as it once was, many people may choose a less frantic pace and cling to the home and family-centered activities they cultivated during shortages," Mrs. Meyers adds.

She says the current fuel crunch may curb some of the spontaneity that now marks the way we live. "We may have to budget our energy allotments so a Sunday afternoon drive, weekend motorboating, or a vacation trip compete with day-in, day-out fuel needs."

This doesn't mean we won't have fun or enjoy the increased leisure that may accompany work weeks shortened to conserve fuel. Mrs. Meyers says, "People need leisure time and recreational pursuits. Studies show, however, that persons who control the amount of spare time they have—vacationers or workers who have chosen to strike—use and enjoy the time. But idle time can be threatening and psychologically damaging to an unemployed person whose idea of self-worth is tied to job productivity."

More at-home time may bring families closer together, or it could highlight frictions that were overlooked when family members spent less time together, Mrs. Meyers says. "Increased togetherness can work two ways. We may discover new pleasures in family tasks and interpersonal relationships, or we may find things we don't like about family members that didn't bother us when we saw less of each other."

The fuel crisis itself may be a rallying point for family unity, she suggests. "The obvious strength of this situation is that everyone is in it together. Each person can do his part. Even the youngest child can take part in saving fuel and can feel he is contributing to a cause that the family endorses."

Family pressure also may nudge laggards into complying with fuel conservation measures, Mrs. Meyers says. "With everyone stressing energy at home, in school and on the job, most family members probably will try to comply. But they may resent and try to reform the occasional person who ignores the problem or refuses to conserve."

A 4-H member for nine years, and with eight years in the Dress Revue program, she has captured county medals every year except one; received two state fair trips for clothing demonstrations, and has earned blue ribbons in each of those eight years.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Magnuson of Wheaton, she is majoring in both home economics and physical education at Moorhead State College.

Dian Norcutt has captured state honors in the 4-H health program. She has also won a trip to the National 4-H Congress from Eli Lilly and Company.

As part of her 4-H health program she worked at the Robert Milton Home for Retarded Men in Redwood Falls, and as an observer and assistant in the operating and recovery rooms at the Redwood Falls Hospital she has served as a nurse aid, and has become certified in a civil defense course for self-help in natural disasters. A health program leader in her club she is the recipient of numerous awards for her participation at state and county fair competitions.

Dian is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Norcutt of Lucan, and a student at Southwest Minnesota State College at Marshall.

Dana Nelson is the state winner in the 4-H poultry program. He has been awarded a $50 U.S. Savings Bond by Kentucky Fried Chicken.

He has been active in the poultry program for eight years, having won county and state ribbons and capturing the top poultry record in the county five years, and twice in the district. He has been named state 4-H winner and also state winner of the National Turkey Grower's Youth Award.

With some help from his father, he has raised a total of 149,135 turkeys over the past eight years.

The Minnesota 4-H'ers activities were supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, and their awards programs arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

USDA Decides Not To Change Milk Procedure

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) has decided to make no changes in the method of determining minimum fluid milk prices that dealers must pay dairy farmers under federal milk marketing orders.

The decision is based on a public hearing held August 28-30 and September 18-19 in Clayton, Mo., to review levels of fluid milk prices paid to farmers, and to determine whether emergency price action would be needed for the next few months. The department decided, except for a temporary action in September (a 60-cent per hundredweight increase, September 9-30), that the basic formula price now in the orders will give assurance to dairy farmers of price levels during coming months needed to maintain adequate supplies of milk.

Since September the milk order price formulas — without being changed — have resulted in additional price increases to dairy farmers, $1.11 through December, and another 15-cent increase in January, officials of USDA's agricultural marketing service explained. Also, feed prices, a principal cost in milk production, have declined to some extent. Thus, officials said, the milk order basic formula price (average pay price in Minnesota and Wisconsin for manufacturing grade milk) is responding to current supply and demand conditions.

USDA's decision denies proposals made at the hearing to increase, for a temporary period, Class I prices more than would result from the formula, or to provide a minimum or "floor" for the basic formula price using in determining Class I prices. In addition, the decision takes no action on suspending Class I base plans in any orders, another issue considered at the hearing.

The decision formally ends the proceeding. It will appear in the Federal Register Jan. 3, 1974, or may be obtained from the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Thought For The Day . . .

What kind of church member will you be in 1974?

Tired Member: Will work if coaxed.

Rubber-Tired Member: Go along all right if the way is smooth and the road clear.

Flat-Tired Member: Once were closely affiliated with the church but suffered a puncture of ego and have never recovered.

At-Tired Member: Go to church on Easter and at other times to show off new clothes.

Tire-Less Member: Always on the job and fully consecrated to the Lord Jesus Christ.

It says in Romans 12:1,2 "With eyes wide open to the mercies of God, I beg you, my brothers, as an act of intelligent worship, to give him your bodies, as a living sacrifice, consecrated to him and acceptable by him. Don't let the world around you squeeze you into its own mold, but let God remold your minds from within that you may move toward the goal of true maturity."

They're At Us Again!

Sportsmen—and particularly hunters—seem to be continually on the defensive to sustain their cherished sport. Each session of the legislature or the Congress brings about a new fistful of proposals which sportsmen must rise up against.

Well, sportsmen and sportswomen, they're at us again!

First it was federal gun control which held the spotlight. Then it was a state gun control bill which drew the ire of hunters in Minnesota. Now there is a proposal to divert policy making authority from the state department of natural resources to the state planning agency.

Furthermore, the Project 80 proposal (HF 2224 and SF 2371) also proposes to divert all wetlands acquisition and wildlife management areas to uses other than their original purposes of wildlife habitat and public hunting.

For some years now Minnesota hunters have been paying out of their own pockets a surcharge on their hunting licenses for acquisition and development of wildlife management areas. It has been an investment in the future of wildlife and hunting; an insurance policy against destruction of all habitat and restricted use of all private land. Now somebody wants to rob the bank!

Sportsmen at various times may have had differences of opinion with actions by the department of natural resources. By and large, however, there is general accord that the department has tried to do what it deemed best for management of Minnesota wildlife. And the department has had the hunter and his future sport uppermost in its collective mind when making decisions affecting the wildlife resource.

So who is the state planning agency? According to the Minnesota Legislative Manual, "The agency consists of the governor as state planning officer, a director of planning in the unclassified service, and such other personnel as are deemed necessary to discharge the state planning function. The agency is charged with responsibility for developing long range plans and programs for the orderly growth of state government. It is also a coordinative agency for planning activities of state departments and local levels of government...."

The department of natural resources currently has one representative on the agency—one of 10, excluding the governor. Frankly, we don't like the odds, not when it comes to playing around with land which hunters of this state have purchased for a specific purpose. Wildlife areas have been too difficult to obtain to give up so easily.

Want something else to think about? The senate is scheduled to consider a restrictive gun law proposal (SF 806) on the first day of the legislative session in 1974.

Whoever it was that said the price of freedom is eternal vigilance must have been a sportsman.

For Liars Only

Tops of the deer hunting excuses we have heard was this one in Bob Cary's column in the Ely Echo:

"I had just parked my car by the railroad trestle and got out to hunt when this big buck ran out and stopped in a clearing in front of me. As I swung up to shoot, I heard some screams from the railroad trestle and out of the corner of my eye saw a woman dangling from a beam. I immediately ran up on the trestle and discovered this lady hunter had been walking across, slipped and fell, but had caught and hung on just 10 feet below and was dangling over this ice-choked river.

"I quickly pulled out the nylon rope which I always carry to pull deer out of the woods, took my metal deer tag, locked it to make a loop, and tied it to the rope. Then I lowered the rope until she could get the toe of her boot in the metal loop and I pulled her to safety.

"Oddly enough, when I went back to my car that big buck was still standing there, but, of course, I had ruined my tag by locking it and therefore could not shoot."

Bureaucratic Invasion

Following editorial is from the Industrial News Review:

Government bureaucracy is liked by no one—except those who have found careers in its murky depths. Yet few appreciate the full cost of the federal bureaucracy, or the extent of its influence and control over nearly every field of human endeavor.

The expense of filling out forms for a bewildering array of governmental administrative agencies has become a major cost to business, as well as to consumers. The accompanying regulatory control is frequently in basic conflict with the principles of the competitive business system.

A typical example of this is a proposal to require annual "line of business" reports to be submitted to the federal trade commission. Such reports would be required from companies covering each line of business in which they were engaged and eliciting information of the most detailed sort on sales, costs and profits. In the case of many retailers selling a great variety of merchandise, the separate reports required could conceivably run into the thousands.

The federal trade commission alleges that buyers could use the data on sales, costs, profits and assets to form judgments concerning the appropriateness of price—cost margins and profit rates. This is not likely. It is further claimed that sales promotion activities and expenditures should be related to sales to see if the proportion is too high and may deter competition. Likewise, the program's proponents suggest that research and development expenditures, like sales promotion, may be excessive and anticompetitive.

The question is, who is to determine whether sales promotion expenditures are too high and in relation to what? Similarly, who is to judge whether research and development costs are excessive? There is but one answer—a government bureaucrat who will presume to possess greater wisdom concerning competition in the marketplace than people who have spent their lives working in that marketplace.

As one critic of this advance of government bureaucracy into the lives of private citizens observes, "This proposal is so totally at odds with the accepted concept of the American free enterprise economy and its business system that it is compelling reason to totally reject the proposed line of business reports."

Borrowed Nonsense

The telephone rang in the maternity ward and a very excited voice came through, "This is Harold Smith and I'm bringing my wife in—she's about to have a baby!"

"Calm down," the attendant said, "Tell me, is this her first baby?"

A policeman patrolling a beach area encountered a pretty miss in a bikini so brief it shocked him.

"What would your mother say," he asked her, "if she caught you in that skimpy bikini?"

Departing farm guest: "You've got a pretty place here, Frank, but it looks a bit bare yet."

Host: "Oh, it's because the trees are rather young. I hope they'll have grown to a good size before you come again."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

A letter writer in today's Tribune (Jan. 3) identified himself as being from Thief River Falls and a member of the cloth (Rev. Jonathan Law).

The opening sentence to his letter went "I had to chuckle over ex-Vice President Agnew's plea to the Maryland court that his licence to practice law in the state be suspended for a time rather than be disbarred from all further practice."

There is little question that the cleric who wrote this letter never held Agnew as a political favorite or even as a Vice President of the United States but only as the most hated of creatures—a nonconformist right winger.

But, what is most puzzling about the preacher's letter is that he obviously doesn't believe in forgiveness. Or maybe he believes in forgiving some but not others.

Sen. Edward Kennedy confessed to driving off a narrow bridge at night and accidentally killing a woman passenger—an accident he failed to report for nine hours. Yet the grand jury in the Chappaquiddick bridge killing was told by the judge that their lips were sealed—"I don't mean for a day, I mean forever."

So have we reached the place in our country where it depends on whose ox is being gored or has failing to pay income taxes become a more serious crime than killing is?

Happiness Is The Times

Weekly ℞ HEALTH TIP

Many people try to save money on medical bills by not seeing the doctor until they are seriously ill. This defeats the purpose of "preventive medicine" (the only sound way to preserve your health) and it is more expensive in the long run. Once a disease process has started, it often lasts longer and costs more to cure. A regular medical checkup is not only a good investment, but the resulting peace of mind also promotes good health.

MPIRG Procures Court Order On Illegal Premiums

Minnesota public interest research group (MPIRG) announced today that it has procured a writ of mandamus ordering the Minnesota commissioner of insurance to either enforce certain insurance regulations or to explain why he is unable to do so.

The Ramsey district court order pertains to allegedly illegal credit life, accident and health insurance premiums which have cost the Minnesota consumer $15 million over the last three years.

At a news conference today MPIRG explained that insurance regulations require that credit insurance premiums not exceed twice the amount paid out in credit insurance claims. In other words, for every dollar of premiums paid in, 50 cents must be paid out to the consumer in claims.

Data provided to MPIRG by the insurance division demonstrates that during the past three years, only 38.5 cents of every premium dollar has been paid out in claims. This has resulted in an 11.5 cent consumer loss totalling nearly $15 million in illegal premiums.

Judge Harold W. Schultz's order requires insurance commissioner Burton W. Heaton to initiate action on or before Jan. 23, 1974. MPIRG reportedly took this action after waiting for 20 days for the insurance commissioner to respond to a letter notifying him of the illegal premiums.

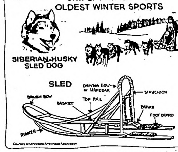
SLED DOG RACING:

ONE OF AMERICA'S OLDEST WINTER SPORTS



Sled dog racing, a colorful winter sport that began in Alaska in 1908, will draw hundreds of spectators and dogs to Ely January 19-20 for the Fifth Annual All American Sled Dog Championships.

Although their ancestors were originally used to haul people and supplies over vast stretches of rugged terrain throughout the North American Continent years ago, most sled dogs today enjoy a different life tied to highly competitive races against the clock.

While any dog can be used for racing, the Siberian Husky is a favorite. Wolf-like in appearance, Huskies are known for their pointed ears, heavy coats, "snowshoe" feet, blue eyes that guard against snow blindness, and gentleness and versatility.

Sled dogs normally weigh 40-60 pounds, must be fast and show a desire to run and pull, and have great endurance to pull sleds over great distances. Dog sleds weigh an average of 30 pounds and are constructed of ash, oak, birch or maple, and are lashed together with rawhide for flexibility. Anywhere from 2 to 12 or more dogs are used depending on race classifications.

NO U.S. PORT CAN HANDLE TODAY'S SUPER TANKERS...

EXAMPLE--ON HER MAIDEN VOYAGE TO AMERICAN WATERS, THE 272,000 TON 'CONOCO AMERICA' DELIVERED MORE THAN 2 MILLION BARRELS OF OIL, ENOUGH TO SERVE THE REQUIREMENTS OF A CITY LIKE WASHINGTON, D.C. OR MILWAUKEE OR SAN FRANCISCO FOR A MONTH. THE TANKER WAS UNLOADED AT ST. CROIX, VIRGIN ISLANDS, BUT ONLY AFTER ONE-THIRD OF HER CARGO WAS TRANSFERRED ONTO BARGES AT SEA. NO SHIP THIS SIZE CAN ENTER A U.S. MAINLAND PORT WITHOUT TRANSFERRING HALF THE CARGO AT SEA...

IF IT COULD, TRANSPORTATION COSTS ON THIS CARGO WOULD BE REDUCED AS MUCH AS $670,000.

TO SERVE FUTURE REQUIREMENTS THE U.S. WILL HAVE TO IMPORT OIL ON A VERY LARGE SCALE. THE NEED FOR DEEP WATER PORTS AND OFFSHORE TERMINALS IS CRITICAL. SUPER TANKERS HELP KEEP COSTS DOWN, REDUCE HARBOR CONGESTION, MINIMIZE OIL HANDLING, AND SPEED TURNAROUND. THIS MEANS A SAFER ENVIRONMENT.

PLAY BY PLAY ON SPORTS

with Mike Lundgren

First annual Northland community college holiday invitational basketball tournament turned out to be an outstanding success for coach Chet Engelman's budding Northland cage program.

Although lack of practice time during the holiday break was readily apparent by all four participating teams, the lack of mid season form took little, if anything, away from the tournament's play.

Engelman accomplished everything he wanted to get done during the tournament played Wednesday and Thursday, including winning the championship trophy, draw large crowds to the games to get a first hand look at his extremely talented team and to get in valuable playing and practice time just prior to the start of Northland's upcoming rugged MCCAA conference schedule.

Boasting an impressive 8-1 season record, Northland will have an opportunity to avenge its only loss of the year tonight (Monday) when the Northmen travel to Devils Lake, N.D., to face Lake Region in a match-up of highly regarded MJCAA region XIII foes. In the latest poll from the five state region IXXX area, Lake Region was rated fifth and Northland was listed ninth. The always strong Royals beat Northland 73-70 in early December.

Although they're nearly halfway through the 1973-74 season schedule, tonight's contest will be the first road game of the year for the Northmen who will return home to host Rainy River in a 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon game. The Northmen and Voyageurs met in the memorable championship game of the Arctic Invitational tournament last week with Northland winning 90-82.

The following week Northland travels to the Minnesota Iron Range to face MCCAA Northeast Division powers Vermilion and Mesabi in back to back conference games at Ely and Virginia in a key Friday night, Saturday afternoon road trip.

—O—

Northland's fast break offensive style basketball provides fans with a game full of exciting fast paced action. After watching all nine wide open Northland games this winter were nearly put to sleep by the booring University of Minnesota basketball team Saturday during the Gophers' televised Big Ten game against Iowa.

The slow moving Gophers use up an enormous amount of time setting up tail dragging offense patterns which result in low scoring games in the 40 to 50 point range. Bill Musselman's celebrated defense-orientated basketball is for the birds. Defensive basketball is a figment of someone's imagination, invented to cover up obvious weak offenses. We'll take Chet Engelman's run-and-shoot-em-style basketball any time.

Northland Wins Tournament Title 90-82

Host Northland captured championship honors in the Arctic Invitational community college basketball tournament last week as the Northmen crushed first round opponent Waseca 108-83 and then outlasted Rainy River 90-82 in the title game.

Played before large overflow crowds both sessions, the first annual holiday meet found unexpected one sided first round Thursday night results evolve into closely matched Wednesday afternoon match-ups with North Hennepin beating Waseca 101-84 for the consolation trophy prior to the Northland-Rainy River duel. Rainy River defeated North Hennepin 81-59 in the other first round tournament game.

Racing to an early 17-4 lead, the heavily favored Northland quint controlled the tempo of the championship game throughout most of a fast paced first half enroute to a 49-36 halftime edge.

Coach Chet Engelman's Northmen appeared to be putting the game out of reach after intermission when long jump shots by Dave Dickey, Ralph Fitts and Bill Gusa, plus a pair of Gusa free throws, hiked Northland's lead to a commanding 19 point 61-42 margin with 16:08 remaining in the game.

To make matters worse for the rangy International Falls squad, starry 6-6 center Tom Morris was forced to leave the game because of an ankle injury and forward Randy Cody, another 6-6 standout, was saddled with four fouls.

Northland maintained its comfortable point spread until the scrappy Voyageurs suddenly erupted for 11 straight points in a two minute span to shave a 71-55 deficit to just 71-66 with 7:33 left.

Three free throws by 6-6 reserve Terry Boquist initiated the Rainy River rally before hot shooting guard Mike Lundstrom hit from long range and added a fast break lay-up. Guard Barry Olson scored on a short jumper and Cody dropped in a fast break bucket to pull the Voyageurs back into contention and force the reeling Northmen to call a time out.

Northland finally snapped its offensive cold spell on a Dickey jumper with 7:18 remaining and two more baskets by Tom Kays and Mike Peterson pushed the point spread to nine, 77-68.

Two free throws by Lundstrom and a driving lay-up by Cody knocked the difference back to just 77-72 before a big three point play by Northland center Burnie Stephens lifted the Northmen to an 80-72 advantage.

A pair of Dickey free throws gave the Northmen momentary breathing room at 82-76, but Lundstrom's two gift tosses put the margin back at four, 82-78, with still 3:18 to play.

After working for, and making, good shots during their second half come-back efforts, Rainy River provided Northland with the winning opportunities as the Voyageurs forced a couple of poor percentage shots and the Northmen responded with key defensive rebounds which eventually led to three straight game clinching buckets.

Stephens shook himself free for a wide open lay-up off an eye-catching Dickey feed with 2:58 remaining to give the Northmen an 84-78 lead before Joe Brown scored on a fast break lay-up and on a long jumper from the corner while Northland protected an 88-78 cushion with a semi-stall.

Kocinski hit a 15 foot jumper with 1:05 remaining for an 88-80 contest, but Brown's tip-in rebound off-set the Rainy River basket and gave the Northmen an insurmountable 90-80 edge with 40 seconds left. Cody's rebound shot with 27 seconds remaining finished the game's scoring.

The teams posted near identical field goal percentages as the Northmen hit 38 of 86 attempts for 44 per cent and Rainy River sank 34 of 76 for 45 per cent. Northland made 14 of 23 free throws and Rainy River cashed in on 14 of 17 gift opportunities.

Northland held a sizeable 55-34 rebound advantage.

NORTHLAND GUARD Dave Dickey went high above Rainy River defender Mike Polkinghorne to score an easy fast break lay-up on this play during Thursday's championship game of the Arctic Invitational basketball tournament. Dickey was named the tournament's most valuable player as he led the Northmen to wins over Waseca 108-83 and Rainy River 90-82. The Northmen, sporting a eye-catching 8-1 season record, returning to action tonight (Monday) by traveling to Lake Region.

Arctic Consolation Title Is Won By North Hennepin

A scrappy North Hennepin team outlasted Waseca 101-84 Thursday afternoon to claim consolation round honors in the Arctic Invitational community college holiday basketball tournament played in the Northland gymnasium.

In a complete reversal of form from ragged first round tournament losses, the Norsemen and Rams put together a well played closely matched contest for nearly 35 minutes before the snake-bitten Waseca club again fell prey to its own mistakes and dropped out of trophy contention.

The game started out in impressive fashion with North Hennepin's Mike Feyereisen and Waseca's Randy Grupe matching each other's sharp shooting displays. Led by Feyereisen's brilliant shooting, North Hennepin hit seven of its first nine attempts from the field while the Grupe-led Rams connected on five of their first eight shots.

A five point Waseca lead was the biggest point margin of the first half with the Rams posting a 43-41 lead at intermission on a single free throw by Grupe with time expired.

The lead changed hands several times at the start of the second half as the pace increased, the shooting percentages decreased and the turnovers mounted on both sides.

North Hennepin began picking up its winning momentum midway through the second half when sophomore guard Greg Blevins slammed in a long range jumper and added two free throws while teammate Bill Kranz dropped in a driving lay-up to increase a slim 66-64 lead into a more comfortable 72-64 advantage with nine minutes remaining.

Waseca was never able to overcome that eight point margin as the Rams failed to get any closer than six points the rest of the way. A steady parade to the foul line in the game's final minutes lengthened the North Hennepin lead with the Norsemen sinking 31 of 38 free throw attempts in the game—remarkably all in the second half after North Hennepin failed to even attempt a first half free throw.

North Hennepin shot 46 per cent from the field for the game, hitting 35 of 76 attempts. Waseca sank 34 of 88 field goal tries for a 37 per cent showing. The Rams hit 16 of 25 free throw attempts. Despite a considerable height advantage, Waseca was outrebounded by the hustling North Hennepin quint by a hefty 42-27 margin.

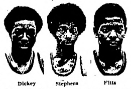
Dave Dickey Earns Arctic MVP Award



Dickey Stephens Fitts

Headed by the selection of freshman guard Dave Dickey as the tournament's most valuable player, champion Northland placed three players on the all-tournament team announced at the conclusion of the Arctic Invitational community college holiday basketball tournament played Wednesday and Thursday in the Northland gym.

Named to the all-tournament team from Northland along with Dickey were freshmen Ralph Fitts and Burnie Stephens.

Rounding out the honor squad were Randy Cody of Rainy River, Mike Feyereisen of North Hennepin and Jeff Koehler of Waseca. A total of nine different players received votes from the all-tournament selection committee consisting of Lincoln high school head basketball coach Lee Swanson, Times sports editor Mike Lundgren, KTRF sports director Andy Lia and Mark Riley, sportscaster from KGHS radio in International Falls.

Although Dickey wasn't among the tournament's top five scorers, his floor leadership left little doubt to his MVP claim with the 5-11 play maker being credited with 29 assists in two games—a near record 18 assists coming in Northland's 90-82 championship game win over Rainy River. Dickey finished the tournament with 26 points.

Fitts earned his way onto the all-tournament roster with solid two-way performances in both Northland games and received the only other MVP vote not given to Dickey. A 6-2 forward, Fitts scored 30 points and pulled down a tournament high 33 rebounds. His championship game efforts included 16 points and 19 rebounds.

The intimidating defensive play of Stephens earned the 6-4 Northland center all-tournament recognition as he blocked ten shots in his two outings, including a school record eight blocks in Northland's 108-83 first round win over Waseca. Stephens finished tied for second in the rebound charts with 24 caroms and he scored 26 points.

Feyereisen, a 6-3 sharp shooting sophomore forward, paced North Hennepin's consolation trophy winning performance. Feyereisen was the tournament's high scorer with 58 points, including an outstanding 34 point effort in the 101-84 Norseman consolation game win over Waseca.

Cody's strong offensive efforts eared the 6-6 freshman forward a spot on the all-tournament team. An accurate short range shooter, Cody sparked his team to an 81-59 first round win over North Hennepin with 15 points and added 20 against Northland to finish third in the final scoring charts with 35 points.

Koehler was the tournament's second leading scorer with 45 points, scoring 25 Thursday night and adding 20 Wednesday afternoon for the disappointing Rams. The 6-4 freshman center was also one of the tournament's top rebounders with 22 caroms to his credit.

Others receiving votes for all-tournament recognition included Joe Brown of Northland, Dennis Schulz of Waseca and Mike Lundstrom of Rainy River. Brown came off the bench in both games to spark faltering Northland offensive play and finished the tournament with 30 points. Schulz poured in 22 points in Waseca's first round loss to Northland, but foul trouble cut his scoring productivity to only 10 points against North Hennepin. Lundstrom led a strong Rainy River rally against Northland by scoring 23 points after scoring 14 in his first outing. Lundstrom finished fourth in the final scoring charts with 34 points.

Prolonged exposure to excessively loud rock music blaring through an assortment of amplifying equipment can result in serious hearing loss. For this reason, frequent attendance at live rock concerts, a tendency to listen to recorded rock music at unreasonably high sound levels and misuse of earphones have combined to expose today's youth to serious hearing loss problems.

Northland Athletic Scholarships Given

Northland area sports association (NASA) has announced awards of four $100 athletic scholarships to Northland community college athletes for the 1974 winter quarter. Three NASA scholarships were awarded to hockey players and one was awarded in basketball.

Awarded hockey scholarships were: Gordy Landin of Warroad, Arlan Tveit of Roseau and Allan Eisenzimmer of Devils Lake, N.D. The basketball scholarship was awarded to Dave Dickey of Canton, Ohio.

NASA scholarships are made during the winter and spring quarter of each academic year. A committee, upon recommendation of the Northland athletic department, selects the recipients with the scholarships determined on the basis of scholastic achievement and financial need. Scholarship funds are the result of contributions received from area businesses and from local individuals interested in area sports.

The number of Northland athletes who have been recipients of NASA athletic scholarships since its founding in 1968 has now reached a total of 86.

The Northland athletic department and scholarship recipients report their appreciation for this excellent program provided by the efforts of individuals and organizations interested in Northland's athletic program.

AN INTIMIDATING player on the basketball court, Northland freshman center Burnie Stephens made Rainy River guard John Polkinghorne have second thoughts about shooting on this play during the championship game of the Arctic Invitational tournament Thursday afternoon. The host Northland team won the tournament title with a 90-82 win over the Voyageurs. Stephens was one of three Northland players named to the all-tournament team.

Voyageurs Beat Norsemen 81-59 In Arctic Opener

Rainy River earned a berth in the championship game of the Arctic Invitational community college basketball tournament Wednesday night with a first round 81-59 win over North Hennepin in the Northland gymnasium.

Making use of a decided height advantage, the Rainy River quint of International Falls dominated most of the game's error-filled activity as the Voyageurs increased a 34-29 halftime lead into a 60-31 bulge midway through the second half.

Rainy River molded its tall front line featuring three 6-6 players into an effective zone defense to keep the smaller North Hennepin squad away from the basket. The strategy paid off as the Norsemen shot a chilly 28 per cent from the field and were out-rebounded 55-41.

Much of the game's tempo was dictated by both team's inability to hold onto the basketball as the game turned into a comedy of errors with the ball changing hands 57 times on turnovers. Surprisingly, the winners topped the turnover charts by a 30-27 margin.

Following a season long style of play, Rainy River constantly fed the ball inside to 6-6 forwards Tom Morris and Randy Cody for easy short range buckets as Morris finished the game with 19 points and Cody scored 15. Mike Lundstrom added an outside attack with 14 points. Morris was also the game's leading rebounder with 18 caroms.

Forced to leave two starters at home because of academic difficulties, the North Hennepin play suffered accordingly with only forward Mike Feyereisen providing a consistant scoring threat, finishing as the game's high point man with 24.

Northmen Romp 108-83 In First Round Tourney Game

Northland community college ousted visiting Waseca from the Arctic Invitational basketball tournament Wednesday with a 108-83 first round decision in the holiday meet.

The fast breaking Northland offense erupted for 12 straight points early in the first half to stretch a slim 5-4 advantage into a 17-4 bulge and the Northmen were never seriously threatened the rest of the game.

Relying on uncanny jumping ability to overcome a height disadvantage, Northland controlled the boards to start their early game scoring spree. Pulling down the defensive rebounds to initiate their fast break style of play, the Northmen scored six straight buckets in a 2:30 span to take quick command of the contest with only seven minutes elapsed.

Northland began substituting freely midway through the first half and the Northman lead still remained intact although Waseca did manage to trim the difference to 36-31 with 4:48 left.

The Northmen wasted little time before pushing its lead back to a more comfortable 44-31 margin, though, as freshmen guards Dave Kjos and Joe Brown scored three fast break buckets, two by Kjos, in just a minute's time.

Northland built a pair of 18 point leads in the roughly played first half before coasting into the intermission break with a 57-43 cushion.

The host Northland squad maintained control of the game's tempo in the second half although a hot shooting display by both teams suddenly replaced the sporadic first half offensive efforts.

The burley Waseca quint was never able to get any closer than 14 points after halftime—mainly because of Northland's unusual penchant for blocking shots. Northland set a new school record by swatting away 19 field goal attempts with freshman center Burnie Stephens setting a new personal mark with eight blocks.

Northland shot a very respectable 47 per cent from the floor, hitting 49 of 101 shots, while Waseca shot just 31 per cent, making 39 of 124 tries. From the free throw line Northland sank 10 of 15 attempts and Waseca hit only five of 12 chances. Waseca finished the game with a 63-61 rebound edge.

WASECA FRESHMAN Randy Grupe was forced to make an acrobatic move just to get this shot off over the outstretched arm of Northland's Burnie Stephens in Wednesday's first round Arctic Invitational tournament game. Stephens set a new school record in the Waseca contest by blocking eight shots to help lead the Northmen to a 108-83 triumph.

Daly Sentenced For Failure To File Income Tax

On Jan. 2 United States District Judge Edward Devitt sentenced Jerome Daly to three years' probation for failure to file federal income tax returns for the years 1967 and 1968, subject to the provision that he file full and complete income tax returns for the past and in the future, according to a news release from the internal revenue service district office in St. Paul.

On Oct. 12, 1972, Daly was found guilty by jury trial on these charges and appealed the conviction to the 8th Circuit court, St. Louis, Missouri. The 8th Circuit Court upheld the conviction by judgment dated July 20, 1973. Daly then appealed to the United States Supreme Court which denied Certiorari on Dec. 3, 1973.

Judge Devitt committed Daly to the custody of the attorney general for a study as to his mental condition. On Oct. 2, 1973, Daly entered the medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo., to undergo psychiatric examination. He spent 80 days at Springfield and 10 days in the federal correction institution. He was found mentally competent.

Daly filed Forms 1040 that contained only his name, address, occupation, and social security number, and the declaration under penalty of perjury clause had been blocked out.

Daly claimed it was against his constitutional rights under the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution to have to complete and file Forms 1040 as required by law.

Evidence at the trial showed Daly was the principal speaker at tax revolt meetings nationwide. Daly offered packets for sale for $100 "detailing" his "method" of not paying income taxes. He also sold sample Forms 1040 with attachments which was suggested as a method of not paying income taxes.

Daly has repeatedly advised the use of the Fifth Amendment and said it could be asserted even though the information did not incriminate.

To his charge to the jury, Judge Devitt stated that the Fifth Amendment was not a proper legal defense for failure to file an income tax return. Furthermore he indicated that a 1040 is not a "return" unless it is completed as by law.

The decision handed down by the 8th court of appeals states: "A taxpayer's return which does not contain any information relating to the taxpayer's income from which a tax can be computed is not a return..." and also: "We therefore hold that the Fifth Amendment privilege against incrimination does not extend to the defendant's failure to file."

Daly argued that the only "Legal Tender Dollars" were those which contained a mixture of gold and silver and that only these dollars may be constitutionally taxed. The circuit court called this argument "clearly frivolous."

Ag. Ed. Council Elects Members For Two Years

Formation of the Minnesota council for coordinating education in agriculture is being viewed by many agriculturists and educators as a significant development with far reaching possibilities, says LaVern A. Freeh, council chairman.

The council is made up of representatives from the state department of education, the state college system, the state community college system, the University of Minnesota and the staff of the higher education coordinating commission.

All of the council representatives have been appointed to the council by the chief administrative officers of the educational institutions or units they represent.

The council serves in an advisory capacity to all educational institutions and units offering education in agriculture in Minnesota with the focus on the coordination of resources committed to agricultural education in Minnesota to most effectively make them available to the citizens of Minnesota through appropriate programs, courses, information and services.

The officers of the council for this and the next fiscal year were recently elected. They are chairman, LaVern A. Freeh, head, office of special programs and assistant director, agricultural extension service, University of Minnesota; vice chairman, Walter Larson, coordinator, agricultural programs, Worthington state college; and recorder, Norman Bohmbach, vocational agriculture instructor, Waseca public schools, and past president of the Minnesota vocational-agriculture instructors association.

Vietnam Bonus Board Of Review Begins Hearings

Board of review established to hear appeals by applicants for the Minnesota Vietnam bonus will hold its first hearing Wednesday.

Some 95 veteran and five beneficiary applicants have appealed decisions of the Vietnam bonus division — the temporary division of the state veterans affairs department established to pay the bonus — which has declared them ineligible for all or part of the bonus.

More than 110,000 veterans and beneficiary applications for the bonus have been approved by the bonus division to date. Of this number, 1,303 veteran and 39 beneficiary applications have been denied.

Bonus division has received 123,000 applications and expects to receive another 27,000 before all eligible veterans have applied. They expect approximately three per cent of the applications will be denied by the conclusion of the program.

The three-man board of review is charied by Joseph Pangal, a Korean War veteran. Pangal is chairman of the St. Paul area co-operative area manpower planning program.

Other members are Richard L. Johnson, a Korean war veteran and Richard W. Kelley, a Vietnam veteran. Johnson is an employee of Northwestern Bell telephone company. Kelley is assistant to the city of Minneapolis youth coordinator.

Veterans who wish to appeal decisions of the bonus division may do so by writing the Commissioner of Veterans Affairs, State of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, within 60 days from the date they are notified their application has been denied. They will be notified of the date of their hearing in sufficient time to prepare materials they may wish to present.

Veterans may appear in person before the board to present their case, or they may designate someone to represent them. All hearings will be public.

The cases of veterans who do not wish to appear in person or send a representative will be decided in separate hearings called "record hearings."

The board of review has scheduled 12 hearings through the month of March.

At least one hearing per month will be a record hearing. The hearings will be held in the veterans service building in the state capitol complex. Hearings will be held in other areas of the state as the number of appeals warrants.

A consultant has been hired to act as executive secretary for the board. He is Steve M. Mihalchick, a St. Paul law student. Mihalchick will do research for the board on the legal questions it encounters in its deliverations.

Vietnam veterans are eligible for bonus if they served in Vietnam at any time during the period from July 1, 1958 to July 27, 1973. Veterans who did not serve in Vietnam are eligible for a bonus if they served in the armed forces between Aug. 5, 1964 and Jan. 27, 1973.

Of the 1,300 applications denied, nearly 1,000 were filed by non-Vietnam veterans who served before Aug. 5, 1964. One denied application was received from a Navy veteran who helped evacuate French forces from Hanoi in 1955.

Some 230 applicants failed to meet the residency requirements established by the bonus legislation. In order to be eligible, a veteran must have been a resident of Minnesota for at least six months immediately preceding entry into the armed forces.

In addition to a flat $300 payment for having served in Vietnam, veterans are awarded $15 for each month of service up to a maximum of 20 months.

Rulings of the board of review will be announced within approximately 10 days following the hearings.

Local Guardsman Is Outstanding Trainee In BCT

Pvt. Aaseby

Hjalmar V. Aaseby of Viking, a private in the Thief River Falls National Guard unit, recently received the "Outstanding Trainee" award during basic training at Fort Ord, Cal. The award and trophy were presented by Col. Wm. T. Leggett Jr. during graduation ceremonies of the First Basic Combat Training Brigade.

Aaseby has been home on an 18-day holiday leave and will return to active duty for advanced training at Fort Sill, Okla.

Before attending active duty training, Aaseby was employed at Hydra-Mac of Thief River Falls and will continue his employment there after completing his training.

Award Contract For Road Work In Roseau Co.

Landseidel & Son, Inc., of Glyndon, on a low bid of $367,951, has been awarded a contract for the improvement of a county state-aid highway in Roseau county, state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard has confirmed, acting as the county's agent.

The contract calls for laying of aggregate base and bituminous stabilized subgrade, together with plant-mixed bituminous surfacing and aggregate shoulders, on nine miles of CSAH 2 near Badger. The work, scheduled to begin June 15, is to be completed within 90 working days.

Lappegaard acts as the county's agent because CSAH 2 is a federal-aid secondary highway, and federal highway trust fund money will help defray costs of the improvement. There are about 380 miles of federal-aid secondary routes in Roseau county.

Richard Bailey, Hamline Prexy, To Go On Tour

A college president who has plenty to say about what a liberal arts education can do for today's man or woman will go "on the road" over the United States to talk about his Minnesota institution.

President Richard Bailey, of Hamline university in St. Paul, will spend three months touring the country sharing viewpoints with community colleges, alumni groups and occasional civic organizations.

He and two members of his family left January 3 on the 14,000 mile trip.

The trip is another step in the "Hamline People" program designed by Bailey to encourage alumni to share more in the support of future students, and to spread the word of this liberal arts college known for its traditions and innovations.

(Hamline is the oldest educational institution in Minnesota, founded in 1854 by the Methodist church. It is a coeducational college of 1,327 students. This past year it was awarded a Ford foundation venture fund grant for taking new and differing approaches to providing a solid education.)

As a result of the initiation of the "Hamline People" project, the college is now loaning $100,000 to alumni to invest in individual projects. In a year's time the alumni will return the loan and interest earned in a variety of ways to their alma mater.

Their gifts become part of the permanent endowment which will result in more scholarships and grants for future students.

In his visits around the country, Dr. Bailey will be giving $1,000 scholarships to attend Hamline to qualified community college students selected by the local college president.

The $25,000 the president is offering in scholarships is a gift for that purpose from Hamline trustees and friends.

Original plan for the Baileys was to travel throughout the country in a motorhome loaned the college by Winnebago Industries Inc. of Forest City, Iowa.

Now, at least the first part of the travel will be by car and train instead, however, while the president assesses the continued development of the energy situation.

Visiting with people who have volunteered to work on projects for the "Hamline People" program is one reason for the length of the trip and the travel plans that call for stops in small communities as well as in urban areas.

The general schedule includes driving through Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and Washington, D.C. the first week.

Train trips to New York, Boston and Philadelphia are scheduled the second week, and speaking engagements in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia are set for the last of January.

Two weeks in February will be spent in the southern third of the U.S. and the last two weeks of that month on the West Coast.

The month of March the Baileys will turn back toward the center of the country and concentrate on talking with Midwesterners in the last two weeks of March.

U.S. Army Has Positions For Stenographers

U. S. army's new Stripes for Skills program has openings for experienced stenographers, according to Sergeant Smith, Army Represention for northwestern Minnesota.

The army is offering an advanced starting pay and the opportunity for accelerated promotion to those who have either three years of secretary-stenographer experience, or graduation from a secretarial or business school with two years work. The applicant should be able to take 120 words per minute of shorthand, and be able to type at least 55 words per minute as well as be able to meet the army's normal enlistment qualifications.

Qualifiers will be eligible for an immediate salary of $377.70 per month plus housing, meals, medical care, 30 days paid vacation and other benefits. Upon the completion of an eight-week basic training course and eight weeks on the job, they can be eligible for an increase up to $408.30 monthly and the rank of E-4 or E-5 (Specialist).

"The prospective enlistee is also eligible to select duty location before enlistment, provided the chosen location has an opening for stenographer," Sergeant Smith said.

The recruiter reported that similar accelerated promotion opportunities are available in more than 100 job categories. A complete list of the categories and additional information about these and other job opportunities offered by the Army are available by calling Sergeant Smith at 681-1161, or by dropping a note or stopping at the army recruiting station at 209 E. 3rd St.

School Board Hears Reports On Monday

Thief River Falls board of education heard reports on pending legislation affecting school districts and activities of the Minnesota school boards association and adopted a resolution on policy relating to teaching of controversial subjects at the regular meeting held Monday evening in the school district service center.

David Olin, school district attorney, presented the legislative report and reviewed several bills to be considered by the legislature in this year's split session. He also summarized his activities as school district attorney since his appointment several months ago.

Wallace Sparby, vice chairman of the board and an area delegate to the MSBA delegate assembly, commented on resolutions which will be brought to the floor of the state school boards association convention Monday through Wednesday of next week. A number of the local board members will attend the convention.

Resolution adopted regarding board policy on teaching of controversial subjects provided for the board to work toward a policy encompassing the following: (1) Students' right to read and learn; (2) parents' right to determine appropriate reading material for their own children, and parents' responsibility to register objection to instructional materials; and rights and responsibilities of administrators and teachers in helping students become effective citizens when examining controversial issues.

The resolution was presented by board member Paul Biegner and carried without dissenting vote. Discussion prior to passage centered on board preference to develop policy thoughts as a board rather than in the arena of meet and confer sessions with teachers' representatives. Consensus was that policy should be developed before discussion with faculty.

Robert Duprey was appointed by the board as business supervisor for the school district at an annual salary of $10,500 effective Jan. 8, 1974. Duprey, 31, was formerly service manager, manager and coordinator of sales, service, supplies and purchasing at Northern Office Products, Inc.

Resignation was accepted from Betty G. Conners, cafeteria worker, effective December 17.

Board approval was given to appointments of Howard Dalager as second shift custodian at Lincoln high school, Robert Thompson as second shift custodian at Franklin Middle school and John (Mike) Anderson as hockey intra-mural director for 1973-74 school year at a rate of $300.

District clerk was given authorization for sale of 600 shares of Arctic Enterprises stock received by the district under an agreement for acquisition of special school equipment.

Due to loss of hockey practice time during the holidays under direction of the Minnesota state high school league, the superintendent was directed to request from the city a refund of 12 per cent of the $13,000 paid to the city for arena rental.

James Dalager residence was approved for remodeling as a project for the vocational-technical institute's carpentry

SPRING AT 30 BELOW? This robin apparently seems to think spring is merely a state of mind as it has been frequenting the South Merriam avenue area for the past few days. Mrs. Arne Espeseth watched it feed in a flowering crab apple tree in the Espeseth yard for two days and then called the Times. Our camera caught it on a visit to a neighboring yard where it was competing with a large flock of grosbeaks for berries hanging on a tree there. Is the cold weather we have been having lately really for the birds?

Hydra-Mac Buys Marco Property

Acquisition of the building and property of Marco Industries in the Thief River Falls industrial park was announced this week by Hydra-Mac, Inc. Douglass Steiger, president of Hydra-Mac, said the purchase has been made for planned future expansion of the company and its line of Mitey-Mac front end loaders.

Hydra-Mac plans to use the Marco building as a service department, for prototype engineering and some storeage. Change in occupancy will take place approximately April 1.

Marco of Thief River Falls will become a part of Northern Sales, Inc., of Bismarck, N.D., and inventory on hand will be transferred to Bismarck for warehousing and distribution. Marco has been primarily engaged locally in distribution of motorcycles, bicycles, helmets and other items.

Hydra-Mac officials noted that the company has now added a third production shift and employs approximately 130 people in the Thief River Falls plant. Total employment of the company in its three locations is about 200. The third shift added recently will be primarily for metal fabricating and will operate from 1:30 to 7:30 a.m. It has added approximately 25 people to the company payroll.

The company has experinced wide acceptance of its product line and is currently five months behind in filling orders. Approximately $50,000 in product volume is produced daily at the plant with expectations that February will be the firm's first million dollar production month. Company officers project $20 million in sales for 1975.

Indicative of the demand for Mitey-Mac machines, the company is now 75 units behind on orders for the Mitey-Mac II model which was introduced in November. Sales are being made in Belgium, Germany, Greece, Venezuela and Canada in addition to the United States. Hydra-Mac produced a substantial number of machines for the Gehl company.

Plans are also underway for further expansion of the existing Hydra-Mac building for production and assembly. A substantial addition to the building was constructed for that purpose late last year.

Pennington GOP Will Make Plans For Caucuses

Pennington county Republican committee will meet January 22 at the Rex cafe to plan for the precinct caucuses to be held in the county on February 26. Minnesota statute limits precinct caucuses to a single evening for both policial parties.

In 1972 over 100,000 Minnesotans participated in DFL and GOP precinct caucus activity. This is rather a low figure when one considers that there are 3.8 million people who live in the state. Nationwide only about three per cent of the people take part in this "grass roots" political activity.

Pennington county GOP committee plans to divide the county between Goodridge and Thief River Falls meeting places. Ideally the caucus should be held in the individual precinct. If any Republican in any precinct would like to arrange a precinct caucus for his own precinct he should contact Dr. David M. Brown, chairman of the Republican party Pennington county committee at Goodridge.

The GOP planning meeting will follow a session of Republican chairmen and chairwomen from Minnesota senate districts one and two which is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

All Aliens Must Report Address To Government

John W. Bowser, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization service, St. Paul advised recently that the annual alien address report program is again under way.

Aliens have until the end January to submit their addr reports to the Government. Forms I-53, for this purpose may be obtained at any post office or any office of the Immigration and Naturalization serivice. After filling it out, place a postage stamp on the reverse of this card and drop the card in any mail box.

All noncitizens, with few exceptions, are required to report. Those excused from this requirement include diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations. Aliens who are minors must also report, but the parent or legal guardian should submit the report for an alien child under the age of fourteen.

Social security number should be shown on the registration card. Aliens and employers are advised that the possession of a social security card does not entitle aliens to work in the United States.

Local Dance And Tumbling Team To Be Televised

Thirty-minute color telecast of the dance and tumbling students instructed by Mrs. Margaret Faas of Thief River Falls has been rescheduled for Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 7 television. The program, which includes about 17 area youngsters, was taped for showing in December but that showing was postponed to this Sunday.

Included in the program will be the Roaring 20's dance number which won first place at the Jaycee talent show held in December to raise funds for Operation Christmas. The prize money won by the three girsl in the competition was returned to the Jaycees for their project.

Cat Country Round-Up Spotlights Viking Trail

GRAND PRIZE in the free registration drawing to be held for snowmobilers in the "Cat Country Round-up" in Thief River Falls Saturday will be this 1974 model Arctic Cat Lynx I. Laurie Ford, Miss Thief River Falls, will draw names for the prize drawing to be held at 1 p.m. at the parking lot on Knight avenue between Second and Third streets.

Dedication of the Viking snowmobile trail Saturday afternoon as part of Thief River Falls' "Cat Country Round-up" will be a real bang-up affair, according to persons making arrangements for the event. Firing of three vintage cannons at the trail site will be among highlights of the event.

The cannons will be on display in the downtown area prior to the trail dedication program. Bringing their two 2-inch bore Civil War cannons and the mighty 4-inch bore, 1,800-pound Napoleonic seige gun to Thief River Falls will be cannoneers Myron Hoese of Mayor and Paulson Brothers of Clear Water, Wis.

"Cat Country Round-up" is being organized by the Thief River Falls community to show its interest in snowmobiling as a recreation and practical form of transportation as well as an important local industry. Efforts are being coordinated through the local Chamber of Commerce although the chamber is not a sponsor as such, according to Jon Larson, organization president.

Snowmobilers are encouraged to come to Thief River Falls by snowmobile on Saturday to participate in a number of special events. Designated routes for snowmobile travel into the city were shown on a map published on the front page of Monday's edition of the Times and are shown on the map in an advertisement in today's Times issue.

Snowmobiles are to be parked in the area reserved for them at the parking lot on Knight avenue between Second and Third streets and on designated adjacent streets which will be closed to automobile traffic. Families are encouraged to participate by using more than one snowmobile or a snowmobile and a towed sled.

With a special concern for safety, Thief River Falls police chief Roy Pederson emphasized today that only designated routes and parking area should be used by snowmobiles in the downtown area of the city for Saturday's Cat Country Round-up".

"The entire downtown area is NOT open to indiscriminate use of snowmobiles and automobile traffic will continue," Chief Pederson told the Times this morning. Although snowmobiles are permitted on residential streets and alleys, he suggested snowmobilers stay on designated routes and urged that they use extreme caution in crossing any streets or highways.

The chief also warned motorists to be especially alert for snowmobiles when driving in the city Saturday and to approach all intersections with extra caution.

Registration will be held at the parking area and all snowmobilers must register to participate in activities designed for them. A free bean feed with beans, hotdogs, potato chips, pickles and milk or coffee will be served at the city auditorium from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. to snowmobilers registering and obtaining tickets for the event.

At 1 p.m. a free prize drawing will be held at the parking lot area with approximately 30 prizes to be given away to registered snowmobilers. Grand

Wysoski Named To Lead Council For Two Years

Thief River Falls city council held its biennial organizational meeting last night (Tuesday), electing Ambrose Wysoski as president and Arnold Narverud as vice president. Action was taken on several matters, in addition to appointments and passage of measures incidental to reorganization of the local municipal government.

Roger Moe of Thief River Falls was present to ask for a reply to his earlier request to have a pool table installed in the local on-sale liquor store. The table had been removed when it was learned that its operation was in violation of a local city ordinance.

Moe had been told that the matter would require a recommendation from the liquor committee before action would be taken. However, the old liquor committee did not make a recommendation before the end of 1973 and have not been made. Committee members will not be named until action is taken to appoint someone to fill the vacancy created when Bob Carlson resigened to accept his new position as mayor.

Moe was unwilling to accept the explanation presented by Councilman Wysoski and berated the city as he left, referring to Thief River Falls as an "old folks home" and a "cow town". Moe's departure prompted several councilmen to state that they would not tolerate such abuse again.

Issuance of 63 cigarette licenses was approved. All were renewals for establishments presently licensed.

The council also accepted an offer from townships in the rural fire association to pay for half of the cost of purchasing a two-way communication system for use by the local fire department.

NEW YEAR'S BABY for Thief River Falls delayed its arrival until January 7. Kristeen Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary LaValley of Thief River Falls and was born Monday at 6:06 a.m. The first child of the LaValley's, she weighed seven pounds five ounces and was 20 inches long. Mrs. LaValley is the former Marcy Forsberg. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold LaValley and maternal grandmother is Mrs. Arlyne Forsberg, all of Thief River Falls.

Deadline Nears On Purchase Of License Plates

Owners of motor vehicles have less than a week to buy 1974 license plates without penalty, the Minnesota department of public safety recently warned.

First penalty of $1 will be added to the registration fee beginning January 11.

Second penalty of $1 will be imposed on January 21, and on February 1 the total penalty will be increased to $2.50.

Public Schools To Close Monday For In-Service

There will be no classes in Thief River Falls public schools and the area vocational-technical institute Monday, which is an in-service day for faculty, according to Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools.

Faculty members at all levels will be engaged in inventory and ordering of supplies and elementary teachers will also work on evaluation of reading, science, social studies and language curriculum areas.

Marlene Joy Holmaas And Philip Rokke Vows Spoken

Miss Marlene Joy Holmaas and Philip Brent Rokke exchanged marriage vows on December 15 at 3 p.m., at the Westaker Free Lutheran church in Newfolden.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Stan Holmaas of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Rokke of Strandquist.

Approximately 200 relatives and friends attended the double ring, candlelight ceremony. Rev. Rodney Stueland officated. At the piano was Mrs. Jerome Boen, a friend of the couple. She played Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" for the processional and "Angels We Have Heard On High" for the recessional. Vocalist was Eunice Engelsrud. She sang "The New 23rd Psalm", during the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white polyester crepe floor-length gown, which she had designed and made. The gown, fashioned in empire silhouette with a jewel neckline and long fitted sleeves, was trimmed in lace. Creating back interst was a chapel-length train. To complete her attire, she wore a lace trimmed Juliet headpiece which she had also made. She carried a white satin covered Bible topped with white mums, pink sweetheart roses, holly and cascading streamers with rosebuds tied at the ends.

Wanda Holmaas attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lynnae Broten, a friend of the bride, and Eunice Rokke, sister of the groom. Their floor-length gowns of cranberry polyester were styled in princess lines with long sleeves, a long sash trimmed with lace and bodices accented with lace bibs and stand-up lace collars. Their headpieces were white picture hats with cranberry ribbon. Each attendant carried an evergreen bough, accented by a single long-stemmed pink carnation, tied with a large pink and white bow.

Wearing a gown similar to the bridesmaids was the flower girl, Melissa Nelson of St. Paul, a cousin of the bride. She had a cranberry bow tied in her hair.

Best man was Ralph Rokke of Minneapolis, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Jerome Boen of Strandquist and Roger Johnson of Platteville, Wis., friends of the groom. All wore black tuxedos, pink ruffled shirts, black bow ties and pink carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was composed of two pink roses taken from the bride's bouquet.

Serving as ushers and distributing the wedding programs were friends of the couple: Jim Fugleberg of Bemidji and Emory Flaten of Strandquist.

The mother of the bride was attired in a long-sleeve, navy-blue dress accented with white lace on the collar. The mother of the groom wore a polyester dress in pink and cranberry. Their identical corsages were of white mums, pink carnations and holly.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Jerry Holmaas, brother of the bride, and Ruth Gundarson served as host and hostess. At the guest book was Mrs. Ralph Rokke, sister-in-law of the groom. Punch was served by Kristi and Arlene Knutson, cousins of the bride.

Centering the reception table was a tiered Lady Windemere wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. DuWayne Olson. The cake was decorated with holly, red berries and white wedding bells and it was topped with a Christogram. Mrs. Robert Rokke, sister-in-law of the groom, and Nora Rokke, a cousin of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Fred Fjerstad and Mrs. Alice Knutson, aunts of the bride.

Gift bearers were Russell Holmaas and Karen Lee, brother and cousin of the bride. Paul Stueland and Carla Beniston distributed the candy kisses and Patty Haugen, Wanda Olsin and Bonnie Bjornrud served as waitresses.

The couple is now at home at 1420 Calihan avenue in Bemidji where they are attending school. The bride is a graduate of Marshall county Central high school and is attending Bemidji vocational school. The groom, a graduate of Strandquist high school, is a junior at Bemidji State college, majoring in industrial arts.

Giving the demonstration was Mrs. Dan Salmon. In presenting the demonstration, she gave helpful hints on paints and brushes to use, methods of painting, and also displayed articles painted.

President Mrs. John Thompson presided at the meeting. She received congratulations from the group for being selected by the State Horticultural Society to receive a Merit Award. Presentation of the award will be made at the 13th District Spring Workshop.

The garden plot was discussed briefly and Mrs. Alvin Grandstrand and Mrs. Earl Erickson were appointed to head that project.

Members answered roll call by naming their favorite house plant. The garden club creed was read by Mrs. Arne Samuelson, who also served as hostess.

The next meeting of the garden club is scheduled for February 6 at the Axel Gustafson home.

Otto Stenberg Will Head Commissioners

Pennington county commissioners met yesterday (Tuesday) and elected Otto Stenberg of Thief River Falls as chairman for 1974. Routine organizational matters were covered and several appointments were made.

Dr. Peter Johnson of Thief River Falls was appointed to the Inter-County nursing service replacing Dr. Arnold Berg of Thief River Falls.

Henry Panek and Mrs. Ernest Swanson, both of Goodridge, and Commissioner Edgar Naplin were reappointed to the county extension committee. Naplin's term is for one year while the others serve three year terms.

The county extension budget of $36,160 was approved for 1974 with Pennington county paying $18,460 of that amount. The remainder is to be paid by the University of Minnesota.

The board approved a "cost of living" increase in county salaries amounting to about 5½ per cent for most employees. The increase for commissioners is $300 annually. Elected and appointed officials will recieve the 5½ per cent increase but not less than $600 annually. Other county employees will receive the 5½ per cent boost but not less than $30 per month above former salaries.

A new pay schedule for sheriff's deputies was also adopted to give the sheriff's officers the same pay scale as the local police department receives.

Rates for blading and snow plowing were also increased. The old rate was six dollars per hour for blading and eight dollars for construction with a three dollar minimum. The hourly rates were increased by two dollars with a four dollar minimum.

The board also approved continuation of the ambulance agreement with Northwestern hospital services at a cost of $2,500 quarterly, at the request of Norman Peterson, executive vice president of the hospital.

Be Careful When Using Jumper Cables To Help

The good Samaritan who uses jumper cables to help a fellow motorist get started may be risking an explosion if he doesn't follow safety procedures, warns Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund.

"An explosion is a rare occurrence, but it does happen, especially with a frozen battery. Explosive fumes from the battery can be touched off by a nearby flame or spark. This danger can be guarded against by taking certain precautions:

First, both batteries must be of the same rated voltage and be negative-ground systems.

Second, bring the two vehicles close together but not touching. Set the brakes and put gears into "park" or "neutral".

Third, keep the booster car's engine running and turn off all accessory switches on the 'dead' car.

Fourth, remove the well caps on both batteries and cover the wells with cloth.

Finally, connect positive terminal to positive terminal (marked with a P or plus symbol) and the negative terminal on the booster battery to the frame of the dead car—at least 12 inches away from the dead battery. This is the most important precaution against any spark that the connection might generate.

"You are now ready to start the stalled car. As soon as the engine is running, disconnect the cables in reverse order, remove the cloths and replace the well caps. Since the cloths may have come in contact with battery acid, keep them away from fabrics, people or animals until you can dispose of them."

Gary Erickson Renamed To Head ADA Region One

Marvin Sistad of Fosston was reelected alternate director and vice chairman of the region and Bertrand Thompson of McIntosh was reelected secretary-treasurer. Region One includes Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Discussion at the meeting was led by Cliff Markuson, manager of Minnesota ADA, who spoke on implementation of the diary promotion act passed by the Minnesota legislature. The act provides for establishment of a promotional program in which all dairy producers in the state will have an equal investment.

A 22-member board of directors will be elected by dairy producers with the election likely to be held in March, Markuson said. The directors will arrange for a state-wide referendum in which dairy producers will vote for or against a check-off of not more than one-half of one per cent of their milk sales for dairy promotion efforts.

Showing of the new film "The Day Milk Was Turned Off", produced by the United Dairy Industry association, was also a highlight of the meeting. The 30-minute film explores the nutritional value of milk and is intended for junior and senior high school showing.

Boat Safety Is Important Topic To Coast Guard

Boating safety is a topic of paramount importance to the Coast Guard as recreational boaters flock by the millions to our nation's waterways. To improve on its widespread public education program the Coast Guard has announced a new "Marine Marketing for Safety" program in the Great Lakes area.

The target groups for this program are the marine dealers and livery operators who sell or rent boats to the public. Given in a three hour seminar format, the program is presented by the seven Coast Guard boating safety detachments (BOSDETS) located in the Great Lakes area. Subjects covered are state and federal equipment requirements, industry standards as set by the Coast Guard, and new regulations on personal flotation devices (lifejackets, etc.) that went into effect on Oct. 1, 1973.

According to the program's developer, chief warrant officer Howard Wolf, "Our BOSDETS can do only so much to promote boating safety and with the help of the people in the boating business we can increase public awareness to a very great extent. It's also good business for them." Wolf commands Boating Safety Team Nine in Huron, Ohio.

The BOSDETS under Wolf's command are prepared to go to anyone in the boat sales or rental business who is interested in the program. Dealers are encouraged to write him at 108 Wall Street, Huron, Ohio 44839 or call (419) 433-4201 to arrange for a seminar.

HECC To Accept Application For Student Loans

Minnesota higher education coordinating commission will start accepting applications for the new Minnesota student loan program on February 1, Richard C. Hawk, executive director of the commission said recently.

Hawk told a Minnesota house higher education subcommittee on student affairs that the new program should help thousands of state students of post-secondary education, especially those from middle-income families who have been unable to obtain needed financial assistance.

The plight of millions of middle-class Americans who earn too much to qualify for financial assistance to send their children to college was the subject of a television news special report Thursday night and has drawn concern from many legislators and educators throughout the nation recently.

"The new loan program in Minnesota will provide a new source for many students who previously have not had access to sufficient aid under restrictive federal guidelines," Hawk said.

The State Legislature last May authorized the higher education coordinating commission to establish and supervise the loan program. Financing will be through revenue bonds not to exceed $30 million.

Hawk said materials are being prepared to be sent to financial aid officers at post-secondary institutions in the state. The aid officers will explain the application process to students, and students are advised to contact their loan counselors after January 27, for detailed information.

Under the program, students may borrow up to $2,500 per year. Repayment of loans will take place over a period of up to 10 years after the student finishes post-secondary education. Minimum loan will be for $100.

"Initiation of the program will make loans equally available to all residents of the state and sould put post-secondary education within reach of all students regardless of family financial circumstances," Hawk said.

"The program will be particularly beneficial to students from middle-class families who experience difficulties in meeting costs, but who do not demonstrate sufficient need to qualify for other aid programs."

The Federal Government has signed a contract with HECC in which it agrees to insure the loans, covering defaults, both principal and interest.

At its December meeting, the commission authorized the steps necessary for the sale of revenue bonds. The bond sale is expected in late February or early March.

Research indicates nausea, headaches, argumentativeness and general anxiety have all be associated with exposure to excessive noise. For this reason they suggest taking proper precautions such as turning down the radio and television at home and wearing protective ear plugs and earmuffs in noisy on-the-job situations program. Authorization was given to the Gallord Wright house as an alternate if the first residence can not begin as scheduled.

Agreement with the planning firm of Nason, Wehrman, Chapman Associates, Inc., was signed by the board.

Next meeting of the board will be January 21 at Knox elementary school. On the agenda will be elementary presentation by principals Richard Sauer and William Desrocher and report on athletics in the middle school by Dr. Milton Hoff, principal.

Public Safety Dep't. Supports Seat Belt Bill

Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced recently that his department will have full support to a compulsory safety belt use bill to be introduced during the coming legislative session.

"We base our support of this concept on two points of fact," Hoaglund continued. "First, that universal use definitely will reduce serious injuries and fatalities in highway crashes, and second, that 70 to 80 per cent of the drivers and passengers will not buckle up voluntarily.

"Based on experience in the state of Victoria, Australia after a belt use law went into effect, a reduction of approximately 20 per cent in traffic deaths can be expected in the first year. In Minnesota, this could mean a savings of up to 200 lives, in addition to substantial monetary savings in man-hours lost and in property and personal injury expenses.

"Over the years, every conceivable type of public information program has been used to convince people to use belts. All of these have failed to do the job.

"We also know from studies done by the Cornell aeronautics laboratory that persons ejected in a crash account for a large number of deaths. With the occupants belted, their chances of survival are increased dramatically. In fact, a person is 30 times more likely to be killed if ejected than if kept inside of the vehicle.

"The Australian experience also shows that voluntary compliance jumps immediately after passage of a law. In the state of Victoria, belt use increased from 26 to 42 per cent immediately, even though no citations were issued for the first 30 days, and after two years, usage is up to 85 per cent, considered the optimum.

Minnesota will not stand alone in this proposal, since 35 states will be considering similar bills during 1974.

"We feel that we're on the threshold of a dramatic breakthrough on the highway fatality problem with the combination of reduced speeds due to the energy crisis, and universal use of safety belts."

prize will be a 1974 Arctic Cat Lynx I model. Other prizes will be valued items for snowmobile riders including snowmobile suits, helmets, boots and others. Laurie Ford, Miss Thief River Falls of 1973, will do the drawing with Jon Larson presiding at the event.

Following the prize drawing, snowmobilers will be encouraged to drive their machines to the start of the Viking trail, three miles north of the intersection of highways 1 and 59 west of Thief River Falls. Dedication ceremonies, including the cannon firing, will take place there.

Involved in the dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony will be Sen. Richard Fitzsimons, Warren; Rep. Andrew Skaar, Thief River Falls; Don Liden, trails system coordinator, and Bill Morrissey, grants in aid coordinator, both with the Minnesota department of natural resources in St. Paul. Others participating will be those responsible for planning and development of the trail. They include members of the Pennington county board of commissioners, soil conservation service, snowmobile trail development committee, Arctic Enterprises, Inc., and others.

The Viking trail is one of a number established with department of natural resources assistance throughout the state. Funds used by the DNR for trails are derived from recreational vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes on fuels used in recreational vehicles.

Counties where trails are located are responsible for construction and maintenance of the trails. In the case of the Viking trail, Arctic Enterprises donated much of the equipment and manpower for trail clearing, grading, survey and placing of trail signs.

Maps of the trail will be available at the parking area for the trail. The trail consists of approximately eight miles of marked trail leading to an open snowmobiling area at the west end of the trail. A log shelter will be located in the southeast corner of the open snowmobiling section and is now under construction. This will make an excellent facility for snowmobile outings as well as provide a place for warm-up and protection from weather, round-up officials said.

Several local organizations will participate in the day's program by lending assistance in one form or another. The Snow Drifters snowmobile club will mark all recommended routes for snowmobile travel during the "Cat Country Round-up" and will have maps of the city and of the Viking snowmobile trail for distribution. The club will also conduct a membership drive during the round-up activities.

Dr. Sahlstrom Is Cancer Crusade Education Chm.

Dr. Maxwell M. Barr, Minneapolis, American Cancer society volunteer-physician for the past 18 years, will head the 1974 cancer crusade in Minnesota.

Stanley Sahlstrom, Ph.D., provost of the University of Minnesota Technical college, Crookston, is crusade education chairman, and Mrs. Mark M. Anderson, Minneapolis, is residential chairman, according to an announcement by Dr. B. J. Kennedy, University of Minnesota professor of medicine and president of the society's Minnesota division.

The three-member crusade team will be traveling throughout the state training volunteers and making public appearances on behalf of the fund-raising and educational drive, scheduled for April.

Dr. Barr was state chairman of the 1973 crusade, which set a new high record of $1,163,328 in receipts. An active participant in the division professional and public education programs, Dr. Barr resides in St. Louis Park, Minneapolis suburb.

Sahlstrom is immediate past president of the division and currently is a member of the executive, public education and public information committees. Mrs. Anderson is former crusade residential chairman for the society's Hennepin county unit, one of the largest in the country. She is a native of Mankato.

Goal of the campaign is $1,250,000. Approximately 55,000 volunteers will call on homes and businesses and will distribute more than 1.5 million leaflets which emphasize cancer's warning signals. "Be alert and go to your family doctor if you have a warning signal," the leaflet says. "Cancer is one of the most curable of diseases if you catch it in time."

Minnesota has maintained its position among the society's "million dollar" divisions since 1971 by raising more than this amount each year.

Non-Smokers To Promote Rights During Week

Non-smokers should be pleased with the fourth annual national education week on smoking, January 11-17.

"Non-Smokers Have Rights Too!" will be the theme directed toward providing more relief from tobacco smoke for non-smokers, according to Carl Knutson, chairman of the Minnesota interagency council on smoking and health.

A "Non-Smokers Bill of Rights" will be promoted in Minnesota during the week-long observance along with a "Please don't smoke" symbol designed to represent the rights of the non-smoker.

"The document," Knutson said, "is a three point statement drawn up by the council that says non-smokers can protect the health, comfort and safety of everyone by insisting on (1) the right to breathe clean air, free from harmful and irrlatating tobacco smoke; (2) the right to express their discomfort and to object when smokers light up without asking permission; and (3) the right to act through legislative channels or social pressures restricting smoking in public places."

The "Please don't smoke" symbol consists of a crossed-out cigarette within a circle.

Knutson said he was optimistic the week-long observance would have an impact on providing relief from tobacco for non-smokers based on action taken this past year by state and federal agencies as well as citizens' groups to protect the rights of non-smokers.

"Several states," Knutson pointed out, "have introduced legislation to control smoking in public places. The non-smokers relief act was reintroduced in Congress and the civil aeronautics board ruled that airlines which failed to segregate smokers from non-smokers will be subject to fines."

The first day of this year's observance marks the tenth anniversary of the U. S. surgeon general's report which linked cigarette smoking with major health problems such as heart and lung diseases and cancer.

The Minnesota interagency council includes the American Cancer society, Minnesota Heart association, Minnesota Medical association, Minnesota department of education, Minnesota health department, Minnesota Lung association, Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Minnesota Association for Health, Physical Educationa and Recreation.

Lincoln high school swimming coach John Kopari received encouraging word recently when it was revealed that a number of his swimmers rank among the leaders in this year's newly established West Central swimming region.

Under this year's new Minnesota state high school league plan, swimmers earn berths in the 1974 state meet by competing in regional events with the first and second place finishers advancing to the state event. In past years swimmers met qualifying times during the year to earn state meet berths.

Thief River Falls has been assigned to the West Central region along with 18 other widely scattered teams ranging all the way down to Hutchinson. The West Central regional meet will be held at Fergus Falls February 22 and 23.

Listed among the regional leading performances for the Prowlers on the basis of best times recorded during regular season competition are times recorded by senior Doug Williams and sophomore Dan Cork.

Williams' best time of 23.8 is tied for second in the region's 50 yard free style times with a 23.2 effort coming out of Hutchinson. Williams' clocking is the 11th best effort in the entire state this winter.

Cork has recorded the second best region time in the 100 yard back stroke with a 1:03.2 effort trailing only a 1:02.0 performance by a Fergus Falls swimmer.

Cork also ranks fourth in the 200 yard free style times with his 2:03.8 clocking trailing the top 2:02.9 time while Williams has posted the sixth best 100 yard free style time of 54.5 compared to the top 53.8 clocking.

Both Cork and Williams are members of the Prowler 400 yard free style relay team which has posted the third best time in region competition with a 3:43.7 clocking trailing a top 3:43.0 effort by St. Cloud Apollo. Dave Borning and Neil Sjulson round out the Prowler relay unit.

Williams also belongs to the Prowler medley relay team along with Sjulson, Jeff Carter and Borning, a unit which has a 1:53.3 best effort for fifth place in the present regional times, trailing Hutchinson's top 1:50.6 clocking.

Two other near regional leading Prowler times include a fourth place ranking by Borning in the 50 yard free style and a seventh place position held down by Carter in the 100 yard breast stroke.

Following Monday night's Lake Region-Northland basketball game played in Devils Lake, N.D., Lake Region head coach John Burkhardt said he felt Northland freshman David Dickey was the finest basketball player to ever play in the Royals' gymnasium.

That's a pretty high compliment considering the number of extremely talented basketball players who have performed in recent years for the always strong Royals. Two members of last year's Lake Region team, Jim Bowen and Larry Potter are currently standout starters on the Moorhead State basketball team.

The U.S. squad, composed of all-stars from the Midwest Junior League for 18 to 20 year olds, finished 1-4 and in fifth place in the six-nation, round robin competition. The U.S. beat Czechoslovakia 3-2 in its last game. The losses were to Canada 5-4, Sweden 11-1, Finland 5-1 and Russia 9-1.

The unbeaten Russians won the tournament title with Finland and Canada each finishing 3-2, Sweden 2-3 and the Czechs 1-4.

Wrestlers And Swimmers Reopen Prowler Winter Sports Seasons

Minnesota state high school league's two week holiday ban on all athletic events will end for Lincoln high school teams Thursday when the Prowler wrestling and swimming squads initiate the second portion of the 1973-74 season.

David Dickey

Dave Kjos

Joe Brown

Highly rated Lake Region of Devils Lake, N.D., posted its second three point win of the 1973-74 season over coach Chet Engelman's Northland community college basketball team Monday night as the Royals slipped by the visiting Northmen 80-77.

Northland will try to regain its winning edge which has accounted for an impressive 8-2 record this winter Saturday afternoon when the Northmen host Rainy River of International Falls in a 2 p.m. MCCAA Northwest Division counting game.

Both the Northmen and Royals turned in strong performances in Monday's tight, well played battle between respected region XIII powers. "It's possible that we played as good as we have all year," commented Engelman after the game. "From a spectator's standpoint the game couldn't have gotten any closer," Engelman explained. "It was a well played ball game on both sides. Everybody played pretty well for us, especially David (Dickey). He had a really fantastic game." Dickey finished the contest with a game high 27 points along with 11 assists. Engelman also cited Dave Kjos and Joe Brown who both came off the bench and turned in outstanding efforts.

Lake Region opened up a quick 7-2 lead against the normally slow starting Northmen who managed to slice the difference to 7-6 before falling behind again by a 17-8 margin.

Kjos, a 6-1 freshman guard, entered the game and sparked another Northland rally that carried the Northmen to within 24-22, midway through the first half.

Led by starry forward Ellis Funchess, Lake Region widened its lead to 30-22, but Northland gradually cut the point spread until the sharp shooting Brown scored the final two buckets of the first half to tie the game 42-42 at intermission.

A five point Lake Region lead was the largest point spread in the near stand-off second half as the Royals moved in front 54-49 with 16:19 remaining.

Northland rallied with eight straight points to take its only lead of the game with Dickey, Ralph Fitts, Burnie Stephens and Dickey again, hitting field goals to push the Northmen into a 57-54 command with 13:53 left.

Lake Region responded immediately with Roger Miller, Marty Clark and Funchess rattling off three quick baskets for a 60-57 Royal lead.

Lake Region never relinquished its lead although the Northmen trimmed the difference to just a bucket several times as the teams traded points the rest of the way.

Lake Region then began a time consuming stall until Mickey Jordan connected on the first of a two shot foul situation with 30 seconds left. The Northmen pulled down the rebound on the second free throw, but a hurried Northland shot was wide of the mark.

Funchess put the game out of reach with a driving lay-up for an 80-75 difference with 24 seconds remaining.

Dickey's two pointer made it 80-77 and Northland forced a Lake Region turnover in the game's final four seconds but couldn't capitalize on the situation.

Both teams hit 35 shots from the floor during the game with Northland shooting 45 per cent on 78 attempts and Lake Region shooting 47 per cent on 74 tries. Northland sank seven of 10 free throw opportunities while Lake Region made 10 of 22 gift tosses. Northland held a 46-43 edge in the rebounding charts and surprisingly, Lake Region topped the turnover charts 17-10.

Letters to the Editor

On December 8, 1973, a meeting of the Thief River Falls Backcourt club was held at the Rex Cafe at 11 a.m. This meeting was scheduled for all basketball fans, (players, parents, coaches) and anybody who likes basketball, to have an informal cup of coffee and discuss programs, schedules and to hear progress reports by the coaches from the elementary level through the varsity.

There were only 10 people who showed up and seven of these were coaches. I personally believe this community has many more concerned sports boosters than this number would indicate.

There is another meeting schedule for this group on this Saturday, January 12 at 11 a.m. at the Rex. Let's have all persons who are interested in promoting basketball at all levels in Thief River Falls attend this meeting and show the coaches and the people working with these groups that we support their endeavors.

The hockey boosters in this community have made tremendous strides in organizing and developing a sound hockey program. This community is large enough so basketball can do the same without detracting from or hurting the hockey program in any way. The backcourt club needs your support. Please show up at the Rex on Saturday at 11.

Sincerely,
A. Cliff Larson

LHS Cagers Face Strong Bemidji & Grafton Teams

Lee Swanson

Randy Dallmann

Coach Lee Swanson's Lincoln high school basketball team will end its holiday inactivity in a tough manner this week when the Prowlers face highly regarded foes Bemidji and Grafton in a Friday-Saturday twinbill.

Thief River Falls travels to Bemidji for a Northwest Conference game against the arch rival Lumberjacks Friday before hosting respected North Dakota opponent Grafton Saturday in the Lincoln gym. Both games will have 8 p.m. starting times.

The Prowlers finished the 1973 portion of their 1973-74 season with a 3-2 record, posting wins over Mahnomen 66-61 in overtime, Roseau 79-42 and Fosston 87-66. Both Thief River Falls losses have come in conference play with the Prowlers losing to Crookston 81-50 and Breckenridge 51-38.

Swanson indicated his starting line-up for the weekend games would have one change in the unit that started the pre-Christmas games. Randy Dallmann, a 6-1 senior forward, will move into the Prowler front line along with 5-11 junior forward Dallas Kemmer and 6-8 junior center Wayne Peterson. The Prowler backcourt will include 5-11 senior Duane Dicken and 5-7 junior Jerry Sandahl. Kent Christensen, a 6-1 senior forward, will be the sixth man and is expected to see extended playing time.

"We still feel this team has the potential of being a good basketball team," stressed Swanson. "This team can be as good as it wants to be."

The Powerful Bemidji ball club, expected to be a title contender in the class AA region B tournament along with Duluth East this spring, owned a 5-1 record going into the Christmas recess.

Nearly all of the Bemidji success this season is supplied by the Lumberjacks highly publicized "big three," an all-senior trio consiting of 5-10 guard Don Hubbell, 6-2 forward Stan Drew and 6-8 center Steve Vogel.

Hubbell quarterbacks the Bemidji basketball team much in the same fashion as he did the Lumberjack football squad with his skillful outside shooting accounting for a 16.2 scoring average. Vogel leads the Jacks in scoring with a 17.8 average and provides Bemidji with a strong inside game. Drew adds muscle to the Bemidji front line and averages 14.7 points per game.

The other two Bemidji starters will probably be 6-0 junior forward Jim Schmeckpeper and 5-10 senior guard Perry Dreyer. Jack Schwartz, a 6-2 sophomore, is the top Lumberjack reserve.

"Hubbell and Vogel work real well together," acknowledged Swanson. "If the defense starts sagging on Vogel underneath, Hubbell will open it up with his outside shooting."

Grafton will visit Thief River Falls Saturday with a 5-2 season record. The always formidalbe Spoilers rely on a strong defensive game to go along with scoring sensation Jamer O'Keefe, a 6-0 senior who is the leading scorer in North Dakota high school play. O'Keefe averages nearly 30 points a game for the Spoilers.

NCC Icemen To Host MCCAA League Foes Hibbing And Mesabi

Northland community college hockey team will begin a lengthy season ending stretch of 16 straight MCCAA hockey conference games this weekend when the Northmen host league foes Hibbing and Mesabi in a Friday-Saturday series in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The Northmen, currently 1-0 in conference play, will carry a 3-3 season record into the weekend games in which Northland hosts Hibbing Friday and Mesabi of Virginia Saturday in a pair of 7:30 p.m. games.

Both Hibbing and Mesabi are expected to be in the thick of the MCCAA hockey conference pennant chase. Mesabi is currently 3-0 for the year. "The games this weekend should be a pretty good measuring stick for us," commented Northland head coach Swede Lund. "They're both suppose to have pretty good teams so the games should tell us a lot about ourselves."

Injuries continue to plague the Northmen with two top skaters still on the sidelines. Sophomore wing Rory Anderson suffered a cracked vertebrae back injury in Northland's season opening game against Concordia and he isn't expected to return to action for at least three more weeks. Freshman Jon Jensen suffered a severe thigh bruise recently and won't be back until at least January 18.

Lund said his line-up for the upcoming weekend series would probably find Randy Schmitz centering an all sophomore line with Rick Vatnsdal and Merlin Nelson on the wings. Another forward unit will have sophomore Al Eisenzimmer skating between freshmen Jon Markstrom and Rob Eisenzimmer. A third all freshman line will have Dick Penning centering Pete Jerome and either Mike Drury or Tony Demarais.

Prowlers Skate Against Roseau

Bill McGann

Mike Froehle

Inactive since absorbing a 5-3 set-back at the hands of Superior December 21, the Lincoln high school hockey team will make up for lost time starting Saturday when the Prowlers travel to Roseau for an important 8 p.m. region eight game.

The trip to Roseau will begin a rugged 18 day stretch in which the Prowlers face no less than eight highly regarded opponents in a revamped January schedule.

Following Saturday night's game against the Rams the Prowlers will play six straight home games against Warroad on Tues., Jan. 15; Hallock, Thurs., Jan. 17; Grand Rapids, Sat., Jan. 19; Grand Forks Red River, Tues., Jan. 22; Bemidji, Fri., Jan. 25; and Fargo South, Mon., Jan. 28. Thief River Falls will finish the month by traveling to East Grand Forks Tues., Jan. 29.

"We'll really be getting into the tough part of our schedule starting Saturday night at Roseau," commented Prowler head coach Bill McGann. "The schedule's going to be rough, but if we're going to be a contending team we have to beat these clubs—especially in the point counting region eight games."

Thief River Falls will enter the meaty portion of its 1973-74 schedule with a 4-1 record. The Prowlers have beaten East Grand Forks 13-7, Bemidji 6-3, Crookston 2-1 and Moorhead 14-2 while losing only to Superior.

Roseau owned a 3-0 record going into the holiday athletic ban with the Rams posting wins over Crookston 8-4, Grand Forks Red River 7-2 and a very impressive 5-4 triumph over Iron Range power Eveleth. The Rams added a one-sided 12-5 win over Warroad Tuesday night.

"Roseau's got a good hustling team; we're sure to have our hands full with them," said McGann. "We're going to have to play good hockey in all aspects of the game."

McGann has been forced to alter his line-up somewhat because of a serious accident suffered by senior center Mike Froehle at home during the Christmas break. Froehle, who had scored four goals and collected one assist for the Prowlers, accidently shoved his arm through a window and suffered severed tendons. He will be lost to the team indefinitely.

Senior Joel Folger will start in the nets for the Prowlers.

The Thief River Falls - Roseau match-ups in Pee-Wee and Bantam play this week has been the talk of the youth hockey program. "The team has been looking forward to playing Roseau for the past two weeks," noted Ron Novak, director of the TRF program about the Sunday afternoon Pee-Wee game. "After playing Roseau twice and losing twice, VFW coach Monte Markstrom and all the players feel Roseau can be had this time around," remarked Novak about the Bantam clash. Artificial Ice Highlights Start Of Curling Season

by Marvin Lundin

While the Rolling Stones may be popular with the teen set around Thief River Falls, the curling stones are currently in vogue with a large number of the post-teen members of the community. On new artificial ice at the Thief River Falls curling club building is where the action is.

Curling club members have gone out on a limb (or is it a sheet of thin ice) to the tune of $30,000 for the assurance of playable curling ice throughout the late fall, winter and early spring season. The 175x80 curling building—built in 1959 in cooperation with the Pennington county agricultural society which operated the county fair—has been insulated with white styrofoam in the past year or so to maintain an inside temperature of 28 degrees.

Artificial ice—simply water frozen by in-floor refrigeration rather than natural cold—is available on four curling sheets. The sheets measure 14x138 feet in size. Remainder of the curling building, now owned by the city of Thief River Falls, contains a warming area and lunch counter. A second floor above the warming area has a glassed in front for a spectator gallery and the public is always welcome to watch the games in progress.

Lunch is served daily at the building from 9 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. with Mrs. Ruth Olson in charge of the lunch counter. Her husband Jim is caretaker of the club. They have fulfilled those obligations for the past dozen years or so and are on a first name basis with most of the members who participate in curling leagues or frequent the club regularly.

Men's curling leagues have just begun for the current season with six leagues in operation. A women's league takes to the ice sheets on Tuesday evenings and a mixed league for couples curls every Sunday afternoon. Many of the men curl in more than one league, usually with different rink (team) members. A number of women who curl in the mixed league are also women's league members.

Although league play occupies much of the ice time at the club, the public is not overlooked. Each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. the club is open to non-members at a cost of $1 per person.

Thief River Falls curling club annual dues are $50 for men, $25 for women or $90 for a family. Participants in the Sunday afternoon mixed league pay $50 per couple for the season, if they are not already club members. All dues paying members have a vote in the club affairs and elections.

The local school district leases a block of time from the curling club for student use through its physical education program. When the club is not in use for league play or students, it is available to club members during the 9 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. period.

Any organization or group who is interested in reserving a block of time for a group activity at the club may contact Jon Larson, Thief River Falls curling club director on the Minnesota state curling association board. He will provide information on rates and time available for group curling.

Curling club officers hasten to point out that the membership fee is a one-time payment for a season of activity. The only personal equipment needed is a curling broom—a short-handed, elongated relative of the stiff whiskered variety which always used to be and occasionally still may be found in the home. The curling rocks are furnished by the club and no other equipment is needed.

Curling is an international sport which originated in Scotland and the scoring somewhat resembles a hybrid of horseshoes and shuffleboard. The purist takes the sport extremely seriously and has a vocabulary of curling terms while on the ice which is completely foreign to the uninitiated. The majority of curlers, however, enjoy the invigorating temperature, the physical activity, the general competioion and the occasional thrill of completing a good shot or, better yet, drubbing a rink skipped (captained) by a purist. Rivalries may become keen but sportsmanship must prevail; a round of handshaking follows every game.

Thief River Falls curling club is a member of the United States Men's Curling association (USMCA) which sanctions all men's league play and bonspiel (tournament) play. The local club hosts two invitational bonspiels each season. Both are three-day events. The men's invitational bonspiel is held in February and the mixed bonspiel will be held in March. Rinks from the Thief River Falls club are eligible to compete in state playdowns, and if successful to continue into national and international competition.

Officers of the local curling association are Ev Ault, president; Richard Jorde, secretary; and Bill Penning, treasurer. Directors are Ardell Liden, Dick Bjorkman and Darrel Bakke. Directors are elected for two-year terms by the club membership and officers are elected annually by the directors. Current officers and directors will serve until the annual meeting in April.

It is the intention of the club to make the building available for off-season use as well as for curling during the season. Persons who would be interested in rental of the building may contact the club president.

Through contributions by members and supporters of the sport of curling, $22,000 of the $30,000 investment for artificial ice-making equipment has been recovered.

Attempt is made to avoid commercialism in curling as much as possible and rinks are identified by the name of the skip rather than a sponsor. The skip directs the play of the rink during the game (eight ends in men's league play) and throws the last rocks in each end.

Following is a list of women's teams which curl at 7 and 8 p.m. on Tuesdays: Rosie Worner (skip), Corinne Ault, Connie Omdahl and Lois Simons; Betty Liden (skip), Ardelle Offerdahl, Shirley Odegaard and Linda Liden; Alice Liden (skip), Gudy Geatz, Susan Owen and Valeri Trontvet; Fern Liden (skip), Gladys Liden, Marge Panek and Debbie Drees; Edie Nabben (Skip), Marge Corliss, Coleen Nasland and Kathy Berger; Carol Mansueto (skip), Maxine McEwen, Roberta Wiegand and Samantha Wahl;

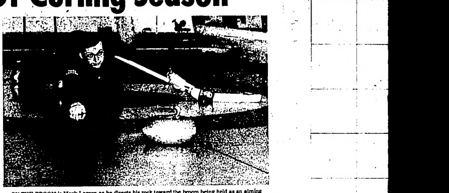
Thursday, 7 p.m.—Tom Dimich, Harold Nabben, Don Barron, Orvel Stocks, Lloyd Schimpf, Leonard Skaar, Bob Higdem and Hartz Wholesale.



ON THE BROOM is Mark Larson as he directs his rock toward the broom being held as an aiming point at the far end of the sheet. Action is from the Fun Spiel held by the local curling club to kick off its season last weekend.

ON ITS WAY toward a hoped-for position in the house at the far end of the ice sheet is the curling rock thrown by Valerie Larson in the Thief River Falls women's curling league. Her husband Jon is the local curling club's director of the board of the Minnesota state curling association.

ST. BERNARD'S HOT LUNCH PROGRAM
January 7, 1974

Father James Bernauer, Superintendent of St. Bernard's parish school, announced today that the regulations for determining reduced price meals have been amended to authorize a more liberalized income scale. The scale which is effective immediately is as follows:

Free Lunch Program

1	$ 2,740
2	3,600
3	4,460
4	5,319
5	6,100
6	6,890
7	7,600
8	8,310
9	8,600
10	9,600
11	10,240

Amended Reduced Lunch Program

1	$ 3,830
2	5,040
3	6,250
4	7,440
5	8,540
6	9,640
7	10,640
8	11,640
9	12,550
10	13,440
11	14,330

Families falling within this scale or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships are urged to apply for free or reduced meals for their children. They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the superintendent's or principal's office. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. The form itself is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances of hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school meals. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced price meals regardless of your family income. If you have such children living with you and wish to apply for such meals for them, please contact the school. The following four (4) special harship conditions will be considered in determining eligibility of applicants: 1) Unusually high medical expenses; 2) Shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income as defined herein; 3) Special education due to the mental or physical condition of a child; 4) Disaster or casualty losses.

Effective this school year there will be no automatic eligibility for children from A.F.D.C. parents, or children from families participating in the Food Stamp program or Commodity Distribution program.

The Reduced Lunch price will be 15 cents per meal for each child.

Under the provisions of the policy the Food Supervisor will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local official he may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision. Sr. Deanne Benoit has been designated as the Hearing Official. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay for their meal regardless of his race, color, or national origin.

A complete copy of the policy is on file at St. Bernard's Parish School, in the superintendents office where it may be reviewed by an interested person.

Proper License Use Is Urged On Snowmobiles

Snowmobile owners and drivers can avoid potential fines by paying proper attention to registration and licensing procedures, according to local conservation officers of the Minnesota department of natural resources.

Snowmobilers are advised to use all license numbers displayed in proper position on the machine and to have the proper decal attached to the snowmobile. A number of recent violations have been noted, the officers said, and citations are being issued to owners of machines found to be in non-compliance.

ST. BERNARD'S HOT LUNCH PROGRAM

January 7, 1974

Father James Bernauer, Superintendent of St. Bernard's parish school, announced today that the regulations for determining reduced price meals have been amended to authorize a more liberalized income scale. The scale which is effective immediately is as follows:

Free Lunch Program

1	$ 2,740
2	3,600
3	4,460
4	5,310
5	6,100
6	6,890
7	7,600
8	8,310
9	8,600
10	9,600
11	10,240

1	$ 3,830
2	5,040
3	6,250
4	7,440
5	8,540
6	9,640
7	10,640
8	11,640
9	12,550
10	13,440
11	14,330

Families falling within this scale or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships are urged to apply for free or reduced meals for their children. They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the superintendent's or principal's office. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. The form itself is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances of hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school meals. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced price meals regardless of your family income. If you have such children living with you and wish to apply for such meals for them, please contact the school. The following four (4) special harship conditions will be considered in determining eligibility of applicants: 1) Unusually high medical expenses; 2) Shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income as defined herein; 3) Special education due to the mental or physical condition of a child; 4) Disaster or casualty losses.

Effective this school year there will be no automatic eligibility for children from A.F.D.C. parents, or children from families participating in the Food Stamp program or Commodity Distribution program.

The Reduced Lunch price will be 15 cents per meal for each child.

Under the provisions of the policy the Food Supervisor will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local official he may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision. Sr. Deanne Benoit has been designated as the Hearing Official. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay for their meal regardless of his race, color, or national origin.

A complete copy of the policy is on file at St. Bernard's Parish School, in the superintendents office where it may be reviewed by an interested person.

Proper License Use Is Urged On Snowmobiles

Snowmobile owners and drivers can avoid potential fines by paying proper attention to registration and licensing procedures, according to local conservation officers of the Minnesota department of natural resources.

Snowmobilers are advised to use all license numbers displayed in proper position on the machine and to have the proper decal attached to the snowmobile. Though Florida has no time restriction on studded tire use, motorists are cautioned that the state prohibits studs which "materially" injure the roadway.

No firm interpretation of this statute is available, but the American Automobile association reports some members "using studded tires were stopped by the Florida highway patrol this past year and forced to buy regular tires to replace their studded tires before they were permitted to continue their trip."

David Kildahl Initiated Into UND Fraternity

David B. Kildahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Kildahl of Thief River Falls, was recently initiated into Sigma Tau fraternity at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Kildahl will graduate in May from the university with a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering.

Sigma Tau is a national professional honorary fraternity of engineers, having as its active members those students in the top one-third academically in the junior or senior class.

Business officials estimate over $4 billion are spent annually in terms of accidents, absenteeism, inefficiency and compensation claims directly or indirectly resulting from noise pollution. This, together with the untold loss in human terms, makes it more important than ever before to actively seek to reduce the environmental din which has resulted in the widespread problem of noise pollution.

Area Students Receive SCSC Scholarships

More than a third of a million dollars in scholarships and grants have been awarded to students at St. Cloud state college for use during the 1973-74 school year.

This year's scholarships and grants come from a variety of sources, including institutional and departmental scholarship funds. Sources outside the college include state of Minnesota scholarships and grants, the Charles and Ellora Alliss Education foundation, the Tozer foundation, the Mayo foundation, the Bureau of Indian affairs and numerous high schools and civic organizations.

These awards account for about 12 per cent of the total financial assistance available to St. Cloud students in 1973-74. Funds also are provided through national direct student loans, federally insured loans, emergency loans, work-study programs, education opportunity grants and part-time employment.

Last year the college's financial aids office estimated that more than $4 million in financial assistance was made available to nearly 6,000 students, averaging $672 per student.

Professor Impressed With China People

by Bill Huntzicker
University News Service

A University of Minnesota professor who toured the People's Republic of China says he was impressed with the discipline of its people and their potential as a world power.

Robert J. Poor, associate professor of art history and associate director of the Minnesota museum of art in St. Paul, was one of 12 American specialists on Chinese art and archaeology to complete a month-long tour of the Chinese mainland last week.

China has made great strides toward providing for the basic needs of its people since the 1949 revolution and is on its way to becoming a major industrial force, Poor said.

"The Japanese experience, the American experience and the Russian experience may be just a prelude to what's happening in China," he said. "China's industrial might could be beyond anything we know."

Poor said he was impressed with the vitality of the society and said he disagrees with views of Chinese workers as faceless ants. "You get a strong sense of the individuality of any person you're with," he said.

"With one-third of the people of the world, China will play a major role in the world but it will emerge in about 20 years, not now. They still have to overcome enormous internal problems," Poor said.

"Their discipline is more to keep themselves in control than to burst out and impose it on someone else. They are more concerned with solving their own agricultural problems, for example, than someone else's," he said.

In a free-wheeling interview, Poor covered a range of topics in discussing his impressions of the People's Republic.

"They have solved some massive social problems not considered possible before the revolution," he said.

China has virtually solved the problems of crime, disease, poverty and illiteracy, he said, but they have paid a price for that success.

"Every single aspect of life is geared toward serving the state," he said. "The closest analogy to it I can think of is the United States during World War II when everyone was encouraged to work hard for the good of the country."

He said pictures of Chairman Mao Tse-tung were everywhere as were slogans stating, "May Chairman Mao live forever!"

"I never really appreciated the power of religion until I went to China," Poor said. "I saw 20 or 30 neon signs and they were all in red and said something about Mao or religion. I saw no reference to any other Chinese leader."

He said the literacy rate was almost 100 per cent, but that the goals of education are subservient to political considerations. Officials and professors must work in the fields as do the other workers at harvest time.

"And if they show any signs of backsliding, as a professor might be prone to do—a couple of weeks on the manure pile will cure that. He learns to understad the needs of the peasant very quickly," Poor said.

Some 80 per cent of the 800 million Chinese population live in rural areas, Poor said. The official government line is to practice birth control, but it also is talking about agricultural and industrial growth, making its position suspect, he said.

Late marriages, with men getting married about age 35 and women at about 28, is the recommended means of birth control; there isn't much opportunity for earlier sexual contact and nothing in the culture encourages it, he said.

"The basic work tool is human labor," Poor explained. "A basket, shovel and a wheelbarrow—that's the kind of agricultural industrialization we're talking about. The major agricultural reform is irrigation."

Many of the people live in communes which are centered around an industrial plant or agricultural operation, he said. A commune is essentially a city or a county with as many as 30,000 people living in it. Many are on the lines of the old counties with their own farm plots, schools and stores.

In his travels, Professor Poor found some differences between different communes and guides sometimes mentioned individual characteristics of communes. "But there is no competition. Everybody serves the people; some people just serve the people better than others," he said.

Poor said that Chinese cars are all essentially the same as the 1946 Plymouth, but roads, even in remote areas, were paved and well-maintained. "And every vehicle becomes a military vehicle when you put a flag on it," he said.

He found bitter hatred of Russians. Given this attitude, severe population pressure and a long common border, some conflict between the Soviet Union and China is very likely, he said.

Poor was asked how the Chinese could hate the Russians and yet revere Stalin and Lenin along with Mao as spiritual leaders. "They are having some problems with their philosophy, but it's not unlike some Christians who hate Jews and claim to love Jesus in spite of his being a Jew," he replied.

In discussing his own field—art—Poor said that the Chinese have carefully cared for their art treasures even though many things, especially paintings, are rarely displayed. "There are two and one-half million pieces of art in storage in one museum, but they are not being extensively studied," he said.

Archaeology fares better than painting because it can be used for political purposes.

"Archaeology can be used to demonstrate the integrity of the people. One, it can show their resourcefulness despite their living under a monarch, and second, the luxury of the object shows how wasteful and evil the monarch was," he said.

One site included a sign which correlated the number of man hours required to build a monument with the amount of agricultural produce which could have been produced with that labor. The number of people who starved to death as a result of the effort was then calculated, he said.

Although they are not flaunted, there are some painting exhibits. He said most artists explained their works in terms of their political meaning, most paintings being views of workers in the fields and their contentment with the political situation.

Posters of Chairman Mao were more predominately displayed in the exhibits than the paintings because they have more political significance, he said.

But, Poor added, the Chinese take a personal and national pride in their accomplishments. "This is the first time since 1644 A.D. that China is being run by the Chinese themselves and the people know it," he said.

Poor returned with several books full of notes he took on his trip, hundreds of photographs and two Ch'ing Dynasty fan paintings which he purchased for the permanent collection of the Minnesota museum of art.

His delegation which was sponsored by the committee on scholarly communication with the People's Republic of China visited all of the major cities and visited newly discovered archaeological sites, factories and communes and an acupuncture clinic.

USDA Announces Butter Price In Milk Order

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) has announced an average Chicago wholesale butter price of 71.96 cents a pound for Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter for December 1973 to be used in computing minimum prices dairy farmers receive under all federal milk marketing orders.

USDA's agricultural marketing service said that daily market quotations of wholesale Grade A (92-score) bulk butter were not available at the beginning of December and therefore were not reported by USDA market news at Chicago. At the beginning of the month other butter prices were higher than in the following weeks. Also, spot butter market prices on the Chicago mercantile exchange were significantly higher for the first week in December than for the remainder of the month. Therefore, an average of the reported prices in December for Chicago Grade A (92-score) butter was not representative.

For that reason, USDA computed an average Grade A butter price for December. It used market news reports of wholesale Grade A bulk creamery butter prices at Chicago on days when quotations were available, and for other days, equivalent prices based on spot butter market prices adjusted by a normal differential between spot prices and the wholesale bulk selling prices.

The average of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago is specified in federal milk orders as a pricing factor.

The federal milk marketing orders set minimum prices payable to dairy farmers for milk they supply to dealers operating in the milk-order areas. Prices consumers pay are not regulated by the orders, however.

Science rules today's world. Powerful nations harness technology to probe space and to create awesome weaponry which staggers the imagination.

In this age of missiles and megatons, we, more than ever, need Faith—to ward off thoughts of doom, to give us perspective, to reassure us that our lives can be full and complete even under the shadow of technology.

Faith, above all, means trust, a precious commodity in these uncertain times. And Emerson assures us that: "All I have seen teaches me to trust the Creator for all I have not seen."

Senator Mondale Seeks Advance Shortage News

Following are comments of Sen. Walter F. Mondale regarding the national shortage of a variety of products:

In 1973, in addition to urgent shortages of food and energy, we experienced shortages of a wide variety of other products—ranging from glass to paints, from anti-freeze to furniture. Industries such as steel, plastics, petro-chemicals, rubber and paper were unable to get raw materials from their suppliers, and, often, they could not supply their own customers.

In the cases of food and energy, government failed to anticipate shortages and, once they were upon us, it hesitated to act until we were in the midst of crisis situations.

The shortages could have been foreseen. The facts are available and the government has hundreds of economists working on projections of supply and demand for food products, raw materials and energy. But the administration failed to bring the facts together in order to carry out a systematic analysis of the problem.

To provide the data and governmental machinery needed to deal more effectively with shortages in the future, I have introduced legislation setting up a national shortages board.

Under my bill, an amendment to the export administration act, the board would be authorized to collect, analyze and disseminate information about scarcities of food, raw materials, minerals, industrial products and vital services.

In addition, my bill would empower the board to make recommendations on methods to prevent or minimize the effects of shortages and to cooperate with existing federal agencies in seeking to carry out these objectives. It would also require the President to submit annual reports to the nation on national shortages and food policy.

I recognize that my amendment is not an instant solution to the problem of shortages. There are certain limitations on our ability to predict future economic trends. And even with better analysis, we cannot guarantee that better policies will result.

But my amendment would provide for a centralized information system that could make use of sophisticated forecasting techniques. And it would force the President, the executive agencies and the Congress to weigh eveidence of impending shortages before they get out of control.

The hardships that our nation experienced in 1973 as the result of poor planning will, hopefully, encourage the Congress to develop legislation that will enable us to prevent painful and disruptive shortages in the future.

Integrated Cartoon Characters Do Their Thing for Walkathon

By VERNA TOMASSON

"I guess you can tell from my cartoons that I like kids, so I wanted to do what I could, through the March of Dimes, to help kids who have birth defects."

That's how the syndicated cartoonist, Morrie Turner, creator of the comic strip, "Wee Pals," explained his lending a hand to some wee pals who were born with handicaps.

A parade of his cartoon characters appeared on posters and sponsor sheets for the March of Dimes Walkathons sponsored this year by the Alameda County (Calif.) Chapter. The walks were held in four cities: Berkeley, Albany, Oakland, and Piedmont. The $165,000 they raised will go towards the research and medical service programs supported by the volunteer health organization.

The cheerful Morrie, who recently became a grandfather, also is the author of seven Wee Pals "joke books."

Volunteer Service

"But," he said, "it's no joke when a birth defect strikes a family."

Morrie feels fortunate in having a healthy family himself. It was through his work with Boys Clubs and other volunteer groups in the community, as well as his service as co-chairman of the 1970 White House Conference on Youth, that he became aware of the emotional and financial cost that birth defects can bring. Some quarter of a million infants are stricken with congenital damage every year in the United States.

Oakland Tribune

"Life was very good to me," Morrie recalls. "I was able to do the kind of work I wanted to do. I have a beautiful home and a beautiful wife, and enough money to enjoy myself with sports and entertainment.

"I'd like to see everybody get the same breaks that I did. So when I was asked to help with the Walkathons, I said, 'Okay, back to the drawing board!'"

March of Dimes Walkathons, which began several years ago, are held annually in communities throughout the country. They involve thousands of volunteers, interested in improving their own physical fitness while they help to raise the level of this nation's maternal and infant care.

Young and old, black and white, they hike up to 25 miles collecting from sponsors on a miles-walked basis. To be successful, a Walkathon requires a great deal of advance publicity and organization. And that's where Morrie Turner's pictures proved worth a thousand words.

For his artistic contribution over the past year, the Alameda County March of Dimes Chapter presented Morrie with a bronze Service Award Plaque.

In addition to the flood of Christmas cards and letters we traditionally exchange at this time of year, the holiday mail annually brings another familiar item—your state income tax form.

For the past several years, the state has allowed persons who live in rented quarters to claim a credit against the income tax they owe.

If you are a renter, you should know that the 1973 Minnesota Legislature made several significant changes in the rent credit provisions of state tax law.

These changes both increase the amount of the credit available and extend eligibility for the credit to many persons who previously were ineligible.

First, the amount of the credit that can be claimed was raised. Before 1973, the law allowed renters to claim a credit amounting to 7.5 per cent of the rent they paid for occupancy, up to a limit of $90. The new maximum, which applies to the rent paid during 1973, amounts to 10 per cent of the rent paid for occupancy, up to a limit of $120.

An important feature of the law is that the credit is fully refundable. A renter is eligible for the credit, in the form of a cash refund, even if he owes no Minnesota income tax.

The Legislature also extended eligibility to persons who rent for a total of six months of the year, rather than the last six months as provided under previous law.

Among those benefiting from the change will be thousands of college students who rent, since the summer break in their studies previously rendered them ineligible. Eligibility was also extended to cover all housing units on which property taxes are paid, including public housing. Eligibility previously applied only to persons living in private commercial units operated for profit.

Application for the rent credit, as in past years, must be made by filling out the Certificate for Rent Paid that is provided along with the Minnesota Individual Income Tax form. The deadline for submitting the application is April 15.

Our State Revenue Department reports that rent credits totaling nearly $13.3 million were claimed by 178,560 Minnesotans in 1973.

The department estimates that nearly $21 million will be claimed in credits this year, and that the number of newly eligible renters will exceed 10,000.

If you are a renter, be sure you take the necessary steps to obtain the credit.

Thought For The Day . . .

"When God wants a great work done in the world or a great wrong righted, He goes about it in a very unusual way. He doesn't stir up his earthquakes or send forth his thunderbolts. Instead, he has a helpless baby born, perhaps in a simple home and some obscure mother. And then God puts the idea into the mother's heart and she puts it into the baby's mind. And then God waits. The greatest forces in the world are not the earthquakes and the thunderbolts. The greatest forces in the world are the babies."

—E.T. Sullivan, M.D.

First Grade Teachers

Following article by Paul Crume in the Dallas Morning News was reprinted recently in the MEA Advocate, official publication of the Minnesota Education association:

The good first-grade teacher is probably the most important single person in the whole American educational system and is too little recognized. Ordinarily, she has published no learned monographs on the monetary system or on testing techniques. She may not list very many degrees after her name. She spends much of her time at unglamorous work. She comforts small people who are desperately lonely, fixes hurt hands, wipes tears out of small eyes, cleans up after accidents that happen on the way to the bathroom and consoles the desolate victims of these accidents.

She teaches attitudes as well as phonics and radiates cheer. If she is little honored, she must be the most lived person in the whole spectrum of American education because the first-grader has an infinite capacity to love people who love him.

The first-grader is also at the last stage of innocence. He is capable of the root human sins of greed, ego and deviousness but not of sustained hate.

The first-grade teacher may do more than any other person to fix the standards of American education, more even than an Einstein, although Einstein apparently could be and was an excellent first-grade teacher. A teacher whose opinion I respect contends that if the teachers in the first three grades of school fail to capture the imagination of a student, fail to enlist his mind in the joy and fascination of learning, then that student is forever lost as a scholar.

Too often, it seems to me, this enormous responsibility is handed over to the least-experienced person on the faculty. There are good first-grade teachers who spring full-blown from the colleges of education, but the typical good first-grade teacher is somebody who has been seasoned along with the children. One of the best I remember was a short, round woman who weighed about two hundred and fifty pounds. On the first day in reading circle, she mentioned gently that when children misbehaved, she always sat on them. This both awed and interested the first grade.

Actually, she never punished anybody, and the small minds and talents blossomed under her care like great sunflowers.

I most remember about her the recess periods when fifteen small people clutched trustingly at her tent-sized Mother Hubbard while the young hooligans of the higher grades murdered each other on the playing field.

It's too bad that the first-grade teachers couldn't have handled integration. I do not believe that any white child who ever learned to love a Negro first-grade teacher could be a racist any more than a black child who learned to love a white teacher.

This is probably a good time of year to celebrate the first-grade teachers and the first-graders.

Most of us who have attained the fourth grade and higher are already tainted. If anybody can solve our really awful human problem, it may be this year's clear-eyed first grade. Let's hope.

Neither Snow, Nor Rain . . .

Letters slow? Packages lost?

Well, cheer up. The United States Postal Service is spending $6.5 million dollars on a new program they hope will speed things up and correct a lot of mistakes.

A pilot program has been launched in Washington, D.C., by Postmaster General E.T. Klassen. It's a postal employee development center. Two hundred of the centers will begin to operate all over the country in a short time.

The idea has two objectives—one is to improve the efficiency of the employee and the other is to permit the postal employees' to take self-development courses on a voluntary basis to learn other skills.

The basic courses, which are mandatory, will train the employees to sort mail by Zip Code without making mistakes and improve their contacts with customers at the post office windows.

Once we get all employees to understand that all we have to sell is service and their future depends on the progress they can make as individuals, then the basic problems we have had in the past will be behind us," Klassen said.

During the period while the new techniques were being planned it was discovered that in 1969 two-thirds of the employees who retired after 30 or 40 years of service left the same job in which they began their service.

Since the Continental Congress appointed Benjamin Franklin the first Postmaster General in 1775 Americans have proudly related our mail men to the off-repeated quotation: "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of nights stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

We sincerely hope that this new training program wil indeed permit the service to take full advantage of the new technology now being employed.

How Much Liberty . . .

Columnist Margery Burns gives some interesting information in her column in the Becker County Record:

"Liberty has never come from government...The history of liberty is the history of limitations of government power, not the increase of it." Woodrow Wilson wrote that years ago.

"It is in the natural course of events that liberty recedes and government grows." That was written by Thomas Jefferson.

"Experience should teach us to be most on guard to protect liberty when the Government's purposes are beneficient. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded rulers. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning but without understanding." Justice Brandies made that observation.

So what are we going to do about the way our government takes over more and more of our liberty and privacy?

It is true that as our government has grown bigger and bigger, we have less and less to say as individuals. Do you care if you lose your privacy and your liberty?

Since 1940, our government has grown at a terrific rate. The Federal Government's gross annual revenue rose by 2,790 per cent—from $7 billion to $202.5 billion.

The total Federal expenditures went up by 2,140 per cent—from $10.1 billion to $226.2 billion.

The Federal debt outstanding rose by 830 per cent—from $43 billion to $477 billion.

Federal employment alone has grown to 2,865,303 people.

And...Congress passed 13,579 public laws. All of this since 1940!

Out of all this huge growth of government power through hundreds and hundreds of agencies which have their own rules and regulations, has come data banks, wiretapping, electronic surveilance, eavesdropping, credit histories, medical histories, income tax information, information systems, regulatory report filing, disclosure statements, data exchanges.

And all this information about you can be passed from government agencies to private sectors and back agin to government agencies. The terrible part of this invasion of privacy is the chance that an error can be made about you which will be carried all along the line. And even with correct information about you, your right to privacy is gone. Should you have to put down your "number" on every paper you sign?

This "right to privacy" goes back to 1765 when the English jurist, Lord Camden wrote: "It is not the breaking of his doors, and the rummaging of his drawers, that constitutes the essence of the offense: but it is the invasion of his indefeasible right of personal security, personal liberty...

In the middle of the 19th century, Judge Cooley used the term "the right to be let alone."

Are you concerned about your right to privacy and liberty? Or do you believe that the government should do everything for you and to you? Where do you draw the line? Do you care if your phone is tapped? Or if you are listed in a national data bank? Or if government agencies and private companies can look up your records without your permission?

How much liberty and privacy do you want?

Borrowed Nonsense

A husband and wife were peering down a wishing well. As the wife leaned over she suddenly lost her balance and disappeared into the dark hole. "How about that?" exclaimed her startled spouse. "I always used to think these things were a lot of bunk."

Booth Believes Price Control Doesn't Work

"How well do you think wage-price controls have worked? Not very well, I'll bet," writes Arch Booth, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"What would you do about it, if you had the power? I think most people would probably say, 'design better wage-price controls.'

"Well, we have now had four 'phases' and one 'freeze,' or two 'freezes' and three 'phases,' depending on how you count freezes. So if you are among those who would like 'better' controls, let me pose a tough question for you: How many failures would it take to convince you there is no way to design controls that 'work'?

"The question is not meant sarcastically," Booth said. "I can understand completely why many people would think—at this point—that the controls have failed because they haven't been run very well. But personally, I believe that all control programs will inevitably fail. They always have, everywhere they have been tried.

"If I'm right, then all attempts to 'improve' our present controls will also fail. So I ask, seriously, how many failures will it take to convince you, and your neighbors?

"As you can guess, that's a sneaky question. What I'm really hoping is to arouse your curiosity, so you'll honestly try to answer the question to your own satisfaction.

"Right now, the line up against controls is impressive. The nation's largest labor group, the AFL-CIO, has called for an end to them. So have the two largest business organizations, the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. and the national association of manufacturers.

"The cynics will say, 'Sure, because all of that crowd wants to be free to rape the consumer.'

"Actually, controls have a certain seductive appeal to businessmen and labor leaders," Booth points out.

"Competition is what makes a businessman search for more efficient ways to serve the consumer. But that doesn't mean he likes it. Competing in a free market is a constant strain.

"When government sets the prices, then the businessman no longer has to worry about what his competition is doing. So there's always a temptation for businessmen to 'go along' with controls.

"Same thing for the labor leaders. If government sets a pay 'guideline,' the labor leader simply demands that much. He doesn't have to worry about whether the company can afford it. And he doesn't have to worry about pressure from his members to get a higher raise—after all, 'it's the law.'

"Controls, therefore, have a tendency to make both business and labor lazy. When business and labor are lazy, the consumer suffers. And yet oddly enough, it's the consumers who are opposing an end to controls," he said.

"Shortages are the signs of this 'laziness.' In part, the petroleum shortage is a special case. But the other shortages are directly traceable to controls.

"A survey of manufacturers by the NAM shows that one in three firms report having curtailed or postponed capital expansion plans because of the controls, with two out of three firms indicating that removal of controls would encourage them to increase investment in production facilities.

"It's the old incentive to make a buck that builds new factories. Take away the incentive and the factories don't get built. Soon, we begin to miss the output of those unbuilt factories, and the jobs they would have provided.

"What's the answer? Does the government figure out which factories are needed, and how much to spend on each, and where to put them, and so on? Do you think the government is smart enough to do that, and do it well, while risking your tax money on the effort?

"Or do we return to the system that has served us well—not perfectly, but well—for 200 years?"

Children's Growth Pattern Stabilizes

Parents, relax. The days of looking up to your children may be coming to an end.

That's the comforting news from a major life insurance company for mothers and dads who find it difficult to lay down the law about the family car to teen-agers who tower over them.

The not-so-tall story from the company is that a recent national health survey produced no evidence of the tendency, noted in earlier studies, for each generation to be taller than the preceding one. But young people today are, on the average, heavier than youngsters were some decades ago.

Statisticians report that the average height for 17-year-old boys, who have not quite attained maximum height, was slightly over 69 inches in the years 1963-70—a figure comparable to that recorded in 1954 in a study done in the state of Michigan.

Girls who, at age 17, are more likely to have achieved maximum growth, have also experienced a leveling off in height, with an average height of somewhat over 64 inches registered both in 1954 and in 1963-70. A similar leveling off in growth among younger children was also reported.

Greater height at maturity, notes the report, has in the past been attributed to several factors, notably improved health care and diet, and the tapering off in height increases may well indicate that the nutritional quality of young people's diet has reached a plateau. However, statisticans say, further increase in height at maturity may still be possible if environmental and genetic factors become more subject to human control.

Trend toward earlier maturation, especially among boys, appears to be continuing, the report says. The greatest annual change in average heights of boys now occurs at ages 12 and 13 rather than between ages 13 and 14 as it did in 1954. Girls on the average experience an "adolescent growth spurt" at ages 11 and 12.

This earlier maturation of children may be responsible for the heavier average weights of children. Statisticians also suggest that in an era when Twiggy has already become passe, a few extra pounds may also be considered attractive, even among the younger set.

Boy Scouts Get Endowment For "Boypower '76"

Boy Scouts of America has received an endowment of $3.6 million from the estate of the late John W. Watzek Jr., a Chicago philanthropist who died on Oct. 29, 1973.

Announcement was made today by Arch McClure, Illinois chairman of the BSA'S "BOYPOWER '76" development campaign.

The Watzek endowment is the largest single gift in the $65 million "BOYPOWER '76" development fund. Goal of the "BOYPOWER" program is to increase the quality and expand the scouting program to six-million American youth by 1976.

According to McClure, approximately $2 million has been willed to the national council, Boy Scouts of America, and bequests of $800,000 each will go to the Chicago area council and the Dupage area council, headquartered in Wheaton, Ill.

According to the trust provisions, each council will establish a John W. Watzek Jr. fund from which only the income of the endowment will be used for BSA purposes.

"John Watzek supported scouting because it trains and motivates boys to be selfstarters and high achievers," said McClure. "He knew that through his gifts, even more boys would have that opportunity."

The money will be used to upgrade and expand the Cub scout, scout, and explorer programs in which one out of every four American youths is presently a member.

Club members' efforts in monthly meetings and programs, community service events and membership increases were all rated.

The clubs received special citation ribbons denoting their status as 1973 Merit clubs.

CHECKING A NAME through the fog and steam of sub-zero cold Saturday afternoon, Jon Larson and Laurie Ford presided at the prize drawing. Larson is president of the Chamber of Commerce and Laurie is Miss Thief River Falls. Snowmobile accessories and a new snowmobile were given away as prizes.

More than 525 snowmobiles and drivers were registered as participants in the "Cat Country Round-up" held Saturday in Thief River Falls and an additional 200 people were registered as passengers on the machines or in towed vehicles.

Termed a "tremendous success" by Jon Larson, president of the Chamber of Commerce which coordinated the activities, the round-up was held in spite of temperatures which began around the minus 30 mark in the morning and held well below zero throughout the day. The snowmobiles nearly filled the parking lot west of Knight avenue and a number of others were parked on closed streets by the parking lot.

Tom Rambeck, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Rambeck of Thief River Falls, won the 1974 Arctic Cat Lynx I snowmobile awarded as a grand prize in the free registration for snowmobiler participants. Larson presided at the prize drawing with assistance from Laurie Ford, Miss Thief River Falls, who drew the winning names from registration stubs placed in a box. More than 30 prizes of snowmoible accessories were presented through cooperation of local business places.

Certificates were presented to the winners to be redeemed at Arctic Sports in Thief River Falls. Persons whose names were drawn and did not pick up their certificates at the drawing site Saturday will be notified by mail, Larson said.

More than 700 people took part in the bean and hotdog feed held at the city auditorium with serving done by the agri-business committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Serving from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. preceded the prize drawing.

Many snowmobilers disdained the cold weather and rode their snowmobiles to the dedication site for the Viking snowmobile trail about three miles northwest of Thief River Falls. Minnesota highway patrol directed traffic to assist snowmobilers in crossing highway 59 safely to reach the parking area.

Terry Sexton presided as master of ceremonies at the program to open the trail. He introduced persons who had cooperated in establishment of the trail, including Rep. Andrew Skaar, Thief River Falls; Sen. Richard Fitzsimons, Warren; Otto Stenberg, chairman of the Pennington county board of commissioners; Lowell Swenson, chairman of the board of Arctic Enterprises; and Don Ledin, trails system coordinator for the Minnesota department of natural resources. Ledin spoke briefly, citing cooperation in trail establishment and stating the hope the trail will be well used for winter recreation.

Helping to kick off the official trail opening was a cannon firing exhibition by Myron Hoese of Mayor and Paulson Brothers of Clear Water, Wis.

TOM RAMBECK, winner of the 1974 Arctic Cat Lynx I snowmobile awarded during the "Cat Country Round-up" in Thief River Falls Saturday, talks about his new snowmobile with Laurie Ford, Miss Thief River Falls. Approximately 30 prizes were given away to the snowmobilers registered during the event.

In 1968 he joined T.C.I. at Benson as chief engineer of the mobile division where he designed ATV fork lifts and bucket loaders. Sandra Dahl-Bert Gjovik, Jr. Marriage Vows Exchanged

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Engvald Dahl of Newfolden. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gjovik, Sr., of Strathcona.

Rev. Clifford Anderson of Watertown and Rev. Ivan Carlson officiated at the double ring ceremony that took place on Saturday, December 15, at 7:30 p.m. Presiding at the organ for the precessional and recessional was Bonnie Bjornrud of Newfolden, a friend of the bride. She also accompanied Mrs. Janice Ramsey of Detroit Lakes as she sang, "Because," before the bride was escorted to the altar by her father; "I'll Walk With God," during the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Rose Osborne of Newfolden. Other attendants were Mrs. Audrey Hanson of Moorhead and Maxine Anderson of Minneapolis. All are friends of the bride. They wore identical floor-length gowns of Christmas red velvet, fashioned with fitted long sleeves. White lace encircled the high neckline, marked the center front of the bodice, and formed a border around the softly gathered skirt. All the attendants wore red bows in their hair and each carried a hand bouquet of red and white carnations accented with evergreens and white ribbon streamers.

Wearing similar attire and carrying a white basket filled with white carnations and greens was the flower girl, Heidi Dahl, a niece of the bride. Randy Dahl, a nephew of the bride carried the rings. He was attired like the men of the wedding party in a white tuxedo, white ruffled shirt, black bow tie and a red carnation boutonniere.

Attending the groom as best man was Lloyd Wagner of Middle River. Groomsmen were John and Terry Lubitz of Thief River Falls. All are friends of the groom. The ushers were brothers of the bride: Robert Dahl of Newfolden and Wayne Dahl of Dilworth. Jeff Dahl, a newphew of the bride, distributed the wedding programs.

Air Force Now Seeks Women For Technical Jobs

Air Force needs more women and has expanded career opportunities to attract them.

"We plan to increase our present active-duty force of some 20,000 women by nearly 250 per cent during the next five years," Brig. Gen. Conrad S. Allman, U.S. air force recruiting service commander, said.

"We have long recognized the potential of women in the labor force," he continued, "and have made Air Force life a truly equal opportunity for them."

The Air Force plans to have 48,000 women in its rank by 1978. Women have total pay equality with their male counterparts, enjoy worldwide assignment opportunities and benefit from modern Air Force living conditions.

The Air Force needs women in the technical fiels—nearly every phase of aircraft systems repair, electronic-communications equipment operation and repair, and civil engineering and building trades. The major problem now is to convince young women of the desirability of becoming skilled in the technological areas.

There are approximately 276 separate Air Force specialties for enlisted people. Only seven jobs are closed to women. Three officer specialties are also closed.

The restricted jobs are excluded by public law because of possible exposure to combat.

Air Force has set a goal of enlisting 8,000 women during fiscal year 1974. Of these, approximately half will enter the mechanical and electronic career areas. Women and men must meet the same qualifications to enter any career area, and the training is identical. No previous experience or training is required for most Air Force jobs. Msgt. Denny Larson, Air Force Recruiter, Federal Bldg. is accepting appliations now.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Oliver Grondahl
Of Holt

The morning was extremely cold with temperatures near 30 below. As we were on the way to work, a child dressed in light colored clothing popped out of the darkness. The child, barely visible in the fog and smoke caused by the cars, was walking along the street in the heavy traffic. There was no other place for that child to walk across the railroad tracks, on Nora street.

If that child had been injured or killed, who would have been to blame? Would it have been the driver, who was meeting another car, or the parents, for sending that child into the darkness without reflectorizing material on his or her clothing? Putting the blame on either the driver or the parents would be the easy way out and would cause the least amount of controversy.

However, shouldn't the blame be put where it belongs, on the legislators, who voted for daylight saving time to go into effect nation-wide in January; or on school boards in northern Minnesota, who rather than using common sense, are following the conserving energy crowd by pushing youngsters out on the streets in the dark?

In all the talk about conserving energy in this area, we have been told repeatedly that although there is a fuel shortage, we have no electrical shortage. Yet no one has explained how fuel energy is conserved by heating the schools an hour earlier or by changing the peak period of consumption to one hour earlier in the day.

When the decision was made for schools to remain on day-light saving time, were the little children taken into consideration? Compare the big burly man in the legislature or on the school board to the six-year-old. The lawmaker, after making the law, walks out into the lighted streets, gets into his car, and drives home. The six-year-old, especially those living in the country, goes out into the darkness and in many instances walks alone to the bus stop. Would the person who is so very concerned about saving energy walk the same distance to vote for the passage of the bill or to pick up his mail? Or does he conveniently use his car?

I am 100 per cent in favor of conserving energy; but, please would someone explain how we are saving fuel by sending the children to school in the dark? (EMS)

The recipe for today's Kitchen Karnival was contributed by Mrs. Oliver Grondahl of Holt. We are grateful for her contribution.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

Pain can be a blessing, advises the Minnesota State Medical Association, because it sends the patient to the doctor for treatment. Sometimes we think of lesser forms of pain as discomfort or aching. Nearly everyone experiences mild aches or pains at one time or another, and they ordinarily respond to simple home treatment.

When the pain is severe, however, or when it continues for more than two or three hours, or if it comes back repeatedly in the same way, it's time to consult a physician to see whether there is something more serious than a temporary cause for the pain.

Abdominal pain is one of the most common examples of pain, which may or may not be of a serious nature. There's the common "bellyache" caused by eating too much food or the wrong kind. But abdominal pain which persists or grows severe, or is accompanied by nausea, vomiting, diarrhea or constipation is a warning sign to abandon a "wait and see what developes" attitude and to consult a physician without delay.

Colicky pains in babies are usually not serious; however, in adults they may indicate stones, especially in the kidney and the gall bladder.

Forms of pain which require prompt medical attention to determine their cause include earache (especially in children); joint pain, especially in children; chest pains; eye pains, especially those which are sudden and severe and radiating to the head. Cramps which may effect muscles anywhere in the body, or may occur in the intestines, the gallbladder or the uterus, should be diagnosed to determine their cause.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—Is there a deadline for veterans to apply for medical treatment at Veterans Administration hospitals?

A—There is no deadline. Priority is given to eligible veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Q—I know a veteran's widow who draws death pension from the Veterans Administration and lives in a nursing home. Is she eligible for additional benefits if she is in need of regular aid and attendance?

A—Yes. She would be entitled to an additional special monthly pension of $55 if she draws benefits under the current pension law, or an additional $50 monthly under the "old" law.

Invitation Sent To Students For College Visits

More than 2,000 high school seniors in Minnesota have received an invitation to visit Hamline university for two days at the college's expense. And that includes the bus or train ride.

Admissions director Gary Hargroves said he is hopeful many seniors will take him up on the invitation.

"We want college-interested seniors to visit our campus on a school day," he said, "so they can go to class with our students, question some of our professors and really sense the atmosphere. It's the very best way to judge a college."

Students who received the invitation are those with records that show definite aptitude for higher education and have expressed interest in a small liberal arts school where they can get individualized attention and get to know the faculty, Hargroves said.

Hamline university is Minnesota's first college. It was founded in 1854. Currently the coeducational school has more than 1300 students working with a faculty and staff of 300.

Hargroves indicated that any senior interested in a free trip to Hamline to study the program and facilities may contact him at the school. The Admissions Office asks that application to the college be made before or after the visit in order to receive refund on the cost of transportation.

Jaycee Week Is Scheduled For January 20-27

Minnesota Jaycees president Fran Bradley today designated January 20-26 as Jaycee week and encouraged all Minnesota Jaycees to continue to do the fine job of serving their communities, especially now when they need help more than ever.

Bradley referred specifically to the energy crisis and the resulting problems that have become and will continue to become a "day to day reality" for all Minnesotans.

Bradley commented "this year the 10,000 Minnesota Jaycees in more than 206 Minnesota communities will be offering their individual and collective talents to provide aid and assistance to their communities."

"We want Minnesotans to know we are there and when the going gets tough, we want to help." He pointed out that the Jaycees have a wide range of skills and know-how with membership composed of about 50 per cent business oriented occupations and 50 per cent highly diversified non-business occupations." "we have some of the best young talent in the state within our ranks and we want it to be put to good use," he said.

Bradley pointed out that the Jaycees are currently involved in a number of "critical programs" including chemical dependency, veneral disease awareness and corrections reform, highway safety, mental health and retardation and the environment.

"While we consider all of these program areas to be important we will be giving special emphasis to the energy crisis and its related problems as part of our environmental programming."

"We invite the state government, local government and individuals to contact the Jaycees wherever and whenever they can be of assistance."

Highway Dep't. Has Agreement For More Help

Two contingents of men and machines throughout Minnesota are ready to swing into action to supplement state highway department crews in removing snow and ice from state highways.

Each year, the department makes arrangements with private contractors and owner-operators to furnish motorized equipment to assist its maintenance forces to clear away snow during heavy storms. This year's list of on-call owners and operators of motor graders on contract totals 113. Hourly rates range from $13 to $30 for machine and operator. The rate varies as to type of equipment in use such as blades only, snow plows and-or wings.

The other standby contingent is composed of contractors with heavy-duty equipment such as crawler-tractors, bulldozers and front-end loaders. Rental agreements for emergency snow removal and flood control work provide operating rates ranging from $35 to $75 per hour. Use of front-end loaders is paid at hourly rates of $20 to $65, the larger amount for machines with greater than 2½ cubic yard lifting capacity.

Another phase in snow and ice control on the state's highways is effected by equipment rental agreements with municipalities. The state pays for loading operations in snow removal of trunk highways in the cities and villages; hauling costs are the obligation of the municipalities.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I was discharged from service about two months ago and found the cost of homes so high my wife and I have decided on a mobile home. Will the Veterans Administration guarantee a loan for both the mobile home and land to place it on?

A—Yes. The maximum loan for mobile homes is $10,000, which can be increased to $17,500 if the loan includes site acquisition and improvements. The Veterans Administration may guarantee 30 per cent of the loan to the lender.

Taxpayers Urged To File Early And Avoid Delay

Internal revenue service is getting ready to issue some 60 million tax refunds, including about 1,200,000 to Minnesota taxpayers. The problem is to get [illegible] to file for these refunds.

"Early enough," says Richard C. Voskuil, district director of internal revenue for Minnesota, "means January. Taxpayers who file in January can usually expect faster service than those who file later."

The reason for the delay in issuing refunds to later filers, he explains, is that most taxpayers tend to put off doing their tax returns, with the result that work piles up at the service center where they are processed.

"It stands to reason," Voskuil points out, "that our Ogden service center can process returns and approve refunds much faster when workloads are light—as in January. It would be a good idea for anyone who would like an early refund to start getting his records together now."

Even taxpayers who are still waiting for their W-2 forms or perhaps their interest or mortgage statements from their bank ought to start getting their other records together now so that they can file as soon as the documents arrive, Voskuil advises.

"It's your money," he says. "The law says you're entitled to it now, so why wait? Get your refund as soon as you can."

With bills for Christmas gifts arriving, many taxpayers agree. Interest on charge accounts add up, but the money the IRS holds earns none.

In urging taxpayers to file in January, he refutes the common but erroneous belief that early returns are scrutinized more closely at IRS service centers because there is more time to devote to each individual return. This line of thinking, the director says, leads these same taxpayers to conclude incorrectly that early returns are more likely to be audited by the IRS than later ones.

"This just isn't so," he says. "No matter when you file your return—January 1, Mrch 11, April 15—your return undergoes the same processing at our service centers. We hire thousands of temporary employees each filing seaon and we train them to process all returns the same way."

The director also explains that, in auditing returns, the IRS now uses what it calls a "Discriminant Function" (DIF) program to select returns for examination. Through the use of computers, all indivisual returns are classifieed by the same procedures. Mathematical formulas are used to rank returns by error potential, and those having the highest probability of error are selected for audit.

"The point here," he adds, "is that returns are selected not by filing date but by the error potential calculated by computer."

Speaking of errors, the district director says late filers, in a hurry to fill out their returns, often make errors that cause refund delays. If ever a taxpayer needed a good reason to file early, it's to avoid those thoughtless, last-minute errors that people make when they're strapped for time.

"Many taxpayers who wait until late March or April fail to read the instructions completely—or they make an error in arithmetic."

Some of these taxpayers forget to sign the return or to attach their W-2 forms, he added. All of these things can delay a refund. "Considering the fact that a taxpayer who files later in the tax season has to wait approximately eight weeks before receiving his refund, an error only compounds the problem and may add two or more weeks to the wait. So, for the taxpayer who is expecting a refund and wishes to get it as soon as possible, we strongly suggest that he file in January."

To help taxpayers file early, the director says the IRS is making a strong appeal to employers, banks and corporations to issue W-2

Area Cattlemen To Learn About Beef Cow Housing

Area cattlemen are invited to a beef cow housing meeting when Donald Bates, extension engineer, will discuss buildings and handling equipment to help farmers do a better job of cattle raising. Second portion of the program will deal with handling equipment. Corrals, headgates, loading chutes and other equipment to help manage cattle will be discussed.

"Beef housing and handling equipment meeting is planned to meet the needs and resources of local producers," states Wayne Odegaard, associate extension agent.

Open Dating On Products Could Be Misleading

The half gallon of milk you bought last week is still in your refrigerator, but you notice the new "open date" is today. Does this mean you should pour it out? Or what about the loaf of bread you froze a month ago and now notice is past its date?

These are some of the questions consumers may have about the new statewide open dating regulation that became effective this month, says Mary Darling, extension nutritionist at the University of Minnesota.

Dates now found on dairy and bakery products are guides to peak freshness, but the homemaker still may need to use taste, smell and intuition to determine when items shouldn't be used, she says. The uncoded date usually will be a quality assurance or pull date, allowing reasonable time for home storage of a product before use.

A package marked "sell by Jan. 15" indicates the last date the store may sell it as fresh. This is a pull date, but it shouldn't stop the consumer from using it after that date if the item has been stored properly and appears fresh and wholesome by all other standards. A quality assurance date indicates peak quality but the product will be usuable after that date.

"A date can only indicate the passage of time," the nutritionist says. "It cannot tell you about the storage temperatures, the sanitary conditions or methods of handling your groceries. Open dating is a guide to freshness, but it is not a guarantee."

She stresses that a date on groceries probably is not an experiation date. Such a date seldom is used because it is impossible to say that an item will be acceptable one day and unacceptable the next. She suggests rotating food on home shelves in order of freshness and using products within a reasonable time of the date given. Careful home freezing will prolong a product's life.

Some grocery items carry pack dates. These tell when the item was packaged or processed, but they don't tell the shopper anything about product quality. This date is more useful to merchants who rotate inventory to insure freshness.

The uncoded dates may include the month and day such as January 15 or numbers 1-15, 0115 or 01154, with the four indicating 1974. Products with short shelf lives such as fresh dairy items may include only a single number. This refers to a date in the current month.

Until you become familiar with the dating system and what it means, the nutritionist suggests questioning your grocer when you see a marking you are unsure of.

Traffic Toll In 1973 Approaches The 1972 Total

Minnesota's 1973 traffic fatality score appears to be running a neck-and-neck race with the 1972 record, as delayed reports of 1973 traffic deaths continue to come in during the second week of the new year.

Last year traffic fatalities totaled 1,017 when the statistical summaries for December were compiled, including all reports received up to the ninth working day of January. Later reports and delayed deaths from 1972 accidents brought the official fatality count for the year to 1,031, an increase of 14 over the year-end summary.

For 1973, the offical count stood at 1,009 at the end of the first week of the new year. With a week to go before closing the December summary, and with two or three months to go before closing the count for 1973, indications are the last year's experience will be very close to that of 1972. This, however, would probably indicate an improvement in the fatality rate per unit of travel, as travel mileage has been rising year by year, and the shortage of motor fuel had not developed in time to have a substantial impact on 1973 travel.

Statistical summaries of accidents during the early part of the year indicate that, as in previous years, speed was a predominant contributing factor in highway accidents, accounting for 8.9 per cent of all traffic accidents, 14 per cent of personal injury accidents and 21.5 per cent of those resulting in fatalities. Failure to yield right of way was second most serious as an accident factor, being involved in 6.8 per cent of all accidents, 10 per cent of personal injury crashes, and 5.2 per cent of the fatal crashes.

Poor Roads Can Waste Gasoline, MGRI Reports

Condition and age of many of Minnesota's highways, roads and streets are a cause of excessive motor fuel consumption, according to Minnesota Good Roads, Inc.

Narrow rough roads and bridges, absence of turn lanes, dangerous intersections, noncompletion of the metropolitan basic freeway system and the slow progress in constructing bypasses around larger towns throughout the state are prime causes of congestion. Driving at too slow a pace to use the top gears, jackrabbit starts, heavy braking and stop-and-go driving increase gasoline consumption dramatically.

Many of our thoroughfares were constructed during an era of fewer vehicles and slower speeds; they are obsolete by today's standards. According to a report by the highway research board, seven features of road design affect motorists' gasoline and oil consumption: profile, alignment, surface, intersections-at-grade, acess-exit points, road and shoulder widths and trip length.

Profile and alignment are the hills, valleys and curves. Surface is the material, with its particular roughness and friction. Intersections-at-agrade are points of conflict requiring slowdowns or stops, such as other roadways, railroad crossings and pedestrian walkways. Access-exit points are points where traffic can enter or leave the roadway and cause slowdowns or stops, such as residential driveways, commercial entries, freeway ramps and alleys.

Road and shoulder width, inadequate for today's traffic, causes interference to smooth traffic flow, especially by disabled vehicles. The length of a particular trip can be affected by straightening out a curvy road and thus reducing the distance traveled.

It is an established fact that automobile engines use less fuel and oil, and produce fewer pollutants, when moving at a constant speed than on congested roadways where sporadic movement is the rule.

It is possible that significant fuel savings could be attained by highway, road and street improvements.

Acceleration and deceleration use an enormous amount of gasoline and diesel fuel. Smoother and steadier traffic flow would be attained by the construction of overpasses, left and right turn lanes, by-passes of towns and built-up areas, acceleration and deceleration lanes, truck passing lanes on hills, computerized traffic control devices, extra lane for passing slower moving vehicles on heavily traveled two-lane highways ansd straightening of curves.

M.G.R.I. believes that the current fuel shortage brings into focus the urgent need to make improvements in our present transportation network.

"We are not only using excess fuel, but will be faced by rapidly increasing costs as we wait to do what we should be doing now," M.G.R.I. reports.

Midwest Outlook For Economy Is Better Than U.S.

"Slowdown in the economy is intensifying under the pressure of energy shortages. ~~We~~ continue to believe, however, that the economic outlook for the Upper Midwest is better than for the nation as a whole; largely because another excellent year for agriculture is expected," states Harvey N. Daniels, economist at the First National bank of Minneapolis.

"Several measurements give evidence that the economy is turning down at an accelerating rate. For example, the industrial production index, which was increasing at about a 12 per cent annual rate, is now growing at less than two per cent, thus indicating a collapse in the rate of gain of industrial production," Daniels said.

"Another principal indicator—retail sales—shows a topping out of gain. From March to November of 1973 retail sales increased only three per cent, less than the inflation-induced increase in the price of retail goods. To date there has been a modest increase in unemployment, from 4.5 per cent in October to 4.9 per cent in December.

"The thrust of government energy policy is to ask the transportation and consumer sectors to make larger sacrifices in order to protect the industrial sectors which are so vital to maintenance of income and employment. Voluntary conservation measures are producing reasonably good results and it is hoped that government programs of allocation and rationing will be effective.

"If this proves to be a reasonable assumption, the energy crisis is manageable. However, even if Middle Eastern oil flows are resumed in the near future, the first half o 1974 will possibly fulfill the definitional requirement for a recession—that is, two consecutive quarters of no real growth," the economist adds.

"Most forecasters are assuming, with fingers crossed, that Middle Eastern oil will become available by the spring of 1974. In that event we could have a relatively strong second half and, for the full year, real growth of about one per cent. But this would be coupled with higher levels of consumer inflation at about seven per cent, higher levels of unemployment approaching six per cent by year-end, and declining corporate profits to the extent of 5-10 per cent.

"The current crisis has been effective in developing public awareness of the long-range nature of United States energy problems. Hopefully a partial or full resumption of Middle Eastern oil flows will not distract the United States from pursuing aggressive policies to develop self-sufficiency in energy. This is the only solution to the long-range problem and the only way to avoid economic blackmail in the future," Daniels concluded.

Protecting your dollar!

By
Warren Spannaus
Attorney General
State of Minnesota

Many Minnesotans entering a new year frequently reaffirm last year's resolution to lose their extra weight or to firm up their flabby muscles. Skillful advertising portraying attractive models often will prompt the decision to join a health club or a figure salon.

Frequently a long term membership contract is signed in hopes of achieving the desired results. Such contracts generally require a downpayment and payment of a monthly fee, but some clubs request prepayment of the whole membership fee.

The experience many Minnesotans have had in connection with membership organizations which require advance payment has not been pleasant. Hundreds of citizens lost many thousands of dollars with the unannounced closing of Nu Dimensions figure salons of Minnesota early in 1973.

A bill drafted by the attorney general's consumer protection division for introduction in the 1974 Minnesota legislature will take a long step toward preventing a recurrence of this type of injury. This measure will require that businesses which demand prepayment for such contracts must post a bond in the amount of the contract price paid by the member.

In addition to business failures, there are some common deceptions to which consumers must be alert. These are listed below:

(1) Be wary of "special reduced prices"; frequently this rate is the regular rate.

(2) Remember that using a "guest pass" or "free introductory pass" will generally subject you to a sales pitch.

(3) Be wary of "$1 a visit" or "10 for $10" promotions. This type of special offer is designed to get you in the door. Almost always the sales person will attempt to sign you to a more extensive, long-term program.

(4) Be wary of assurances that the sales person will "hold" the contract while you try the facility for a short period. Any such statement must be written on the contract if you expect it to be honored.

(5) Before you obligate yourself on a membership contract consider checking out with your doctor the specific exercise and diet program recommended for you. Compare his instructions with the program offered by the club.

(6) Ask for names of current and former members from your area and contact them for their experiences.

(7) Do not be intimidated by claims such as "this is the last chance" to sign up. Reputable facilities will let you think it over.

(8) Finally, make sure that you understand what happens if you decide to cancel you membership. Usually the cancellation policies are vague, confusing and limited.

(9) Before you enter into any contract consider having it reviewed by your attorney, he can explain terms and conditions that you do not fully understand.

Complaints concerning such business practices should be brought to the attention of Attorney General Warren Spannaus, 102 State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Minn. Traffic Rules Comply With Basic Ten

Only 16 of the 50 states and District of Columbia have traffic laws that comply more fully with the ten important "rules of the road" than does Minnesota, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

Based on laws in effect during 1972, Minnesota differed on just four of the 13 provisions of the rules established as part of the uniform vehicle code.

The uniform code allows a driver to turn right on red after stopping when a sign allows such turns. Minnesota and 12 other states allow the turn without a sign, and four more staes adopted this rule during 1973.

During 1972, Minnesota was one of 22 states that requied school buses to use flashing red lights as it prepared to stop. However, Minnesota brought its law into compliance during 1973, now requiring that flashing amber lights are used prior to the stop and flashing red lights only after the bus has stopped.

On hitchhiking, the Code bans standing in the roadway to solicit a ride from any vehicle. Minnesota's law prohibits standing in the roadway to solicit rides from private vehicles.

In the uniform vehicle code, all numerical speed limits are "absolute." In Minnesota and 17 other states, exceeding a numerical speed limit is prima facie evidence that a person's speed is not reasonable, and he is free to show why his excess speed was reasonable and safe.

In compiling the ten important rules of the road, a study performed by the National committee on Uniform Traffic Laws indicated that state laws differed from provisions of the Code in 269 instances. Of these, 202, or 75 per cent, involve just ten rules of the road.

In addition to the four rules in which Minnesota differs, others are: movement of drivers and pedestrians on a steady yellow light, right of way at marked or signalized intersections, yielding to emergency vehicles, slower traffic keep right, the meaning of STOP signs, and application of drunk driving laws.

HEW Secretary Says Short Fuel Effects Should Be Minimal

HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said today that the effects of the fuel shortage on the nation's health "should be minimal if common sense prevails.

"Our medical specialists report," Secretary Weinberger said, "that a reduction in room temperatures from 72 to even down to 60 degrees would have no effect on the likelihood of an individual contracting a common cold, influenza or pneumonia, and by the same token, a reduction to 68 would certainly have no ill effects.

"Many will develop these illnesses this winter, as they do every winter, but reduced heating will not be the culprit."

The secretary made those observations in releasing a paper on the impact of the energy shortage on health, prepared in the office of Dr. Charles C. Edwards, assistant secretary for health.

Secretary made those observations in releasing a paper on the impact of the energy shortage on health, prepared in the office of Dr. Charles C. Edwards, assistant secretary for health.

Secretary Weinberger noted that the six degree temperature reduction recommended for the nation's schools would be well within the range of temperature reduction that would not adversely affect health.

Dr. Edwards said that while lower temperatures can be uncomfortable, particularly if they are achieved too quickly, they by themselves are not harmful to health.

"This is not to say that anyone will enjoy the energy shortages," said Dr. Edwards, "but we can handle the situation without danger to health by following a few common sense precautions."

Among those cited were:

Avoid unnecessary discomfort in adjusting to lower room and office temperatures by turning the thermostat down gradually over a period of several days rather than all at once.

Wear enough warm clothing to keep comfortable.

Try to maintain as high a room humidity level as possible.

General health rules to be kept in mind, said Dr. Edwards, include:

Reduced temperatures, moving from warm to cooler temperatures, and being wet and cold—while certainly uncomfortable—do not increase the risk of catching colds, influenza and pneumonia.

Since most bacteria and viruses grow better at higher temperatures, some experts feel that cooler living may even be a benefit in disease control.

There are no special heating requirements for infants, preschoolers, young children or pregnant women. Their needs are no different from those of healthy adults.

The average new-born child can cope quite well with home temperatures as low as 60 degrees if clothed and in a home where the humidity is kept as high as possible.

Dr. Edwards said that any nutritional effects of the energy crisis "will not be the result of any temperature change, but will come from restrictions in transport, school closings, unemployment, inflated prices and agricultural shortages."

He said that there are "only minimal requirements for increased calorie intake—not more than 100 additional calories a day to adjust to 60 degrees as opposed to 72 degrees.

"For some individuals," said Dr. Edwards, "particularly the affluent, overweight person, reduced temperatures may assist in weight reduction since more calories will be used to maintain body heat and there probably will be more physical activity."

According to Dr. Edwards, "only a handful of common chronic diseases are aggravated by severe temperature reduction." He cited myxedema (thyroid underactivity) peripheral vascular disorders, arthritis, angina pectoris and diabetes mellitus.

"But the majority of patients with these can accommodate to lower temperatures without harm to health if they reduce their thermostats gradually," he said.

Dr. Edwards said householders should remember that "the elderly have a slower adaptation time than young adults to shifts of temperature," and that "low humidity in a hot room can be harmful to some respiratory disorders.

"Many older individuals will take a month or longer to become accustomed to a 10 degree temperature reduction," he said, "but the vast majority of the elderly can stand lower temperatures with no harm to their health."

Personal health problems to be avoided, said Dr. Edwards, include electrical hazards, and the danger of explosion or fire from the storage or transport of gasoline.

The suggestions for cold weather health maintenance were developed from information solicited by the human resources group at HEW from among the department's health agencies and academic authorities.

Dr. Edwards said the department "is working closely with the federal energy administration to develop national policy during the current energy crisis.

"What we are learning from such surveys and studies as these," said Secretary Weinberger, "is what the English, Northern Europeans and previous generations in our own nation always knew—how to live comfortably and decently and remain healthy in our environment as nature intended it to be, not as we made it at the expense of ecological distortion.

"We simply are pointing out," said the secretary, "that common sense, thermal thriftiness and good health go hand in hand. Dr. Edwards and his staff have shown us what to expect."

One of the side effects which people will learn, said Dr. Edwards, is that "people who drink lose more body heat than people who don't.

"The belief," he said, "that the warm glow associated with drinking keeps a person warm is a myth."

Tvedt To Head CENEX Company

Safety Is YOUR Business

Darkness Of DST Increases Need For Visibility

One result of the energy crisis move to daylight saving time on January 6 will be a change in school safety patrol equipment and children's outer wearing apparel.

Pushing the clocks ahead in mid-winter put thousands of Minnesota workers and school children on the streets and roads in pre-dawn darkness when visibility is poor. Unless safety patrollers and all youngsters take steps to make themselves easily seen in the dark, they will increase the risk of becoming pedestrian fatalities or injuries.

According to Dr. John Schaefer, president of the Minnesota Optometric association, a simple and effective way for parents to increae their child's ability to be seen in darkness is to decorate safety patrol equipment and clothing with reflectorized material.

He suggested that safety patrol belts and flags be trimmed with reflective fabric for brillian nighttime visibility. Optometric studies have shown that only pedestrians wearing reflectorized clothing are safely visible to drivers at tall speeds.

Circling the sleeves of a child's jacket or coat with a band of reflective fabric will help drivers see the youngster walking to school along streets and roads. The fabric will light up brightly in auto headlights and increase visibility from front, side and rear.

Sew-on reflective material is available in sewing and notion departments of major department stores and in most fabric stores, making it convenient for parents to convert regular jackets into reflective ones, Dr. Schaefer said. Some stores also carry jackets equipped by the manufacturer with reflective trim.

Safety patrol belts require a special type of iron-on reflective material that is available directly to schools.

According to the Minnesota optometric association, "I didn't see him" is the most common explanation given by drivers who have killed a pedestrian.

"The pedestrian who takes the time to dress to be seen with reflective trim may help prevent a serious injury or even death", Dr. Schaefer said.

With more people on the move in pre-dawn darkness after January 6, the need to be seen by drivers becomes even more important, particularly for children, who can easily forget safety rules and dart into the path of oncoming cars.

Happiness Is The Times

Carl Anderson Attends Winter Meeting For FU

Creation of so-called "One-Stop" Agricultural Service Centers could have potential benefits for farmers and rural communities if the real goal of the changes is to improve services to farmers, the state board of the Minnesota Farmers Union said recently, expressing some skepticism about USDA motives.

In a statement directed to top USDA officials, the Minnesota Farmers Union board said it would object to changes which would require farmers to drive unreasonable distances to reach the central offices or which would tend to loss of identity of the four services involved.

Last November 30, USDA had announced it was considering the nationwide establishment of these one-stop centers which would bring services of the agricultural stabilization service (ASCS), farmers home administration (FHA), soil conservation service (SCS), and federal crop insurance corporation (FCIC) all under one roof.

USDA denied at that time that the change would result in elimination of existing jobs, although some reports had indicated that the plan would involve consolidation of county offices so that they would each serve a million acres of farm land.

The Farmers Union statement objected strenuously to the possibility that the plan might mean down-grading or phasing out of some of the services or loss of farmers' voice in establishing policies.

"Locating the services under one roof could be advantageous," said the Farmers Union county leaders, "but the central offices should be kept within short driving distances.

"Whatever changes are made should be given wide discussion before adoption, so that there is ample input from farmers themselves in the process," said the statement.

Other business at the Farmers Union board meeting also included discussion of legislation which will be up for consideration in the 1974 Minnesota Legislative session beginning January 15 and the new session of the U.S. Congress beginning January 21.

Thought For The Day . . .

How many times have you heard people say, or how many times have you said, "Boy! Christmas was such a rush this year, with so much hassle, and hustle and bustle... I'm really glad it's over!"

I caught myself saying something like that several times this new year, and each time I had to pause and think. Is Christmas really over? Is Christmas something that comes and goes? Isn't Christmas more of a sign of the eternal and unchanging grace of God? Isn't Christmas a condition rather than a day? Isn't Christmas the condition of standing in God's abundant gift of grace, given through His gift of Jesus Christ?

Christmas Day 1973 is past, but Christmas the condition of Immanuel, "God with us", remains. I'm really glad it's never over!

—Rev. Keith Prekker
Redeemer Lutheran Church

Playing With Percentages

Percentages and averages can often be misleading as well as confusing when the figures used for comparison are selected apart from the total picture. Illustrative of this situation is the following commentary by M. Stanton Evans in "Human Events" as quoted in the Roseau Times-Reion:

"Oil profits, far from being enormous, are and have been comparatively modest. In the third quarter of '72, for example, oil industry profits on sales amounted to 6.7 per cent—compared to 9.7 for the office equipment industry, 8.5 for chemicals, 11.1 for instruments, and so on. In the third quarter of '73, in the face of suring demand, oil's percentage margin improved to 8.3 per cent. It is this rather moderate improvement which gets translated in to the 63 and - or 79 per cent increase in profits which scandalizes critics of the industry.

"Such percentage games can of course be played by anyone, depending on what you want to prove. If a firm had a profit of only $1 last year, then it is possible to say it has experienced a '100 per cent increase' in profits—statistically accurate but substantively misleading. By the same standard it applies to oil, the profit hike enjoyed by Newsweek's own parent company, the Washington Post, is a cool 249 per cent.

"To this it may be added that oil profits for the past 10 years have lagged behind profits for manufacturing in general (11.8 as opposed to 12.2 per cent). Petroleum's 6.5 per cent of revenues retained as net earnings in '72 was down from 7.4 per cent a year before and 9.5 per cent four years earlier. By way of contrast, 14.5 per cent of oil's gross revenues was taken by government as taxes. Indeed, for those who like exploding statistics it is noteworthy that taxes on the oil industry have increased by more than 100 per cent in four year's time, while dividends fell to 3.5 per cent of revenues, an all time low."

Wouldn't you say this paints a different picture from the one you have been hearing from the glib Senator Mondale who appears to be using oil as his springboard toward possible presidentail aspirations? We wonder if the Senator might not be on a little slippery footing.

Not What You Drive . . .

Attraction of the smaller automobiles which supposedly use less gasoline than their larger counterparts has been a source of concern in the auto industry—as well as to the owners of the larger cars who would like to trade them for newer models. All is not lost for the person who has and prefers a bigger car, according to an editorial in the Duluth Herald and Duluth News Tribune.

The editorial points out a number of ways in which proper driving, maintenance and attention to detail can substantially increase gasoline mileage. Most of these points have been published in this paper as well as the daily papers in recent weeks. But the point made in the beginning of the editorial is significant, and we quote from the Duluth papers as follows:

The choice is still yours. You can drive the type of car you need and want and still do your part in conserving fuel during the energy crisis.

If roominess, safety, roadability, ease of handling and comfort are important to you, there is no logical reason not to own and drive a car which satisfies those requirements.

Look at it this way. We've all been asked to conserve energy in our homes and on the highway. But nobody has been asked to trade down to a smaller home to save heating costs. Rather, we've all been asked to keep our thermostats set at 68 degrees, whether our family residence is a small apartment, a mobile home, a cottage, a large four-bedroom family home, or a mansion! If you need a bigger home for your family, you can and should have it!

The same is true with your automotive needs. Some families need a bigger car because of the number of people in the family, the physical size of its members, ages, driving requirements and comfort needs.

And remember, driving five people in a bigger car uses far less fuel than is consumed when five little cars are driven with one person in each!

Important Goals

Following editorial is from the Grafton Record:

Well here it is after the first day of the year and how are you doing on your New Year resolutions?

We'll have to admit that already we've broken a couple and are finding it hard to hold the line on the rest of them.

We thought it might make you feel a little better to tell you this, if you had missed out on a few and thought everyone else was keeping his.

You might know that Nathaniel Hawthorne, the great American novelist, wrote in "Twice Told Tales" the following:

"There is no such thing in man's nature as a settled and full resolve either for good or evil except at the very moment of execution."

So, according to the novelist the only way to carry out those resolutions is to begin right now to do the things you resolved to do.

We have a bundle of resolutions for this great country of ours that we wish people and the people's servants in the government would put into action immediately.

1. We'd like to see a return to the love of our country. We'd like to see our citizens of all ages, creeds and national origin rally around our flag and feel the great warmth of patriotism surge through them when the National Anthem is rendered.

2. We'd like to see a definite and abrupt turn from increasing crime to a land where every man, woman and child could go about their business without fear.

3. We would like to see the respect for each person—his privacy and property—restored.

4. We would like to see the President and the Congress join in making this country so strong that we need not fear attack or harassment from any other source on the glove.

5. We would like to see our high standard of living spread evenly over the land to provide a decent living for our poor and proper medical care for those who need it.

These are a few of the important goals for 1974, we hope will be brought to fruition by the resolution of those who can make it happen.

And it can be made to happen if you and every other eligible citizen in this constitutional democracy will exercise his or her God-given right to vote. How about making this your Number One resolution for this year? Get involved in your government, through the ballot, and make this the kind of country you can be proud of forever.

Table Of Excuses

Looking for a way out of an unwelcome or distasteful task? You should be able to find an excuse you need in this list provided via New Mexico State University:

(1) That's the way we've always done it.
(2) I didn't know you were in a hurry for it.
(3) That's not in my department.
(4) No one told me to go ahead.
(5) I'm waiting for an OK.
(6) How did I know this was different?
(7) That's his job, not mine.
(8) Wait 'til the boss comes back and ask him.
(9) I forgot.
(10) I didn't think it was very important.
(11) I'm so busy, I just can't get around to it.
(12) I thought I told you.
(13) I wasn't hired to do that.
(14) That's not my writing.

Hard To Believe

A recent edition of the Republican party publication "First Monday" tells of the fourth edition of "Who's Who in American Politics", published by the R. R. Bowker company of New York.

"First Monday" says the edition contains biographical data on some 17,000 of the nation's top political leaders. It's hard to believe there are that many top leaders in the country, but if there are, think of how many lesser ones there must be!

Weekly HEALTH TIP

Can colds be avoided? Colds increase when the winter heating season begins, because the dry air in heated rooms parches the nose and throat membranes, which are then more susceptible to virus infection. Dry mucous membranes cannot clean themselves by action of their cilia (hairlike structures) that move mucous upward out of the respiratory system, clearing away germs and viruses. If homes, schools, and places of work can be humidified to about 40% it should help to reduce the common cold infection.

Times editor Marv Lundin received an answer to an inquisitive letter mailed to the Minnesota state high school league recently, centered around the idea of mixing up the order of weight classes in a wrestling meet so that a heavyweight is not always put in a win or lose the entire meet situation all of the time.

"I agree with you in believing that the heavyweight wrestler always gets saddled with the responsibility of winning or losing the entire team match. For years I have been telling the wrestling coaches that they ought to draw for the order and that at some time during the season every wrestler should have the experience of being last.

"The idea has been talked about in rules meetings. We have encouraged wrestling coaches to make a recommendation. However, they seem to be satisfied with the present system. I am going to forward your letter to the president of the Minnesota wrestling coaches association. Maybe it will have some affect or bring about a recommendation."

The West Central football conference, the present Northwest Conference opponent in post season conference play-off competition, has decided to expand.

Former Mentor high school standout Dave Super was the attention of a special article written for the Times by St. John's University sports information director Steve Conroy.

Super, a sophomore theology major at St. John's, near St. Cloud received his first starting call for the Johnnies last week and proved to be the game's hero by making two free throws in the final seconds to give St. John's a 65-63 overtime victory over Minnesota-Duluth in MIAC action.

Super has appeared in all ten St. John's games this winter with his 13 point performance against UMD topping his point scoring effort. Super spends most of his time playing behind All-MIAC guard Sharon Storr who was injured prior to the Duluth contest.

Super's outstanding high school play helped lead the Trojans to back to back district 30 championships in 1970 and 1971.

Lincoln Wrestlers Rip Roseau 44-3

Prowler junior Lyle Swanson, a region eight entry last season, made his first varsity start of the current campaign against the Rams and the Thief River Falls 126 pounder made the most of the opportunity by beating Paul Kenner 6-1 to start the match ending Prowler win streak.

At 132 Thief River Falls' Brad Steiger shutout Roseau's Kevin Nelson 7-0 to push the Prowler lead to 19-3.

Prolwer senior Joel Kezar squeezed out a slim 2-1 decision over Roseau's Dave Vatnsdal at 138 in the night's only close match to give Thief River Falls a 22-3 bulge on the scoreboard.

Daryl Myers stretched Thief River Falls' commanding lead to 25-3 with a 7-0 whitewash over Roseau's Otto Schyler at 145.

Prowler senior Steve Nordhagen added a 4-0 shutout win over Steve Magnusson in the 155 pound match to push the Prowler lead to an ever increasing 28-3 margin.

Steve Servig posted a four point 10-0 superior decision win over Tim Lund at 167 to provide the Prowlers to a hefty 32-3 lead before Thief River Falls finished the night's action with two straight pins.

Steve Rolland pinned Roseau's Randy Lokken at 4:24 of the 180 pound bout and heavyweight Dave Panek flattened Milt Arneson at 4:59 to end the activity with Thief River Falls sitting on a 44-3 cushion.

Coach Ed Krystosek's Lincoln high school wrestling team evened its 1973-74 dual meet season record at 3-3 Thursay with a one sided 44-3 triumph over Roseau.

The Prowler matmen will be back in action tomorrow (Tuesday) when Thief River Falls travels to Ada and on Thursday when the Lincoln wrestlers journey to East Grand Forks for a pair of 7:3: p.m. dual meets.

Thief River Falls lost only once in twelve matches against the host Rams last week as the Prowlers welcomed in the new year schedule in impressive fashion.

Thief River Falls' Mark Swanson recorded the first of three Prowler pins when he stretfhed Roseau's Marlin Nelson at 4:12 of their 112 pound match to push Thief River Falls in front 13-0.

Roseau picked up its only win of the night at 119 to avoid total embarrassment when Rocky Vatnsdal decisioned Thief River Falls' Barry Newton 11-8.

Thief River Falls took complete control of the matches after Vatnsdal's pin as the Prowlers rattled off eight straight wins, allowing Roseau wrestlers to earn just two points in the final eight matches.

BEMIDJI GUARD Don Hubbell tried to dribble past Thief River Falls defender Duane Dicken on this play during Friday night's Northwest Conference basketball game played at Bemidji. Hubbell scored 18 points to help lead the Lumberjacks to a 67-59 win over the Prowlers.

Bemidji Stops TRF 67-59 In NWAC Play

Bemidji blanketed Thief River Falls with an offense smothering zone defense Friday night to provide the Lumberjacks with a 67-59 Northwest Athletic Conference basketball win over the visiting Prowlers.

Despite losing their third straight conference game, the still inexperienced Prowlers played a commendable game against the highly regarded Lumberjacks, especially during a strong fourth quarter showing in which Thief River Falls sliced a seemingly uncatchable 19 point Bemidji lead down to an interesting eight point margin.

Entering the fourth quarter with a comfortable 51-37 cushion, the once beaten Lumberjacks wasted little time claiming their biggest lead of the rather ho-hum game when sharp shooting guards Jim Schmeckpeper and Don Hubbell both hit from the field and Schmeckpeper added a free throw for a 56-37 bulge.

Bemidji matched its 19 point margin again at 58-39 with 6:26 remaining before Prowler center Wayne Peterson shook himself free underneath the basket for an easy bucket to start the Prowler face saving rally.

Dallas Kemmer and Duane Dicken pumped in back to back long range jump shots for a 58-45 contest, but Bemidji sophomore Jack Schwartz, who played nearly the entire game after replacing starter Perry Dreyer, canned a ten footer to momentarily stop the Prowler mini rally.

Jerry Sandahl and Kemmer made four straight free throws, but rangy Bemidji center Steve Vogel scored from close range to maintain a still secure 62-49 Lumberjack lead with only 4:40 left.

Thief River Falls then outscored Bemidji by a 6-1 margin in a quick 1:33 span to make the game interesting as the Prowler outside shooting, a missing ingredient in the team's last two ball games, finally fell into place.

Kemmer's driving lay-up started the late Prowler surge with 4:10 remaining in the ball game. Bemidji's Stan Drew accounted for a 63-51 difference with a single free throw before Kemmer banged in two long jump shots to force a Bemidji time out with 1:45 left.

Right after the Lumberjack time out Vogel put the icing on the cake as the mobile 6-7 pivotman freed himself for a short base line jumper to give Bemidji a relatively safe 65-55 lead with 1:20 to play.

Another long jumper by the suddenly hot shooting Kemmer made it a 65-57 game with one minute left, but following a game long pattern, the Prowlers couldn't quite get over an invisible hump as Vogel came right back to score on a wide open close range bucket to put Bemidji back into a ten point 67-57 command.

Thief River Falls led only once in the game with Dicken hitting back to back short base long jump shots for a 4-2 Prowler edge 45 seconds into the contest.

A pair of quick Vogel close-in baskets gave Bemidji a 6-4 edge and the Lumberjacks never trailed again. Bemidji capitalized on careless Prowler first quarter mistakes to take a 20-12 lead at the quarter break, increasing the margin to 33-22 at halftime.

Bemidji had little trouble getting the ball inside a Prowler zone to Vogel for easy shots as he finished with a game high 23 points and the Lumberjacks hit 30 of 66 shots for 45 per cent. The Prowlers made 11 of 14 free throw attempts and the Lumberjacks hit seven of 10 gift tosses. Again with the help of the zone, Bemidji finished with a 37-24 rebound edge. Both teams committed 14 turnovers.

Rams Trip Prowler Icers In Overtime

Roseau center Bruce Olson scored just 22 seconds into an eight minute sudden death overtime period Saturday night to give the undefeated Rams a thrilling 7-6 come from behind region eight hockey win over visiting Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers will try to improve upon their 4-2 season record tomorrow (Tuesday) when Warroad visits the Thief River Falls sports arena for a key 8 p.m. region eight game. Thief River Falls will also be at home Thursday and Saturday when the Prowlers play host to Hallock and Grand Rapids.

The explosive Rams wasted little time before abruptly ending the extra session as Olson controlled the center face-off, accepted the puck back from teammate Norrell Nelson, skated untouched behind the Thief River Falls net, circled around in front of the goal mouth and jammed the puck between Prowler goalie Joel Folger's leg and the goal post.

The win was an admirable come back effort by the Rams who lost their starting goalie because of an injury and fell behind 6-3 at the start of the third period.

A screaming long range slap shot off the stick of Prowler defenseman Tony Dorn smashed into Roseau goalie Tim Erickson's forehead and opened up a severe cut with 5:58 remaining in the second period, forcing coach Terry Abram to bring in little used Greg Dahl with the Prowlers sitting on a 3-2 lead.

Thief River Falls finally got the shots off at Dahl to start the third period and easily beat the senior goalie three straight times to take a commanding 6-3 lead.

Prowler center Scott Reed put Thief River Falls in front 4-3 when he poked the puck past Dahl, who had become entangled in a player scramble in front of the net, with only 41 seconds gone in the third period.

Just 14 seconds later Thief River Falls climbed to a 5-3 advantage with Mike Onkka cleanly beat Dahl with a long slap shot that skimed along the top of the ice and breezed by the goalie's outstretched leg.

Another long range low line drive, this time off the stick of Scott Engelstad, eluded Dahl with 11:13 remaining to give the Prowlers a seemingly comfortable 6-3 lead.

Roseau knocked the difference down to 6-4 with 10:33 left when Olson muscled his way past a Prowler defenseman and still had enough on his close range shot to drive Folger back into the net.

The hard skating Rams trimmed the margin to a single goal, 6-5, with 7:50 remaining as defenseman Mark Harris beat Folger with a low sailing slap shot from the blue line.

Still trailing 6-5, Abram pulled Dahl in favor of a sixth attacker with 46 seconds remaining in the third period. The strategy paid off as Burgraff scored the tying goal with just 18 seconds left in regulation time. Folger made an initial save just before the Ram goal, but in his diving effort to cover up the loose rebound he slid over the top of the puck and left Burgraff with nothing but open net to shoot at as he scooped the puck out from between Folger's legs.

Roseau had opened up the scoring in the first period with Nelson and Jeff Olson scoring just 1:11 apart for a 2-0 Ram lead with 5:30 remaining.

Thief River Falls trimmed the deficit to 2-1 on an outstanding individual effort by Reed who deked his way around a Roseau defenseman, managed to keep his balance and beat Erickson from point blank range with 3:33 left. Dorn earned an assist on the play.

The Prowlers tied the game 2-2 when Max Thrall steered Greg Sorenson's long range blast up and over Erickson's head with 3:09 remaining in the opening period.

Coach Bill McGann's Prowlers took a 3-2 lead into the lockerroom at the conclusion of the fast pased first stanza as Jim Elleson directed a loose puck past Erickson, who has lost sight of the puck, with 1:17 remaining. Tom Barry and Mike Goulet earned assists on the play.

Folger finished the game with 29 saves, with 14 stops coming in a busy second period. Erickson and Dahl combined to kick out 27 drives by the Prowlers.

NCC Outlasts Rainy River Quint By 101-89 Margin

Coach Chet Engelman's Northland community college basketball team outlasted visiting Rainy River of International Falls 101-89 Saturday afternoon to increase Northland's eye-catching season record to 9-2 for the year.

Northland fashioned a display of near perfect basketball into a 60-36 halftime cushion, but the scrappy Voyageurs made things interesting after intermission before falling to the Northmen for the second time in two weeks.

Striking similarities between Saturday's regular season encounter and the recent Arctic Invitational tournament championship game Northland-Rainy River match-up were readily apparent with the Voyageurs also falling way behind in that tournament appearance before rallying in the second half to lose only 90-82.

An unexpected full court press employed by Northland at the start of the lively first half completely rattled the tall but slow moving Rainy River quint as the Northmen pumped in three quick buckets off the press before the game was a minute old.

Northland's offensive exhibition zoomed the Northmen into its largest lead of the game at 57-32 with only 36 seconds remaining in the Northland-dominated first half.

Northland's seeminly comfortable lead wasn't challenged by Rainy River until the Voyageurs' Cody brothers, Marty and Randy, sparked a mini-rally that knocked an 80-60 point spread down to 80-66 with 8:51 remaining in the game.

The scoreboard margin still seemed out of reach for the Voyageurs' until Rainy River rattled off 12 straight points, four each by Mike Lundstrom, Chuck Koncinski and Randy Cody, to slice an 88-69 deficit to only 88-81 with still 3:09 left.

A free throw by Bill Gusa and a long base long jumper by Burnie Stephens' improved Northland's lead to 91-81 with 2:45 left, to give the Northmen breathing room in the game's final minutes.

The team traded baskets for a 93-85 difference with 1:31 remaining as the Voyageurs battled both the Northmen and the clock until Northland scored three straight game clinching buckets, two by Stephens and one by Joe Brown, for an unbeatable 99-85 lead with only 35 seconds left.

Northland shot a very respectable 48 per cent from the field for the game, hitting 48 of 99 shots. Rainy River made 35 of 78 tries for a 45 per cent showing. From the free throw line Northland connected on only five of 14, however, with Rainy River doing little better by making just 17 of 29 attempts. Rainy River held a narrow 54-50 rebound advantage.

Prowlers Beat Spoilers 65-55

Thief River Falls rallied from a 14 point second quarter deficit to beat visiting Grafton, N. D., 65-55 in high school basketball action played in the Lincoln high school gym Saturday night, improving the Prowler season record to 4-3 for the year.

North Dakota prep scoring sensation Jamer O'Keefe sparked the fast starting Spoilers to a 14-13 lead at the first quarter break as he hit five long range buckets to account for 10 of Grafton's 14 first period points.

A rash of costly Thief River Falls second quarter turnovers provided the Spoilers with an opportunity to build a commanding 14 point bulge over the reeling Prowlers.

Thief River Falls finally squared things away and narrow the point margin to only 31-25 at halftime as Randy Dallmann scored from long range with two seconds remaining.

Senior co-captain Duane Dicken led a strong Thief River Falls second half effort with the 5-11 guard scoring 10 points from outside a Grafton zone in the third period. Prowler center Wayne Peterson added three close range buckets, all on feeds from Dallmann, to help lift Thief River Falls to a 47-44 lead heading into the final eight minutes.

Grafton remained in contention during the final quarter as the Spoilers trimmed an eight point deficit to just 59-54 with 2:30 remaining. Grafton's poor free throw shooting performance hindered the Spoilers' come-back efforts, however, as Grafton missed all five of their fourth quarter gift tosses.

Dicken led a trio of Prowler double figure scorers with 19 points while Peterson added 18 before fouling out and Dallas Kemmer, whose strong outside shooting touch kept the Prowler lead alive in the fourth quarter, finished with 16. O'Keefe took home game scoring honors with 25 points and Pete Houdek added 17 for the Spoilers.

Thief River Falls shot a healthy 56 per cent from the field as the Prowlers made 26 of 47 attempts. Grafton hit 22 of 56 for a 39 per cent showing. From the free throw line Thief River Falls was 13 of 22 while Grafton was successful on only 11 of 28 tries from the charity stripe. Thief River Falls held a 36-22 rebound edge.

Dallmann, who started his first two games of the year against Bemidji and Grafton over the weekend, was credited with seven assists against the Spoilers as his passes set up all eight of Peterson's close range shots.

Thief River Falls will be back in action Friday when the Prowlers host East Grand Forks.

MCC Free Throws Beat EGF Sacred Heart By 56-46

Marshall County Central won its second game in five starts this winter Friday night as Newfolden beat visiting East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 56-46 in non-conference basketball action.

Trailing 36-34 heading into the final eight minutes, Newfolden's accurate free throw shooting proved to be the deciding factor with the Nordics failing to miss a fourth quarter free throw attempt. Freshman Mike Fincher paced the Nordic foul shooting display with a perfect seven for seven effort from the charity stripe.

Newfolden jumped out to an early lead and coasted into the first quarter break with a healthy 14-6 cushion. The Nordics led 27-23 at halftime before falling behind at the third quarter stop.

Senior Gary Kujanson led a group of four Newfolden scorers in double figures with 15 points, followed by Tim Waterworth and Dan Magner with 12 each and Fincher with 10. Paul Kelleher was the only Eagle in twin figures with 15 points.

Newfolden shot only 34 per cent from the field, hitting 21 of 61 attempts, but the Nordics made 14 of 18 free throws. Sacred Heart scored on 20 of 55 attempts from the floor for a 36 per cent showing and made six of 11 free throws. Sacred Heart held a narrow 26-25 rebound advantage.

Newfolden will be back in action tomorrow (Tuesday) when the Nordics host arch rival Middle River in an 8 p.m. ball game.

HIBBING GOALIE Gaylen Engelstad wasn't in a position to stop this shot by Northland wing Rick Vatnsdahl (15) during the first period of Friday night's MCCAA hockey conference game played in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Hibbing defender Tim Ewals made things uncomfortable for Vatnsdal on the play while another Cardinal, Jim Wiltala (18), watches Northland's Merlin Nelson. Hibbing won the game 7-4.

Hibbing & Mesabi Teams Beat Northmen 7-4 & 6-5

Northland community college hockey team dropped back to back MCCAA hockey conference game to Hibbing and Mesabi over the weekend to even the Northman league record at 2-2. Northland owns a 3-5 overall season mark.

Playing host to the visiting Iron Range schools in the Thief River Falls sports arena, Northland bowed to Hibbing 7-4 Friday night before losing to Mesabi of Virginia 6-5 Saturday.

Hibbing . . . . 7 Northland . . 4

Hibbing exploded for four unanswered second period goals in Friay night's weekend opening clash to erase a 2-1 Northland lead and carry the Cardinals to a surprising 7-4 triumph.

With 5:11 remaining the Cardinals went in front 4-2 on Biondi's second goal of the game.

The Northmen began the third period in better fashion than the second stanza with freshman Mike Dury scoring on an assist from linemate Pete Jerome with 16:48 remaining for a 5-3 contest.

Just 53 seconds later the Cardinal lead was back to three, however, with Herbst picking up his second goal of the game on an assist from Biondi.

Northland mae it 6-4 on Jerome's goal with 3:03 remaining. Gary Burstad earned an assist on the play.

Mesabi . . . . 6 Northland . . 5

Mesabi carried a game winning scoring outburst across portions of two periods as the Ironmen scored three straight goals in the second and third period to pick up a 6-5 win over the Northmen.

The Virginia based school snapped a 3-3 game near the end of the second period when center Jack Croswell scored with 6:40 remaining.

Mesabi increased their lead to 6-3 at the start of the third stanza with Mark Peterson and Jim Spolarich scoring with 17:31 and 12:55 remaining.

Northland battled back against the highly respected Ironmen with freshman Dick Penning scoring on an assist from Jerome with 9:41 left for a 6-4 game.

An unassisted power play goal by Al Eisenzimmer tightened things to 6-5 with 5:17 remaining, but Northland was hampered from scoring the equalizer by three careless Northman penalties in the final four and one-half minutes of the game.

The contest started out in high scoring fashion as Mesabi grabbed a quick 2-0 lead just five minutes into the game on goals by Steve Bals and Tom Bonner.

Northland cut the difference to 2-1 on a goal by Jerome, with help from Penning, at the six minute mark, but Mesabi went on top 3-1 when Harold Maki scored with 12:08 remaining.

A goal by Merlin Nelson finished the first period scoring and left the Northmen trailing only 3-2. Randy Schmitz and Vatnsdal earned assists on Nelson's goal coming with 2:11 remaining.

Northland carried the play throughout most of the game and forced Mesabi goalie Kieth Larson to make 38 saves. Carter played nearly all of the game for Nortland before being forced to lave the game with an injury in the third period. Gordin Landin filled in for Carter and helped record 32 Northland saves.

RAINY RIVER center Randy Cody found his path to the basket blocked by Northland's Burnie Stephens and was forced to pass the ball off to a teammate on this play during Saturday afternoon's community college basketball game in the Northland gym. The Northmen defeated the visiting Voyageurs 101-89 to improve their season record to 9-2.

Explains Trunk Highway System

Minnesota has a network of principal arterial highways, numbering some 12,000 miles, called the trunk highway system. Created in 1921, it was designed to link all county seats and major population centers. These farm-to-market roads are the state's responsibility.

Many are astonished to learn that Interstate routes and U.S. routes are really state highways—part of the trunk highway system. Their federal route designations are merely a device to facilitate interstate travel. The federal government construction of roads built to national standards. It does not build or maintain U.S. routes and Interstates.

Only trunk highways—9 per cent of the public roads mileage in Minnesota—are designed, constructed and maintained by the Minnesota highway department. The actual 'construction' is really done by private road-building firms awarded contracts for the work in competitive bidding.

Prowler Swimmers Spilt 4 Decisions

Lincoln high school swimming team finished a busy week ending schedule at an even .500 level as the Prowlers spilt four decisions in a pair of double dual meets to give the Thief River Falls tankers a 5-4 season dual meet record.

On Thursday Thief River Falls competed against Brainerd and Two Harbors in the Warriors' pool with the Prowlers bowing to the host Brainerd squad 54-31, but beating Two Harbors 58-21. Thief River Falls hosted Grand Forks Red River and Fargo North in the Franklin pool Saturday with the Prowlers beating the Roughriders 50-33, but losing to North 63-18.

Despite losing to Brainerd, Thief River Falls swimmers set six new school records in Thursday night's meet. Posting record setting first place efforts for the Prowlers were Dan Cork with a 2:01.2 in the 200 yard free style; Doug Williams with a 1:01.8 in the 100 yard butterfly; and Dan Heieren with a 1:02.0 in the 100 yard free style.

Other record setting performances in the Brainerd meet included Heieren with a second place 2:27.5 in the 200 yard individual medley; Wayne Ortloff with a third place 5:53.8 in the 500 yard free style; and the Prowler relay team of Dave Borning, Neil Sjulson, Cork and Williams with a second place 3:40.1 in the free style relay.

Using the same times against Two Harbors, Thief River Falls won every event except the 100 yard free style and diving competition.

Following the same pattern in Saturday afternoon's meet, Thief River Falls placed most of its emphasis against the strong Fargo North team while easily outpointing Red River by using the same times.

Every Franklin pool record but one was shattered by the powerful North squad as the Spartans won their 55th dual meet in a row. Thief River Falls swimmers also set three new school and one pool record during the meet.

Thief River Falls claimed two first places against North, winning the medley and 400 yard relays. The Prowler medley relay team of Sjulson, Jeff Carter, Williams and Dave Borning clocked a school and pool record of 1:52.7 while Borning, Brian Phelps, Cork and Sjulson combined to win the 400 yard relay race in a 3:48.6 time.

Williams claimed the other two Prowler school record times with a 23.6 clocking in the 50 yard free style and a 1:01.6 effort in the 100 yard butterfly. Both times Williams finished behind North's high school All-American swimming candidate Nate Leigh who posted times of 23.3 and 59.0 in the events. Williams' 23.6 clocking in the 50 is a state meet qualifying time if the Prowler swimmer can match it in the upcoming West Central region meet.

U.S. Wildlife Is Worth Billions In Dollar Value

Importance of America's wildlife is typically measured in terms of intangible values, not dollars and cents. Yet, though it seems out of place to put a price tag on ducks or deer, their economic significance cannot be overlooked. Boldly stated, poetic visions of flora and fauna alone can never match the promises of economic bonanza from anxious real estate developers, for example.

But can our wildlife be seen as an income-producing commodity? Yes, if the economic importance of wildlife use is adequately recognized. And when it is, the figures are staggering.

The 1970 national survey of fishing and hunting published by the Interior Department's fish and wildlife service shows that some 123 million Americans, age nine and over, participated in one or more outdoor recreational activities in 1970. A breakdown of this total according to type of activity reveals that some 97 million Americans enjoyed a form of outdoor recreation directly associated with wildlife use.

Besides hunters and fishermen (who together make up more than half of this total), this category includes wildlife and bird photographers, bird-watchers and nature walkers. Together, these millions of Americans spent a total of 1.6 billion recreation days in the out-of-doors. And translating these figures into dollars and cents, hunters and fishermen, for example, pumped 7.1 billion dollars into the economy during the year.

The billions of dollars spent each year for equipment, travel and lodging represent, however, only one part of the economic picture. Millions of acres of state game lands, purchased with revenue from hunting license sales and an 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, are open to sightseers, picnickers, hikers and campers, as well as hunters. What's more, a recent study conducted by the U.S. bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife reveals that these areas are eleven times more heavily used by non-hunting outdoor recreationists than by hunters.

An analysis of the use data from the bureau survey shows that of the 86 activities listed, hunting, which makes all the rest possible, ranked far below several other popular uses. Sightseeing ranked first with 28.3 per cent, followed by fishing, 19 per cent; picknicking, 18 per cent; camping, 15 per cent; and hunting with nine per cent.

And although picnicking and sightseeing aren't directly associated with wildlife use, without wildlife these state game lands might likely be so many shopping centers or industrial parks. And hunters pay for all of this.

Most Americans would agree that the true worth of our nation's wildlife lies in its aesthetic beauty. Hunters agree, but they can also point out that wildlife is a great, self-renewing resource paying to all annual dividends in the billions.

Lappegaard Is Appointed Chief Of Information

State highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard has been named chairman of the subcommittee on public information of the American association of state highway and transportation officials (AASHTO), according to an announcement received from the organization's president, Washington state highways director George H. Andrews.

AASHTO is comprised of officials of state highway departments and state transportation departments of the 50 states, Puerto Rico and District of columbia, as well as officials of the U.S. department of transportation. The organization's name was recently changed to include 'transportation' officials, reflecting the fact that moe than 20 states now have transportation departments established to cope with all aspects of the nationwide transportation crisis.

AASHTO's major purpose is to foster development, operation and maintenance of a nationwide transportation system. Members consider ways to improve planning, research, design, construction, maintenance and operation of a total national transportation system. Goals of the organization include the efficient and effective movement of persons and goods, support of a national movement to study transportation problems, and the counseling of Congress with respect to transportation matters.

Minnesota's 37 Ski Areas Are Open And Ready

Minnesota's 37 ski areas are open and ready for the 1974 ski season providing slopes for beginners and experts alike, according to Lisa Lebedoff, director of tourism.

She indicated that facilities and runs have been added in ski areas all over the state to accomodate Minnesota's rapidly expanding skiing public.

"Our survey of Minnesota ski areas indicated that Wild Mountain, Almelund; Afton Alps, Hastings and Detroit Mountain, Detroit Lakes, have added new chair lifts. New runs are ready for skiers at Afton Alps; Wild Mountain; Mt. Itasca, Coleraine; Ski Tonka, Orono; and Sugar Hills, Grand Rapids," the director said.

In order to better serve skiers and insure good skiing conditons no matter what the snowfall, more than half of Minnesota's ski areas have snow making equipment and 29 are open for night skiing.

Lebedoff encouraged skiers to plan for longer Minnesota ski vacations this season. "We suggest, especially on weekends when gasoline availability will be reduced, that skiers plan three and four-day outings. For those who want to plan a ski weekend or longer, seven ski areas have accommodations right at the slopes. Welch Village, Welch, and Crestwood, Alexandria, offer bunk and sleeping bag space; while Lutsen; Quadna Mountain, Hill City; Giant's Ridge, Biwabik; Sugar Hills, Grand Rapids; and Val Chatel, Park Rapids, offer rooms in lodges and motels. Quadna recently completed a 48-unit motel to double its accommodation space," she said.

Fourteen ski areas provide both cross country and downhill skiing opportunities. While some enjoy the excitement of downhill skiing, ski touring enthusiasts can be exploring the wooded and hilly areas nearby. Lutsen; Quadna; Buena Vista, Bemidji; and Cedar Hills, Eden Prairie, rent ski touring equipment. Nearly all ski areas rent downhill equipment.

Many ski areas provide families a variety of activities or special rates which encourage family participation. Golden Gate to Fun campground, Sleepy Eye, has facilities for tobogganing, innertubing, snowmobiling, and winter camping. Hidden Valley, Ely, has a toboggan run and skating rinks while Eco Baken, Sandia, offers a bob sled run, innertubing and snowmobiling with trails routed to the chalet. Families receive special rates at Golden Gate and Lutsen. Children under ten ski free at Lutsen. On Tuesdays, ladies day at Eagle Mountain, Grey Eagle, female enthusiasts ski for half price.

A listing of Minnesota's ski areas can be obtained by writing the Department of Economic Development, Box 933, Hanover Bldg., 480 Cedar St., St. Paul 55101. The listing includes locaton, facilities, hours of operation and lift fees.

U.S. Wildlife Is Worth Billions In Dollar Value

Importance of America's wildlife is typically measured in terms of intangible values, not dollars and cents. Yet, though it seems out of place to put a price tag on ducks or deer, their economic significance cannot be overlooked. Boldly stated, poetic visions of flora and fauna alone can never match the promises of economic bonanza from anxious real estate developers, for example.

But can our wildlife be seen as an income-producing commodity? Yes, if the economic importance of wildlife use is adequately recognized. And when it is, the figures are staggering.

The 1970 national survey of fishing and hunting published by the Interior Department's fish and wildlife service shows that some 128 million Americans, age nine and over, participated in one or more outdoor recreational activities in 1970. A breakdown of this total according to type of activity reveals that some 97 million Americans enjoyed a form of outdoor recreation directly associated with wildlife use.

Besides hunters and fishermen (who together make up more than half of this total), this category includes wildlife and bird photographers, bird-watchers and nature walkers. Together, these millions of Americans spent a total of 1.6 billion recreation days in the out-of-doors. And translating these figures into dollars and cents, hunters and fishermen, for example, pumped 7.1 billion dollars into the economy during the year.

The billions of dollars spent each year for equipment, travel and lodging represent, however, only one part of the economic picture. Millions of acres of state game lands, purchased with revenue from hunting license sales and an 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, are open to sightseers, picnickers, hikers and campers, as well as hunters. What's more, a recent study conducted by the U.S. bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife reveals that these areas are eleven times more heavily used by non-hunting outdoor recreationists than by hunters.

An analysis of the use data from the bureau survey shows that of the 86 activities listed, hunting, which makes all the rest possible, ranked far below several other popular uses. Sightseeing ranked first with 28.3 per cent, followed by fishing, 19 per cent; picknicking, 18 per cent; camping, 15 per cent; and hunting with nine per cent.

And although picnicking and sightseeing aren't directly associated with wildlife use, without wildlife these state game lands might likely be so many shopping centers or industrial parks. And hunters pay for all of this.

Most Americans would agree that the true worth of our nation's wildlife lies in its aesthetic beauty. Hunters agree, but they can also point out that wildlife is a great, self-renewing resource paying to all annual dividends in the billions.

Lappegaard Is Appointed Chief Of Information

State highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard has been named chairman of the subcommittee on public information of the American association of state highway and transportation officials (AASHTO), according to an announcement received from the organization's president, Washington state highways director George H. Andrews.

AASHTO is comprised of officials of state highway departments and state transportation departments of the 50 states, Puerto Rico and District of columbia, as well as officials of the U.S. department of transportation. The organization's name was recently changed to include 'transportation' officials, reflecting the fact that moe than 20 states now have transportation departments established to cope with all aspects of the nationwide transportation crisis.

AASHTO's major purpose is to foster development, operation and maintenance of a nationwide transportation system. Members consider ways to improve planning, research, design, construction, maintenance and operation of a total national transportation system. Goals of the organization include the efficient and effective movement of persons and goods, support of a national movement to study transportation problems, and the counseling of Congress with respect to transportation matters.

Minnesota's 37 Ski Areas Are Open And Ready

Minnesota's 37 ski areas are open and ready for the 1974 ski season providing slopes for beginners and experts alike, according to Lisa Lebedoff, director of tourism.

She indicated that facilities and runs have been added in ski areas all over the state to accomodate Minnesota's rapidly expanding skiing public.

"Our survey of Minnesota ski areas indicated that Wild Mountain, Almelund; Afton Alps, Hastings and Detroit Mountain, Detroit Lakes, have added new chair lifts. New runs are ready for skiers at Afton Alps; Wild Mountain; Mt. Itasca, Coleraine; Ski Tonka, Orono; and Sugar Hills, Grand Rapids," the director said.

In order to better serve skiers and insure good skiing conditons no matter what the snowfall, more than half of Minnesota's ski areas have snow making equipment and 29 are open for night skiing.

Lebedoff encouraged skiers to plan for longer Minnesota ski vacations this season. "We suggest, especially on weekends when gasoline availability will be reduced, that skiers plan three and four-day outings. For those who want to plan a ski weekend or longer, seven ski areas have accommodations right at the slopes. Welch Village, Welch, and Crestwood, Alexandria, offer bunk and sleeping bag space; while Lutsen; Quadna Mountain, Hill City; Giant's Ridge, Biwabik; Sugar Hills, Grand Rapids; and Val Chatel, Park Rapids, offer rooms in lodges and motels. Quadna recently completed a 48-unit motel to double its accommodation space," she said.

Fourteen ski areas provide both cross country and downhill skiing opportunities. While some enjoy the excitement of downhill skiing, ski touring enthusiasts can be exploring the wooded and hilly areas nearby. Lutsen; Quadna; Buena Vista, Bemidji; and Cedar Hills, Eden Prairie, rent ski touring equipment. Nearly all ski areas rent downhill equipment.

Many ski areas provide families a variety of activities or special rates which encourage family participation. Golden Gate to Fun campground, Sleepy Eye, has facilities for tobogganing, innertubing, snowmobiling, and winter camping. Hidden Valley, Ely; has a toboggan run and skating rinks while Eco Baken, Sandia, offers a bob sled run, innertubing and snowmobiling with trails routed to the chalet. Families receive special rates at Golden Gate and Lutsen. On Tuesdays, ladies day at Eagle Mountain, Grey Eagle, female enthusiasts ski for half price.

Children under ten ski free at A listing of Minnesota's ski areas can be obtained by writing the Department of Economic Development, Box 933, Hanover Bldg., 480 Cedar St., St. Paul 55101. The listing includes locaton, facilities, hours of operation and lift fees.

Crookston, Waseca Only Two Minnesota Technical Colleges

An often asked question by high school students, confused parents and many other people is, "What are the differences in post-high school training areas", and "What is a technical college?"

With a multitude of choices available to students, it is difficult to differentiate between vocational schools, junior colleges, technical colleges, baccalaureate colleges and a wide array of schools for specialized training, such as a barber's college, notes the University of Minnesota technical college information services department at Crookston.

Minnesota has many schools for higher learning, but it has only two technical colleges, one at Crookston and one at Waseca, and both are part of the University of Minnesota system. Enrollments at both schools have steadily increased.

The technical college provides two years of training in a major field of study, with broad emphasis on general education courses, including chemistry, biology, math, and communications. The basis for such training is that it is felt a student should be fully prepared for the job he desires, in addition to a well-rounded background in general areas that will help him fit into society.

The student also has a wide range of extra-curricular activities available at the technical college, including intramural athletics, intercollegiate athletics, student activities entertainment, and campus organizations. Out-of-class experiences are important to the total development of the individual.

Technical education means hands-on application. Students learn in the classroom, and apply that learning by using their knowledge on a job or a simulated job. Laboratory experiences are stressed, and all students take one quarter of an internship program, during which they work on the job in their field of interest.

Technical-collegiate training is collegiate in the terms of general education and extra-curricular activities and college credit. It is technical by means of hands on training. It is also widely versatile, for the student is prepared for a "cluster" of jobs in his major field.

For instance, a crops and soils technology major would be prepared for a mid-management level job with a seed company, a fertilizer company, a grain elevator or as a laboratory technician. In addition, if the student chooses to become a farmer, he would have a thorough background for better production methods. The same job-cluster possibilities are available for all majors offered at technical colleges.

Both Minnesota technical colleges have an experiment station located on the campus. In addition to providing the research that is vital to modern agriculture, the experiment stations provide laboratory resources for students.

Technical college graduates receive an associate in applied science degree. After two years of training, the graduate is prepared to enter the work force at a mid-management level, having been trained in both basic and technical knowledge of his field, or he may continue his training at other post-secondary institutions.

The results of such training are encouraging. Students at both Minnesota technical colleges find employment readily. In fact, in many areas there are not enough students to meet requests, according to placement directors at the schools. With an employment rate of over 90 per cent of students who seek employment, it is apparent that many businessmen recognize the thorough training technical college graduates have received, and they are ready to hire them.

Utilization of advisory boards also helps maintain the instructional calibar at the technical colleges. Committees are composed of business people who know their particular industry and can advise the college of what training a potential worker must have. They also suggest new methods of teaching and new courses that may aid both the student and the employer.

Training for many careers in agriculture is available at both technical colleges. Both Crookston and Waseca offer courses in business and in home and family services. Crookston also offers majors in hotel, restaurant, institutional, and resort management.

The function of any post-high school training is to prepare the student for a job that will give him a means of support and a sense of pride. The two-year technical college does that, and hopefully does more. It prepares the student to be a concerned citizen who is active in his community, as well as a wage-earner in a satisfying position.

USDA Increases Assistance On School Lunches

U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) recently increased its rates of payment to state educational agencies to assist schools taking part in the national school lunch and school breakfast programs.

The increases, which will be effective January 1 through June 30, were announced by USDA's food and nutrition service (FNS) in another step to implement the provisions of public law 93-150, the child nutrition legislation passed in November. The new law provides that the payment rates for school lunches and breakfasts are to be adjusted twice each year, in line with the changes in the "food away from home" series of the consumer price index. This is the first of such adjustments and, as series of the consumer price index. This is the first of such adjustments and, as provided by law, it reflects the changes in the period September through November 1973. During that period, the series increased 5.126 per cent, and the lunch and breakfast rates announced recently approximate that amount of increase, rounded off to quarter-cent intervals as provided by law.

In the national school lunch program, the national average payment to help defray food costs of each lunch served to participating children will be increased a half cent from ten to 10.50 cents. With that average, States are authorized to vary the rate of reimbursement to individual schools up to a maximum 16.50 cents a lunch. Previously the ceiling was 16 cents.

The additional guaranteed payment to assist in the service of lunches to needy children will be boosted 2.25 cents—to 37.25 cents for each reduced-price lunch, and to 47.25 cents for each free lunch.

In cases of severe need, the reimbursement to individual schools is also increased 2.75 cents. It can range as high as 62.75 cents for each reduced-price lunch and as high as 72.75 cents for each lunch served free.

The national average payment for each breakfast served to eligible children will be increased one half cent—from eight cents to 8.50 cents. The additional payment for each reduced-price breakfast, which has been 15 cents, will be increased to 15.75 cents. And the additional payment for a free breakfast, which has been 20 cents, will be increased to 21 cents.

For cases of severe need, maximum rates of reimbursement remain at 40 cents for reduced-price breakfasts and 45 cents for free breakfasts.

The complete schedule of rates of payments for both school lunch and school breakfast programs is scheduled for the federal register on January 10.

No Shortage Of Heating Oil Due To Warm Fall

Upper Midwest industry and residents have not so far been much inconvenienced by the energy shortage and this may be contributing to an ill-founded complacency about the extent of the shortage's anticipated effects, in the view of Gerald W. Everett, executive director of the Northwest Petroleum association.

"The fact that we have had no heating oil shortages, for instance, can be attributed in part to everyone making sure their fuel tanks were full when the heating season started. But a much more important factor is the unusually mild fall and winter weather we had been having until the recent cold snap that moved into the area on December 29", Everett said.

"While we can be thankful for the mild weather we have had, we should keep in mind, as most residents of this part of the country do, that in January and February night-time temperatures in the -10 degrees to -35 degrees range can occur frequently and in one Minnesota community it reached -45 degrees on New Year's morning. And, of course, wind chill temperatures down to -50 degrees further increase the demand for heating fuels.

"If we start having normal seasonal cold waves there could be shortages of heating oil once the present supplies have been used up," said Everett, whose association represents over 3,000 petroleum products distributors in Minnesota and North Dakota.

"The independent jobbers who sell and deliver heating oil to homes and businesses may find their tanks emptying, with inadequate supplies available to take care of all of their customers' needs.

"Of course, one of the factors that aggravates the problem are the industrial and institutional natural gas users who must interrupt their natural gas supply and start using heating oil when the temperature drops below a certain level. This temperature level varies, based on such items as the volume of gas used and whether the customer is, say, a hospital or a factory. But in general, the temperatures at which these users must interrupt their gas have been rising in recent years, adding significantly to demand for heating oil," Everett said.

BSC Approves Credit For AVTI School Training

Bemidji state college has recently approved allowance of up to 48 quarter hours of credit for area vocational-technical institute students, according to word received by Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of Thief River Falls schools, from E.J. Aalberts, registrar at BSC.

Evaluation of these credits would be made and awarded by the combined efforts of the major department and the registrar.

A year ago the BSC director of admissions and records, B.B. Brandrud, advised Dr. Corliss that programs leading to the traditional degrees of bachelor of arts or bachelor of science at BSC do not permit credit allowances for vocational training. A program did exist, however, known as the college of university studies, wherein vocational school credit was given toward specific programs of studies. The college of university studies decided just how much credit would be granted for this type of previous training.

Careful Driving Is Important In Winter Weather

Careful driving is even more important in winter weather because of poor road conditions, the Tire Industry Safety council reminds motorists.

"Motorist should be especially alert behind the wheel to anticipate abrupt steering and braking emergencies," said council chairman Malcolm R. Lovell Jr.

"In view of the energy crisis this winter, motorists should also know that properly inflated tires save gasoline," Lovell said.

"Underinflated tires squirm a lot, and make your engine work harder to overcome roll resistance," he explained. "You can help stretch fuel supplies by good tire care."

The Tire Industry Safety council offers these tips for cold weather tire care and driving:

Keep your ties properly inflated. Lower pressure does not increase traction, and excessive heat buildup from underinflation may damage your tires.

Remember changing weather changes tire inflation pressure. Tires lose about one pound of air pressure for every 10-degree drop in temperature.

Check for proper tire inflation pressure before starting out, when tire are still cold.

Winter, or snow tires are recommended for use in areas with periodic snow and ice. These special tires hve an open tread pattern and deep grooves for extra traction.

Studded tires may provide the most reliable starting, braking and steering response if you live in the snow belt. Check for state use restrictions, if any.

Do not mix radial tires with snow tires of bias-belt or bias-ply construction. If you have regular radial tires and are considering replacing two of them with snow tires, they must be radial snow tires.

Make sure your tires are properly balanced and aligned for the best possible steering response in hazardous weather.

If you switch to winter tires, store your others in a cool, dry place, away from furnaces or batteries which may produce ozone. Store white sidewalls facing each other.

The governor urged all citizens "to be cognizant of the work the Jaycees are doing to make their communities in Minnesota a better place for all of us to live."

The governor presented the proclamation to Minnesota Jaycees president, Fran Brdley of Ornonoco, an engineer with I.B.M. in Rochester and R. Brian Merhar, executive vice president of the organization, of Woodbury and formerly from Rochester.

Accreditation Visit Made At Northland

Biennial visitation of Northland community college in Thief River Falls by a team representing the North Central association of secondary schools and colleges took place Thursday and Friday, according to Victor Charles, college president.

Conducting the visitation were Philip Gannon, president of Lansing, Mich., community college, and Dr. Donald Swank, dean of instruction at Parkland community college in Champaign, Ill. The Michigan school has approximately 13,000 students and the Illinois facility serves about 6,000 students.

A candidate for accreditation by the North Central association, Northland community college received official visits in 1970 and 1972 and will be visited by a team again in 1976, president Charles said. The visitation team has access to reports made by previous teams and will present its own written report to the college here within several weeks, he added.

While in Thief River Falls, Dr. Swank and Gannon held meetings with students, faculty members, administrative staff, the college advisory committee and members of the community who have a general interest in community education.

They were given access to a great amount of accumulated information relating to Northland and in their deliberations studied campus facilities, equipment, budget and finances, faculty qualifications and credentials, student follow-up reports and other data. Their report is expected to give views on strengths and weaknesses of the college and to include suggestions for changes and improvements which can be made in the community college program here.

In meeting with citizens of the community at a breakfast session early Thursday morning, Gannon and Dr. Swank received reactions to the local community college program. They heard appreciation expressed for cooperation of the administration and faculty in responding to community needs and reaffirmation of the need for a higher education facility in this area of the state.

SEN. ROBERT BROWN, Minnesota Republican chairman, spoke informally at Northland community college while on a visit to northern Minnesota last week. He is shown here answering questions from students and others. Sen. Brown urged attendance at precinct caucuses for voters who want to see a change in politics, saying that change must come from the grassroots level. He also suggested that voters keep in contact with their elected officials to let them know their feelings.

City Dump Area Is Discussion Topic Tuesday

Representatives of Pennington and Marshall counties and Thief River Falls met last night (Tuesday) to discuss the possibility of joint utilization of the sanitary landfill presently operated by this city in New Solem township of Marshall county. Although no formal action or agreement resulted, it was the apparent consensus of people present that the possibility was worth additional study. As a result, a committee consisting of representatives of each of the three governing organizations will continue to examine the possibilities.

Safety Council Calls Attention To TRF Hazards

Pennington county safety council has called attention of the public to conditions surrounding early morning darkness and children enroute to school following the recent change to daylight saving time.

"Children should be made aware of proper pedestrian procedures and motorists should exercise caution and be on the lookout for pedestrians," stated John T. Anderson, secretary of the council.

"Early morning darkness makes it more hazardous for children going to school. Children should wear light clothing or reflectorized material to be more easily seen and sidewalks should be used whenever possible.

"Motorists should be sure that all windows are clear of snow and frost so that they have good visibility in all directions," he added. "Slippery streets make sudden stops impossible and decreased speed for automobile traffic is essential. Children should also be warned of the dangers of hitching rides on the back of cars—a comman practice when streets are icy," he added.

Local Building Permits Reflect Changing Trend

Nine building permits representing a valuation of $67,000 were issued in Thief River Falls during November, according to information recently released by the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis. This figure is a substantial increase over November 1972 with three permits valued at $7,000. All but one of the new permits were issued for non-residential construction, repairs or remodeling.

The permits issued in November bring the total for the first 11 months of 1973 to 190 non-residential permits and 26 residential permits representing 33 housing units. During the same period of 1972 there were only 114 non-residential permits issued but 57 residential permits representing 67 housing units. However, the valuation of non-residential permits does not reflect the numerical increase. The 11 month total for 1973 is $851,000 or significantly below the 1972 figure of $1,628,000. The valuation decrease for residential permits reflects the numerical decrease with a $791,000 total for 11 months

Mandatory assessment of 15 cents per had for all cattle and calves sold in Minnesota went into effect Monday.

The assessment is levied by the Minnesota beef research and promotion board to implement a marketing order approved by a majority of the voting producers in a state-wide referendum held last month.

First purchasers of cattle and calves will be responsible for collecting the assessments and remitting the proceeds by the tenth day of each ensuing month to the producer-elected board. The first such remittance will be due on February 10.

Special instructions for the marketing order assessment were mailed this past week to Minnesota's more than 1,200 licensed livestock buyers, auctioneers and cattle dealers.

Assessments apply to all Minnesota transactions.

January 21 the Minnesota beef research and promotion board will meet to consider hiring an executive secretary and to designate an official despository for assessment proceeds.

Although the assessment collection is mandatory on each transaction, any eligible producer may obtain a refund by making application to the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Four Declared Elected To C of C Board Tues.

Four new directors of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce were declared elected at the noon meeting of the organization's board of directors Tuesday. They are Bill Dee, Vic Kalinoski, Norris Melander and Dave Voelk.

The four directors were nominated by the chamber's nominating committee and submitted to the membership earlier this month. Members of the Chamber of Commerce were permitted under a recent bylaw change to nominate other members prior to the election originally scheduled to be held later by mail. No other nominations were received by the January 14 deadline.

Since there would be only four nominees for the four positions open on the board at the electon the existing board voted unanimously Tuesday to declare the nominees elected. Mailing of ballots to members and paying for postage on ballots returned combines for considerable expense which will be saved this year, according to Merle Smith, executive vice president of the organization.

Retiring from the board after their maximum allowable terms of service and to be succeeded by the new members are Dwight Tangquist, Orin Green, Milton Reierson and Victor Charles. Continuing as directors will be Jon Larson, currently president; Don Lindquist, Fred Sorensen, Tony Dorn, Robert Ekeren, Dr. A.F. Scheuneman, Dennis Wojahn, Mrs. Betty Walton and Richard Trudeau.

The Chamber of Commerce board also has representatives from the city council, county board of commissioners, board of education, Jobs Incorporated and the local Jaycee chapter.

Directors elected this year for three-year terms will officially take office on March 1. Bill Dee is owner of the Ben Franklin store, Melander owns Home Lumber company, Voelk is manager of the Bostwick's department store and Kalinoski is owner of Ace hardware.

In the letter sent to Chamber of Commerce members notifying them of the nominating committee report, president Larson stated the following:

4-H Speaking Program To Be Held February 9

Pennington county 4-H speaking program will be held February 9 at 2 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room.

The speaking program is aimed at promoting human understanding, providing participants with training and speaking experiences and stimulating greater awareness of social issues. Beef Cattlemen Invited To Hear Industry Topics

Proper handling equipment and housing are important aspects of the beef industry. Area cattlemen are invited to hear Don Bates, extension engineer, discuss these topics tomorrow (Thursday) at 1:30 p.m. in the basement of the city auditorium.

Handling beef cows and calves without facilities for confining and restraining them is a tough job. Bates will use slides and a working model to illustrate how workable handling equipment shows sorting, shifting, and loading of cattle with minimal damage to animals and people.

Building construction, open ridge ventilation draft control in open sided buildings and the construction of windbreak fences will also be discussed.

Fuel Dealers Meet To Review Local Situation

Meeting of Pennington county fuel oil dealers recently in Thief River Falls provided little new information on the area fuel situation, according to A.E. Jorgenson, county civil defense director.

The fuel dealers met with energy crisis coordinators O.E. Engelstad and Wallace Sparby and Jorgenson at the courthouse in Thief River Falls. New customers who need heating fuel for their residences and who are unable to find a local supplier should call Engelstad at 681-2943 or Sparby at 681-1612, Jorgenson said.

KayDell L. Henning And Thomas L. Super Wed

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Henning of Middle River. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Super of Mentor.

As a prelude to the ceremony, the soloists Rick Holmes of Middle River and Mrs. Naomie Johnson of Lancaster joined in singing "Hawaiian Wedding Song". During the ceremony, Holmes sang "O Promise Me," and Mrs. Johnson sang "Song Of Ruth," and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist Mrs. James Dalager played "Theme from Watersuite" as the attendants entered as couples, and the traditional wedding march for the bridal processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of angeskin peau and Chantilly lace, styled with a high neckline and bishop sleeves. Lace edged with pleating formed the yoke and created the redingote effect on the skirt front. A lace half-cap held her three-tiered veil edged with a wide scalloped lace edging. The bride carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white mums interspersed with purple velvet loops. She also carried a white linen handerchief, a gift from the mother of the groom. Her pearl pendant was a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Naomie Johnson attended her cousin as matron of honor. Mrs. Jeanelle Johnson of St. Hilaire, sister of the bride, was bridesmatron and Barb Jorland of Moose Lake, friend of the bride, and Cathy Jo Super of Mentor, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Their floor-length gowns of deep lavender crepe featured scooped necklines and full skirts ending with a deep ruffle at the hem. The bodices, lined with lavender crepe, were designed with full sleeves of semi sheer with flocked hearts in lavender and white. All the attendants wore fresh yellow mums clipped in their hair and each carried a basket of yellow and white mums, accented with statice and purple velvet loops.

Best man was Nick Neibauer of Mentor, a friend of the groom. Serving as groomsmen were Jerome Henning of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, and Rob and David Super of St. John's University, brothers of the groom. Ushers were Jerry Morrow, friend of the couple, and Doyle Henning, cousin of the bride. The groom, his attendants and the ushers were attired in adventurer tuxedos in oxford gray with black velvet trim, pin striped trousers, white ruffled shirts, black bow ties, and black patent shoes. Their boutonnieres were a yellow rose.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Henning selected a floor-length gown of deep aqua blue double-knit crepe with sheer sleeves. Complementing the gown were a bolero styled lace vest and gold accessories. The mother of the groom wore a light blue floor-length gown with silver accessories. The gown was fashioned with a full double skirt of organza over taffeta, topped by a linen knit, long sleeved beaded bodice. A wide satin belt accented the waistline. Both mothers wore identical, double orchid corsages.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Evan Jevne of Holt, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bruggeman of Mentor, grandparents of the groom. The grandmothers wore floor-length gowns of black and white crepe, and in raspberry and black organza over taffeta, respectively. Their corsages were yellow and white roses.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a buffet reception in the church parlors for approximately 250 guests. For the occasion, the church parlors were decorated in purple and white, accenting the bride's chosen colors. Ivan Johnson and Mrs. Jerome Henning, brother-in-law and sister-in-law of the bride, were host and hostess.

The Lady Windemere wedding cake, featuring three pillared tiers on a base of four round cakes, was decorated with purple and yellow roses. Topping the cake was a dove surrounded by four beaded heart-shaped arches. On either side of the cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Orvis Bennit of Holt, were bouquets of yellow and white mums with purple ribbon. Cutting and serving the cake were Vye Henning, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Don Bruggeman, aunt of the groom; and Mrs. Hilmer Anderson, friend of the couple.

In the evening, a wedding party was held at the Thief River Golf club with Jim Solsten's combo providing the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Super are at home at 106 South Third street in East Grand Forks where the groom is teaching at Sacred Heart. The bride is employed by the Grand Forks Herald.

The double ring ceremony took place at 2 p.m., on Saturday, December 15, with Rev. Roy Seger officiating.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown of ivory chiffon, styled in empire silhouette with high neckline and full bell sleeves. Matching lace enhanced the raised waistline. A peplum created back interest. In place of a veil, she wore a cluster of fresh holly pinned in her hair. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

Are there any exercises recommended to strengthen feet of babies before they walk?
I have heard that in Scotland there has been quite a movement to encourage parents to regard the importance of early foot exercise. In America we devote all of our attention to babies' hands while we conceal the feet in shoes and under blankets as if the pinkies were indecent.
Foot exercise is the same simple grasping action which delights us when a baby grasps our little finger. Touching a baby's toes with your finger will encourage toe function and if you keep the baby's feet uncovered the baby will continue the exercises with little or no encouragement.
It may cause eyebrows to flutter when a baby reaches for a toy with his toes but it is good foot health.?

Minn. Vehicles Are Failing In Emission Control

High percentages of motor vehicles on Minnesota roads are failing to meet federal standards of emission control, tests run by the state patrol during the 1973 vehicle inspections indicate.

The tests revealed that at highway speeds, 18 per cent failed the carbon monoxide test and 12 per cent failed the hydrocarbon test. At idle speeds, the failure rates were 48 per cent and 25 per cent, revealing a relatively greater pollution probelem resulting from stop-and-go city driving.

The highest failure rates in all tests were made by 1972 models. This resulted partly from the fact that federal standards go down in one and two model year steps for cars older than the 1972 models. Emission control requirements are the same for 1972 and 1973 models.

Patrol chief James Crawford explained the high failure rate for 1972 vehicles "is indicative of a lack of adequate maintenance procedures" for keeping the newer and more sophisticated pollution control devices in effective operation.

Permissible carbon monoxide levels under federal standards are from 1.5 per cent or less for the late models up to five per cent for 1968 and older vehcles.

For hydrocarbons, the standards are 200 or less parts per million for late models, and up to 1000 ppm for older vehciles. At the liberalized pollution rates for older cars, 43 per cent failed the idle test and 20 per cent the highway speed test for carbon monoxide, while 23 per cent failed the idle test and 14 per cent the highway speed test for hydrocarbons.

Although the emission tests were given in connection with the regular vehicle inspections, no penalities were invoked for vehicles that failed. Instead, drivers were advised on steps to take to improve their vehicles' performance.

OSHA To Allow Solid Fuels In Portable Heaters

U.S. department of labor, noting the impact of the energy crisis on oil supplies, will permit the use of solid fuels in construction salamander heaters instead of the petroleum products required by rules of the occupational safety and health administration (OSHA).

OSHA granted an interim order allowing use of coal—or coke-fired—open top herters until a decision is reached on an application for a permanent variance from the OSHA standards.

Massachusetts council of construction employers, Boston; Construction Contractors council, Inc., Arlington, Va., and Master Builders' association, acting for 306 member companies, sought variance from the OSHA standard prohibiting the use of solid fuel salamander heaters in buildings and on scaffolds.

Salamanders are open type portable heaters used to cure concrete in buildings under construction. They have no chimneys, however, and can present carbon monoxide hazards to workers if improperly fired or inadequately ventilated. The variance sets firm rules to guard against the hazard.

The order applies to all building construction sites in Massachusetts of 209 member companies of the Massachusetts group; 54 member companies of the Construction Contractors' council in the District of Columbia and surrounding counties in Maryland and Virginia; and 45 members of the Master Builder's association.

Copies of the application are available for public inspection and copying at OSHA's office of standards in Washington, D.C., and at field offices in Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Newark, Hartford, Conn., Concord, N.H., and Richmond, Va.

Notice of the application and grant of the interim order appeared in the Federal Register December 27. Comments and requests for a hearing on the application must be submitted by January 28, to the OSHA office of Standards, U.S. Department of Labor, Room 508, Railway Labor Building, 400 First St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210.

According to the National Coal Association, known recoverable reserves of coal in the United States are estimated at around 830 billion tons — enough for several hundred years.

Minn. Stations Have Adequate Fuel Supplies

Only ten per cent of the gas stations in outstate Minnesota had low supplies of fuel this week, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA). And, about the same percentage were limiting gasoline sales to ten gallons per customer.

A survey of about 20 outstate gasoline dealers was conducted this past wekend as part of Minneson AAA's continuing fuel gauge report. In future weeks, the survey will include the Twin City metropolitan area as well. It will attempt to inform motorists about the availability and average price of gasoline.

The average price paid for regular gasoline this past week was 46.5 cents per gallon. Regular gas prices ranged from a low of 41.9 cents per gallon at Albert Lea to 50.9 cents at Detroit Lakes.

The average price for premium gasoline was 50.5 cents per gallon. Premium gas prices ranged from a low of 44.9 cents at Albert Lea to 54.9 cents at Detroit Lakes.

All stations in the survey were observing shortened hours of operation compared with last year, and all but one station was closing on Sunday. However, most AAA stations are open for emergency service on Sunday.

Nearly all of the station operators surveyed said the outlook for fuel supplies for the coming week were fair to good. Two operators said they were uncertain about their supplies for the rest of the month, but at least one operator said he could look forward to even greater gas supplies as the month wore on.

Present supplies of gasoline in Minnesota appear to be good with few limits being placed on purchases. However, motorists can look for even higher gas prices in the coming weeks. The survey also revealed that most motorists seem to have adjusted to Sunday closings and shorter gas station hours.

"Any such nominee, if qualified and willing to serve, will appear on the ballot together with the above nominees selected by the nominating committee. Four directors will be elected by mail ballot from those nominated."

GROWING COUNTRY

While the nation's population increased 3.3 per cent in the 39 months between the 1970 census and a provisional estimate on July 1, it surged 5.1 per cent in the South and 5 per cent in the West.

ANNAPOLIS BRASS QUINTET will present the second concert of the 1973-74 Thief River Falls concert association series Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium. The group has been in operation for six years and is one of very few full-time brass ensembles in the world today. Each member is an accomplished instrumentalist and the music played is said to appeal to all people. Lusty music of Germany, the passionate dances of Italy and the eclectic sounds of America are among the music to be played. Attendance at the concert is by season membership only.

Minnesota Holds Number Of Farms Over Past Year

Minnesota has scored a major victory in its campaign for rural development by halting the outmigration of farm families to the cities, agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald declared recently.

He cited as evidence of that achievement the latest annual estimate by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service, that Minnesota entered 1974 with 118,000 farming units, comprised of 30,600,000 acres or an average of 259 acres per farm.

Revisions of earlier estimates revealed that Minnesota has held at 118,000 farming units since January, 1972, and effectively ended nearly four decades of rural out-migration.

Commissioner Wefald said the stabilization of the farm population in Minnesota brought about by long needed fair farm prices should provide a whole new lease on the life and progress of the hundreds of rural communities.

"We should welcome this as a major turning point in our history, one that can provide unprecedented growth and prosperity for the rural community in which most Minnesotans hav long expressed a preference for where they want to work and live."

"In short, this confirms what we have been saying all along, that if farmers get prices that provide recovery of production costs plus a reasonable profit, our family farm system will be preserved and the entire community will benefit," Commissioner stated.

Commissioner Wefald said that only seven other states equalled Minnesota's achievement in neutralizing the rural exodus for the past two years: Alaska, California, Hawaii, Kentucky, Missouri, Nevada and Texas. Hawaii, the newest state, gained 2,000 farms in 1972.

Minnesota retained the eighth position among all states in total number of farming units, behind Texas, Missouri, Iowa, North Carolina, Illinois, Kentucky, and Tennessee, respectively.

Six states among the top ten in farm numbers have lost a combined total of 15,000 farming units during the past two years: Iowa 4,000, North Carolina 5,000, Illinois 2,000, Tennessee 2,000, and Ohio and Indiana 1,000 each. Eleventh place Wisconsin has lost 2,000 farming units in the past two years. North Dkaota has lost 1,500, South Dakota 1,000 farms.

Nationally 23,000 farming units were lost in 1973, a one per cent decline, compared with the loss of 49,000 farming units or more than two per cent of the total since 1972.

Natural gas stored in Minnesota reservoirs totals more than 900 million cubic feet — more than double the reserves stored in the state just after World War II.

Lappegaard Asks For Pools In Official Travel

In commending state highway department employees for their positive response in conserving fuel and electricity in the operation of motorized equipment and buildings, commissioner Ray Lappegaard called upon them to further cooperate to the maximum extent possible in pooling official business travel.

To coordinate local travel and provide liaison with other Capitol area agencies having similar transportation needs, a travel office has been established in the St. Paul central office. District offices were also requested to set up similar operations at their regional headquarters across the state.

To derive optimum fuel conservation benefits from the measure, employees are to plan local official travel at least 48 hours in advance, providing the new travel office with the maximum flexibility possible in scheduling trips. Wherever possible, statewide travel as well as travel between Highway districts is to be scheduled at least a week ahead, allowing additional time to coordinate long-distance travel among local state agencies with destinations farther afield.

Lappegaard has pledged the Minnesota highway department to cooperate to the maximum extent possible in the state's effort to reduce motor fuel consumption by 25 per cent.

U.S. Highways Are Usually State Highways

It is likely that most Minnesota motorists have never driven on a federal highway.

Contrary to popular belief, a U.S. route marker on a highway does not identify it as a "federal highway." Neither does it mean that the highway was built with federal funds or is maintained by them.

Posting of certain roads as "U.S. routes" began in 1926 as a means of simplifying interstate travel over the best roads by the shortest route. A U.S. route number has nothing to do with federal control or the use of federal funds for construction or maintenance. A U.S. route number may mark a road constructed entirely with state funds.

Except for a two-mile stretch of what once was TH 53 in Virginia, the 4,200 miles of U.S. route in Minnesota are state roads, an integral part of Minnesota's trunk highway system. The 12,000-mile trunk highway system, begun in 1921, is a network of arterial highways connecting county seats, shipping points, and major population centers. Only the trunk highway system is designed, built and maintained by the Minnesota highway department. The system includes Interstate freeways, which are also state highways.

Federal roads—designed, built and maintained by the federal government— are few and far between. They constitute less than 1½ per cent of the public road and street mileage in Minnesota. The only federal roads in Minnesota are the 1,900 miles of roads in federal parks, forests and reservations which are not also a part of some other public roads system.

For example, federal forest highway 27, in the Chippewa national forest is also designated as CSAH 12. Because it is also a county state-aid highway, Beltrami county has jurisdiction over it, rather than the federal government.

Senator Mondale Blames Oil Firms For Fuel Crisis

Following are comments from Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota:

Bigness in and of itself, need not be harmful to the national interest. But bigness in a commodity as vital to our economy as oil must be managed in the public interest, or the consequences to the American consumer during a time of shortage will be terrible to behold.

In the past few months, we have been given an excellent example of how a free-wheeling monopoly can harm our entire economy.

Dr. Arthur Okun, former chairman of the council of economic advisors, recently warned tht unrestrained price increases could transfer up to $50 billion a year from the American consuming public to the oil companies—an average of $20 per family per week.

The oil companies call this "the free market". I call it "the great oil robbery."

The oil companies tell us that a free market in oil means that domestic oil companies should be allowed to raise their prices—to keep pace with the ever-increasing price of foreign oil. The oil industry will be so gratified by its huge profit margins, they tell us, that they'll want to dig for more oil voluntarily, and we'll have energy in abundance.

The rebuttal to this argument, one which I support, is that price controls sould be continued on the oil industry through our period of shortage, to avoid the spectre of excess profits at the consumer's expense. Under this system, oil companies would be allowed to raise prices only when costs rose. The companies would receive further increases only when they actively explore and develop domestic oil sources.

Last year, before Congress recessed, I offered an amendment designed to continue price controls on petroleum and its products, for as long as necessary. Although my amendment was temporarily defeated, I intend to reintroduce it when Congress returns to Washington.

The past few months have shown us that we cannot rely on the magnanimity of the oil industry.

Any industry that takes advantage of consumers in the midst of a crisis is crying out for stricter regulation. And it is the job of the congress to provide that regulation.

Taxpayers May Designate Funds For Campaigns

Taxpayers preparing their 1974 tax returns can take part in the 1976 presidential election campaign fund by checking a box on the front of their Form 1040 or 1040A, Richard C. Voskuil, district director of internal revenue for Minnesota said recently.

"Under legislation enacted by Congress in 1971, every taxpayer with a tax liability of $1 or more for 1973 may designate $1 of his tax to the 1976 campaign fund if he wishes to do so, Voskuil said. "And, if he hasn't already done so, he may also designate $1 of his 1972 tax to the same fund."

The campaign fund question appears as line 8 on both the sort form 1040A and the 1040 form. If a taxpayer didn't earmark $1 of his 1972 taxes for the fund he can do so by checking the box just above his signature on either form.

On a joint return, a husband and wife with an income tax liability of $2 or more may each designate $1 for the fund for a total of $2, Voskuil said. If a husband wishes to designate $1 and his wife does not, or vice versa, one should check the appropriate box and leave the other box blank.

"Participation by a taxpayer in the campaign fund will neither increase his tax nor reduce any refund due," Voskuil said.

"Taxpayers cannot specify a political party to receive the money they designate to the fund," the director said. "The fund will be distributed on a nonpartisan basis to all eligible candidates."

Taxpayers can contact IRS offices for assistance by calling the toll-free number listed on page 2 of the instruction booklet for Form 1040 or on page 7 of the instruction booklet for Form 1040A.

Humphrey Would Extend Length Of Convention

- Senator Hubert H. Humphrey recently disclosed two major innovations in the process for selecting Vice Presidential candidates which were submitted on December 13 for approval by a special commission of the Democratic Party.

Humphrey's proposal, as modified by the elected 18-member executive committee of the vice presidential selection commission of the Democratic national committee at a meeting in Washington, D.C., on November 29, would amend convention rules to:

Extend the length of the Democratic national convention by one full day to permit an interval of 48 hours between the selections of the party's presidential and vice presidential candidates; and

Give the convention, at the request of the Presidential nominee, the option of referring the selection of the Vice Presidential nominee to a specially convened meeting of the Democratic national committee, renamed for this purpose, the "Vice Presidential Nominating Convocation" (a mini-convention).

Humphrey, who serves as chairman of both the executive committee and the full Vice Presidential Commission, noted that "if the plan is approved by the full Commission and the National Committee, it will represent the first significant reform of the Vice Presidential nominating structure in the history of the Democratic or Republican Party."

He pointed out that the recommendations resulted from the Commission's extensive investigation, discussion and inquiry, including public hearings and the solicitation by mail of the views of thousands of Democrats and interested persons.

And the Minnesota Senator explained that the executive committee's proposal was based on four principal concerns:

(1) The Convention is the principal decision making body for both Presidential and Vice Presidential nominations.

(2) The Presidential nominee has a significant voice in the Convention's decision.

(3) Presidential candidates should give assurances of careful deliberation, consultation and investigation with respect to their possible recommendations of Vice Presidential nominees.

(4) The rules need to provide the option of additional time for selecting the Vice Presidential nominee, if exceptional circumstances make that necessary.

The new procedures, recommended by the executive committee and reported by Humphrey, call for two major institutional innovations.

First, the length of the Democratic National Convention would be extended by one full day to permit an interval of 48 hours between the selections of the Party's Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates.

In other words, following the established procedure of national conventions, the nomination of the Presidential nominee would be made on the third day of the Convention.

The agenda on the fourth day would include discussions of rules and charter changes, but not, as has been the case, the selection of the Vice Pesidential nominee. That decision and the acceptance speech of the Presidential nominee would be deferred until the evening of the fifth day (Friday).

Second, the rules would permit the Convention to approve an optional plan if it agreed with the Presidential nominee that the 48-hour interval was not sufficient.

Within 24 hours after the selection of the Presidential nominee, the nominee must recommend to the Convetion, either that it proceed with the Vice Presidential selection on Friday night of the Convention, or that the Convention delegate the Vice Presidential selection responsibility to a specially convened meeting of the Democratic Ntional Committee, the "Vice Presidential Nominating Convocation."

This Convocation would meet between 14 and 21 days following the close of the Convention for the purose of selecting the Party's Vice Presidential candidate.

It would be exactly representative of the Convention and each delegation would have voting power exactly equal to that state's delegation at the National Convention, distributed proportionally to each Convocation delegate.

Under either the Convention or the Convocation, Humphrey emphasized that these rules would apply:

Each Presidential candidate has the solemn obligation to consult, deliberate and investigate carefully with respect to his own preferences for a Vice Presidential running mate.

It shall be the right of any Democrat to be formally nominated at the Convention, providing petitions supporting his or her candidacy are signed by at least 10 per cent of the Convention delegates, and these delegates are from at least three different states.

25 Courses To Be Offered At F-M Communiversity

Twenty-five courses will be offered during this year's F-m Communiversity on the four Sunday evenings in February. This year marks the tenth anniversary of the Communiversity, which began in 1965 with one course and has grown to its present size.

Communiversity classes will meet February 3, 10, 27 and 24 on the campus of Concordia college from 7-9 p.m.

Bishop Stephen Neill, director of religious studies at the University of Nairobi, will open the Communiversity with an address on February 3 in Concordia's Memorial auditorium at 7 p.m. The initial session of the classes will follow his lecture.

Course categories are theology, congregational leadership, liberal arts and sciences, personal and family, and regionalism and the individual.

Registration fee for the program is $5 for an individual, $8 for a couple, and $3 for students. The convocation lecture with Bishop Neill is open to the public without charge.

The courses are supported by the registrations and gifts from churches, organizations and individuals from the area.

Last year 876 persons were registered for courses, representing various educational backgrounds and religious demoninations. Nearly 40 communities were represented and 67 different occupations were listed.

The Communiversity is an ecumenical enterprise in continuing education. It is operated under the guidance of a planning committee. Members of the committee are: Pastors W. Douglas Allen, Howard Cole, Maurice Mueller, Ross Robson, Rabbi Jeffrey Bearman, Dr. Frank Melton, Mrs. J.M. Nilles, all of Fargo. Moorhead committee members are Dr. James Hofrenning, coordinator, Dr. Albert Anderson, and Pastors Paul Hanson and Wayne Stumme.

Bids For Road Work Scheduled In Polk County

Up for bids the week of February 4, will be an estimated $750,000 in county state-aid highway improvements in Hennepin, Polk, and Todd counties, state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard announced recently, acting as agent for the counties.

In Polk county a contract will be awarded for plant-mixed bituminous surfacing and aggregate shoulders on some seven miles of CSAH 57, northeastward from its junction with TH 75, three miles north of Crookston. Bids on the project will be received by County Auditor Martin L. Vanseth at the county courthouse in Crookston until 10 a.m., February 5.

State highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard acts as the counties' agent on these projects because the county state-aid highways to be improved are also designated as federal-aid secondary routes. As such, money from the federal highway trust fund, channeled through the Minnesota highway department, will help defray the improvement costs.

Employers Must Complete Annual Injury Survey

Employers across the nation are reminded by the labor department that they must complete their annual summary of job deaths, injuries and illnesses in their establishments by January 31.

John H. Stender, assistant secretary of labor for occupational safety and health, said that under the occupational safety and health act of 1970, employers with eight or more employeess are required to complete OSHA Form 102—"Annual Summary of Occupational Injuries and Illnesses"—by the end of this month.

The form must be posted in workplaces no later than February 1 and left posted until March. It should be placed where other notices to employees customarily are posted to ensure all employees see it.

Stender cautioned that the act provides penalities against persons who knowingly falsify the summary.

OSHA inspectors of the occupational safety and health administration (OSHA) will check for posting of the summary during their compliance inspection visits. Failure to post the form may result in the issuance of a citation.

OSHA rules for the first time exempt from recordkeeping employers with fewer than eight employees.

Employers needing forms, or help in completing them, sould contact the nearest offices of the bureau of labor statistics or OSHA.

Concordia Has High Membership In C-400 Club

The successful conclusion of Project 5 of Concordia college's C-400 club was commemorated January 14, at a 7 p.m. banquet.

Membership in C-400 now totals 3,388, nearly eight and a half times the original goal.

To accomplish the major part of funding for the Joseph L. Knutson student life center, for which grund will be broken this spring, C-400 members began this 700-member project on Jan. 1, 1972.

An additional $100,000 was promised by the Kresge Foundation as an incentive to complete the membership goal by 1973.

The club also received $300,000, to be used for the Chapel in the student life center, from a member of concordia's board of regents.

Dr. John R. Holten of Moorhead, wo served as National Chairman for the project, described as "incredible" the sustained momentum that continues to characterize C-400 membership growth.

"It all comes back to an intensive effort by many dedicated people who belive that Concordia College, under the leadership of Dr. Joseph L. Knutson, is doing a good job."

Speaking at the Club's annual sports banquet Monday evening will be Mr. Bobby Unser, nationally known Indianapolis speedway and Pikes Peak Hill Club automobile racer.

C-400 was founded in 1955, seeking 400 members to pledge money for the first phase of Concordia college's library. The club is open to any person wishing to contribute $1,000 or more to the college over a four-year period.

St. Paul Carnival Full Of Activities

A record crowd of participants and spectators is expected to enjoy the more than 60 winter fun events of the 1974 Saint Paul winter carnival being staged throughout St. Paul and suburbs January 25 to February 3.

The "Salute to Northern Highlights" theme recalls the hearty Northland traditions upon which the 88-year-old celebration is based.

The ninth annual International "500" snowmobile race is a prime example of updated tradition, its St. Paul-Winnipeg route dating back to the 1917 winter carnival's sled dog race.

Since 1966, the modern "500's" drivers have expanded in number from 58 to 300. The cash awards have grown from $700 to $35,000, first prize from $500 to $10,000. The race will start for the first time from St. Paul January 22. More competitive time competition is expected to narrow the snowmobile field early, resulting in a 50 per cent fuel saving.

Stops in Alexandria and East Grand Forks will conclude with the first finisher expected in Winnipeg by mid-day, January 24. This will be an early highlight of the Winnipeg centennial and begin the official count-down for the January 25 winter carnival opening.

This year, carnival salutes the ten midwestern states and the Canadian provinces comprising our crisp-winter northland.

Events recapturing this area's robust heritage include the Jaycee Klondike Kate Casino, January 25 and 26 and February 1 and 2. Modern-day sled dog races, sponsored by the North Star sled dog club and the less sophisticated mutt races for the city's youth will be held February 2 and 3. Malamute exhibition among some of the area's best northern canine breeds is scheduled for January 27.

A new version of the sled dog race, one of the new carnival events, will involve hundreds of St. Paul area Indianhead council scouts. Teams will pull homemade sleds, with the driver performing scout skills at various stops along a "yukon" sled run.

The first annual Royal Guard mini boggan race, February 2 is open to persons aged seven or older. The new King Boreas Cup Pee-Wee Bantam hockey invitational January 25-27 features competition among 16 top-ranked teams. The tourney is sponsored by the Lake Region hockey association with the cooperation of Burger King. February 2, hundreds of girls ages 10-17 from several midwest states will compete in the new girls AAU gymnastics meet.

While snowmobile racers head toward Winnipeg, longdistance runnrs of the 1,001 mile club will run nearly the same route as the International "500" snowmobile race, in the Flaming Torch "500" medley relaty. Donors' pledges for the runners will go to the Gillette state hospital for crippled children.

Keen national competitions highlight the national majorette contest, January 26 and 27. The national speed skating championship race is the same weekend at Lake Como.

The world's oldest hot air balloon race returns February 2 and 3, floating over downtown St. Paul the first day and suburban White Bear Lake the next. The 28-year old world's original ice fishing contest hosts hundreds of anglers on the lake January 27.

Carnival's rare breed of "winterized" summer sports is highlighted by the precariously-paced sports car on ice race, January 26 and 27 and the stock car race on ice, on O'Leary Lake February 3.

The 8th annual slow pitch softball tournament on ice returns to White Bear Lake February 2 and 3. The games will be played with bright-orange softballs, the same color as golf balls used in the Osman winter carnival golf tournament January 27.

Curling, somewhat like shuffleboard on ice, returns to the St. Paul curling club January 25, 26, and 27. Those same days, the broomball tournament will be played on the Maple Wheel rink. Strange bicycles on skiis created the ski bob races which will be run down Buck Hill's "Milk Run" slope January 27.

Traditional ski events are junior ski jumping January 25 and senior ski jumping February 3. That same day, all-family fun is offered in the seven-mile King Boreas cross country ski tour.

Procees from the Ice Capades' YMCA Y's men's winter carnival opening night benefit January 31 will send boys to camp next summer.

The 1974 chess extravanza will run nine days from January 26 to February 3. This will be the largest chess championship ever held in Minnesota, with $2,000 in awards. The bridge tournament runs February 1 to 3, attracting thousands of players each year.

More active indoor sports include bowling, archery, badminton and table tennis tournies, and an A.A.U. swim meet.

Carnival's colorful pageantry is highlighted by three parades. The traditional Grande Day parade, January 26 featues CBS-TV's Will Geer of "The Waltons" as grand marshal. Celebrity marshals include Shelly Fabares from NBC-TV's "The Brian Keith Show" and CBS-TV's Don Stewart, star of "The Guiding Light." The parade begins from the indoor comfort of the new civic center arena. A pre-parade show will feature band and drum and bugle corp competition.

The glistening fire king torchlight parade procees February 2 along a new route from Smith park to Rice park. The traditional "dathroning" of King Boreas by the snow-melting Vulcanus Rex follows. Vulcan's victory party ensues at the St. Paul hotel.

Four gala coronations feature carnival's royal family: the pre-festival junior royalty coronation, January 23; the senior citizens coronation, January 24; and carnival official opener, the King Boreas coronation, banquet and ball, featuring singing by Don Stewart of WCCO-TV's "The Guiding Light", January 25; and the Queen of Snows coronation, January 29 to complete the 1974 royal family.

All-season artists are encouraged to depict "The Spirit of Carnival" in their various art forms for the second annual arts and crafts festival, January 28 and 29. Exhibitions also include a fine art show, the junior achievement trade fair, coin carnival and a photo contest.

Check leaky faucets. One drop a second can waste 700 gallons of water a year and if it's hot water, you're wasting fuel as well.

Sen. Humphrey Concerned About Grain Reserve

In a statement issued recently from his Washington office, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey expessed grave concern over the tightening supply of U.S. what and the need for the establishment of a grain reserve.

Senator Humphrey sharply questioned the reliability of official USDA wheat export estimates and carryover figues, and advised U.S. four fillers to acquire larger inventories of wheat to cover demand in the closing months of the current marketing year.

"I don't know if bread will reach a dollar a loaf, but I do know that USDA has not been giving sufficient attention to wheat supplies for U.S. consumers," Humphrey said.

The Minnesota senator warned that if wheat reserves drop below 200 million bushels, the prices of wheat "could go through the ceiling." He also pointed out that he had repeatedly warned of diminishing reserve levels and the need for a grain reserve system.

Humphrey also criticized USDA for concentrating on wheat exports. "The real focus should be on the U.S. remaining a reliable supplier for domestic needs," he said.

Calling it "folly" to depend on U.S. grain trade and millers to maintain these reserves, Humphrey stated that "gambling with our nation's food supply is something the American people should not permit."

Senator Humphrey called for support of his consumer and marketing reserves legislation (S. 2005), as well as his amendment to the export administration act, providing for a constant monitoring of food exports. He pledged efforts to obtain "early adoption" of these measures during the second session of the 93rd Congress.

Former Teacher Here Is Honored In Minneapolis

Miss Gerda Mortensen, who taught in the old Central school in Thief River Falls in 1918-1921, was honored recently by Augsburg college in Minneapolis when Mortensen Tower student apartments was named for her.

Miss Mortensen was dean of women at the college for many years. Since her retirement, she has served as commissioner and executive secretary of the Minneapolis chapter of Nordmanns-Forbundet. She has conducted several tours to Norway and at last summer's annual international banquet in Oslo was seated next to King Olav V.

A neighbor of Dreng Bjornaraa, former Times editor now living in Minneapolis, she often recalls pleasant associations in Thief River Falls in her early teaching career, Bjornaraa recalls.

James J. Mekash Enlists In Army

Retail Sales In Minn. Up 51 Per Cent In 5 Years

Preliminary data from the 1972 census of retail trade show that sales of 23,497 retail trade establishments with one or more employees totaled $7,960 million, an increase of 51 per cent over sales reported in 1967 when the last previous census was taken.

The preliminary statistics cover only information collected from establishments with payroll—those that represent approximately two-thirds of the retail businesses in the United States but which account for about 95 per cent of total retail sales in Minnesota. Some interesting facts contained in the table are—

(1) Measured in dollar value of sales, grocery store were the most important kind of business with 1972 sales of $1,416 million; followed by new car dealers, $1,247 million; and department stores, $915 million. These three kinds of business accounted for 45 per cent of the total retail sales for establishments with payroll.

(2) Payroll for 1972 amounted to $996 million, up 51 per cent from 1967.

(3) Payroll as a per cent of total sales was 13 per cent in 1972.

(4) There were 220,184 paid employees (full and part time) engaged in retail business as of mid-March 1972.

(5) The ratio of employees to sales in 1972 was one employee for every $36,100 in sales.

(6) Among the kinds of business presented, the percentage changes in sales from 1967 to 1972 range from an increase of 71 per cent for eating and drinking places to an increase of 32 per cent for women's ready-to-wear stores.

The final report will show data for 10 major kind-of-business groups for all counties and incorporated cities of 2,500 inhabitants or more in the State. More detailed kind-of-business information will be shown for major areas—the State, standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA's), counties with 500 establishments or more, and cities with 500 establishments or more. The amount of detail by kinds of business will vary according to the number of establishments in the area.

Feb. 1 Deadline To Apply For Scholarships

All Minnesota high school seniors who wish to apply for a state scholarship or grant-in-aid award must submit their applications to the higher education coordinating commission (HECC) by February 1.

Applications must be submitted through the student's high school guidance counselor or principal, and the "Parents' Confidential Statement" must be submitted by the student's parent or guardian through the college scholarship service. Students should obtain this statement from their counselor and give it to their parents or guardian.

Students should remind their parents to be sure to list the Minnesota state scholarship program on the PCS form so that results will be forwarded to the program from the scholarship service.

To be eligible for consideration for a first-year scholarship, an applicant must be a legal resident of Minnesota by February 1 and rank in the upper-quarter of his or her class at the end of the sixth semester or junior year of high school.

However, high school rank is not considered for the grant applicants. They are selected solely on the basis of demonstrated financial need. In addition, an applicant must be a graduate of a secondary school or its equivalent by the time he enters post-secondary education and have met or be able to meet all requirements for admission as a full-time student to an eligible institution.

All information, including the application and the "Parents Confidential Statement" containing the family's financial situation, will be assembled and evaluated by the Commission.

The amount of a monetary award will be determined by the Commission based upon financial data submitted by the applicant and the relative cost of the educational institution which he will attend. Awards will range from a minimum of $100 to a maximum of $1,000, but cannot exceed one-half of the applicant's demonstrated need as determined by the Commission.

An honorary scholarship will be awarded to qualified applicants who do not demonstrate financial need, but have high past academic performance and test scores. Receiving an honorary award enables the student to retain eligibility in the program, and he or she may apply for monetary assistance at an annual renewal period should financial circumstances justify such an application.

The Minnesota State Scholarship program was created by the 1967 legislature to identify talent, recognize scholarship, encourage college attendance and provide financial assistance to residents who are highly qualified for post-secondary education, but who lack the financial resources needed. The 1971 legislature extended the benefits of the program to qualified state residents who elect to attend any approved post-secondary educational institution in the state. The Grant-in-Aid Program was established by the 1969 legislature.

Funds appropriated by the Legislature for the 1974-75 academic year total $7,750,000 for the two programs. High-school seniors are urged to contact their high school guidance counselors immediately for detailed information and application forms.

PROPOSED ARCTIC GAS PIPELINE
Arctic Gas
With existing systems of member firms
LEGEND

A MAP RELEASED in Alaska recently outlines the 2,600-mile Alaskan Arctic Gas pipeline system intended to move arctic natural gas from Prudhoe Bay and the Mackenzie delta to southern markets. All of the Alaskan gas would be provided to U.S. markets on the West Coast, in the Midwest and on the East Coast. Whatever Canadian gas is excess to Canada's needs will also go to U.S. markets. The project is gaining momentum as the energy crisis expands throughout the country, and could supply up to six per cent of the total U.S. demand for natural gas by 1980. The $3.5 billion Arctic Gas pipeline between the Arctic and the U.S. border is shaping up to be the largest construction project in history. Alaskan Arctic Gas expects to file applications with the federal government for construction permits in the near future. Alaskan Arctic Gas represents a 27 member consortium of U.S. and Canadian companies, including Atlantic Richfield Co.; Colorado Interstate Corp.; Columbia Gas Transmission; Exxon Co. U.S.A.; Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co.; Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America; Northern Natural Gas Co.; Pacific Lighting Gas Development Co.; Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.; Standard Oil Co. of Ohio; Texas Eastern Transmission Corp.; Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co.; Alberta Natural Gas Co.; Canada Development Corp.; Canadian National Railway Co.; Canadian Pacific Investments; Canadian Superior Oil; Canadian Utilities; Consumer's Gas Co.; Gulf Oil Canada; Imperial Oil; Northern and Central Gas Corp.; Numac Oil and Gas; Pembina Pipe Line; Shell Canada; TransCanada PipeLines; and Union Gas.

Truck Driving Program To Be Offered At EGF

East Grand Forks area vocational-technical institute will offer an over-the-road truck driver training program starting February 11. The four-month program was designed in cooperation with the Teamsters union and an advisory committee composed of the area's major trucking firms.

Classroom training will include all phases of driving laws, ICC regulations, freight handling, driver logs, dispatching, report writing, purchasing and leasing, safety regulations, customer relations, insurances, truck company management and 150 hours of actual road and city driving.

During practical training students will operate diesel tandem and single axle tractors, and pull van trailers, flatbeds and lowboys. Cargo handling, loading and tie-down, hook-up techniques, forklift operation and truck service and maintenance are also included in the program. Students completing the program will be qualified to pass the written and driving test for the Class "A" license.

Persons desiring to enter the program should apply early as applicants will be accepted on a first to apply basis—conditional on meeting all entrance requirements.

Applications and further information can be obtained by writing or calling the East Grand Forks AVTI, East Grand Forks, Minnesota, (218) 773-9672.

Thief River Falls had an overnight guest Tuesday in the person of Jan Braende, a 22 year old Norwegian cross country skier who is in the process of completing his own personal Winnipeg to St. Paul 500 mile race.

Jan Braende

The eighth annual 500 mile snowmobile race starts next Tuesday and for the first ime will begin in St. Paul and finish in Winnipeg. Along the way the fast moving snowmobilers may notice a slow plodding lonely figure on skis going south—that's Jan.

In a promotional gimmick to push Norwegian skiing equipment manufactured by Janoy, Inc. of Minneapolis, Jan is currently skiing cross country from Winnipeg to St. Paul.

Braende, currently a second year student at Inver Hills community college in Inver Grove Heights, began his grueling ordeal when he left Winnipeg Saturday. Covering about 40 miles a day, Jan made overnight stops at Carey, Manitoba; Karlstad; and Thief River Falls. Jan plans a shorter trip today (Wednesday) with an overnight stop scheduled for Oklee. However, Thursday he plans to travel all the way to Bemidji without stopping. From Bemidji Braende will trek 87 miles to Brainerd with stops in Walker and Pequot Lakes.

The final four days of his schedule includes Brainerd to Onamia, 43 miles; Onomia to Lake Fremont, 47 miles; Lake Fremont to Anoka, 23 miles; and then a relatively short distance to Minneapolis.

Braende's schedule includes his overnight stays to be campouts in a Norwegian made Ajungilak sleeping bag inside a Swedish made Fjallraven tent. He carries everything he needs for his planned 13 day trip in his back pack, including the tent, food, utensils and clothing.

Stopped along the way for a photograph, Jan was asked what was more uncomfortable, the cold or the tiredness, to which he answered "Yes."

He hopes to make it into the Twin Cities by January 24th, a week from tomorrow.

Cliff Morlan of the Bemidji Pioneer has tabbed Crookston Central as the favorite for the region eight basketball crown this winter. "They are a gutty gang and work well together," Morlan observed after the Pirates edged Bemidji 71-70 in a recent Northwest Athletic Conference game.

Northland Will Host Rainy River Sextet

Northland and Rainy River community colleges will square off in a two game MCCAA hockey conference series this weekend when the Northmen play host to the visiting Voyageurs in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The two conference rivals clash Friday night at 7 p.m. and again at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the important MCCAA series as both teams battle for one of the four state tournament berths earned on the basis of the final regular season conference standings.

Northland, Lakewood of White Bear Lake, Mesabi of Virginia, Crookston, Rainy River of International Falls, Hibbing and Itasca of Grand Rapids make up the MCCAA hockey conference. The top four teams in the final regular season conference standings earn berths in the MCCAA state tournament scheduled to be held February 28 and March 1 in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Thief River Falls will also be the host site for the 1974 national junior college hockey tournament March 15 and 16. The Minnesota state champion, and possibly the state's runner-up team, will qualify for the NJCAA tournament.

Prowler Skaters Handle Warroad By 11-3 Margin

Coach Bill McGann's Lincoln high school hockey team 'put it all together,' as they say, Tuesday night to easily handle respected region eight foe Warroad 11-3 in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Bouncing back from an erratic Saturday night effort in a 7-6 overtime loss at Roseau, Thief River Falls played a near flawless game against the always strong Warriors as the Prowlers completely dominated the game's 45 minutes of action.

Thief River Fals opened up a 4-0 first period lead in a neat display of puck controlling domination, coasted to an 8-2 second period advantage and then added three final period markers to hike the Prowler season record to 5-2.

Team captain Tony Dorn paced the impressive Prowler showing as the big defenseman pumped in three goals and added a pair of assists to go along with a strong defensive game. Tim Engelstad and Jim Elleson each scored twice while Max Thrall had a productive night with four points on a goal and three assists.

Thief River Falls opened the game's scoring just 2:44 after the face-off when Elleson lifted a close range rebound up and over a squatting Jim Frolander in the Warroad net. Dorn and Mike Jury, a sophomore making his first varisty appearance, earned assists on the play.

The Prowlers went in front 2-0 with 6:55 remaining as high scoring Scott Reed smoothly rapped home a rebound past Frolander who had stopped Scott Engelstad's partial breakaway shot. Jeff Tunberg also earned an assist on the play.

The margin mounted to 3-0 when Elleson and Jury combined on a perfectly executed two on one Prolwer break with 4:52 left. Jury carried the puck as long as possible and forced the lone Warroad defenseman to committ himself before passing off to Elleson who directed his ten foot shot into the high left corner of the net.

Thrall made it 4-0 with 1:11 remaining when he rapped in a high rebound from point blank range. Tim Engelstad and Dorn picked up assists on the play.

The Prowlers responded immediately when Pete Hess whipped in a close range backhand directly from a face-off just to the right of the Warroad net. Thrall got the draw on the face-off to earn the assist on the play just 23 seconds after the Warroad score.

Dorn clanged a hard long range shot off the inside of the goal pipe as both teams skated a man short with 7:07 remaining to put Thief River Falls up by a 6-1 margin. Reed and Tunberg were given assists on the play.

Just 22 seconds later Thief River Falls scored in similar fashion as Tim Engelstad hoisted his close range shot up and over Frolander. Thrall assisted on the play for a 7-2 Prowler lead.

Tunberg scored the final goal of the period by tipping in a loose puck near the goal mouth for an unassisted marker with 3:06 remaining.

Thief River Falls wasted little time before opening up the third period scoring as Dorn knocked in a long rebound after Reed's initial shot bounced in and out of Frolander's glove hand.The score came just 31 seconds into the period.

The mounting Thief River Falls lead zoomed to 10-2 with 11:53 remaining as Tim Engelstad steered in a centering pass from Hess with a 15 foot backhand shot. Thrall also gained an assist on the play.

Dorn scored the final Prowler goal with his long hard slap shot hitting Frolander's pads and climbing up and over the kneeling goaltender to settle in the Warroad net with 6:05 remaining. Scott Engelstad was given an assist on the score.

TRF Hosts Hallock And Grand Rapids

Fresh from an impressive 11-3 region eight triumph over Warroad Tuesday night, the Lincoln high school hockey team will finish a busy week's schedule by hosting Thursday and Saturday night games in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Thief River Falls will skate against region eight foe Hallock in a rescheduled Thursday night game starting at 8 p.m. On Saturday the Prowlers take on region seven power Grand Rapids. The Thief River Falls-Grand Rapids starting time has been moved up to 7 o'clock with the junior varsity game scheduled to begin at 5 p.m.

Coach Bill McGann's Prowlers own a 5-2 season record with wins over East Grand Forks 13-7, Bemidji 6-3, Crookston 2-1, Moorhead 14-2 and Warroad. Prowler losses have come at the hands of Superior 5-3 and Roseau 7-6 in overtime.

Hallock boasts one of its strongest squads in years, evidenced by the Bears' narrow 4-2 pre-Christmas loss to defending region eight champion Bemidji.

Grand Rapids, hailing from the prideful Iron Range Conference, is again a serious challenger for the rugged region seven title this winter. The Indians, who skate only four seniors and rely on six sophomores and two freshmen to take regular shifts, use a crisp passing attack and accurate shooting as a means to victory.

LHS Wrestlers Whip Ada 51-2

Thief River Falls hammered Ada 51-2 in dual meet wrestling action Tuesday night as the host Vikings failed to win a single match in 12 tries against the strong Prowler squad.

Coach Ed Krystosek's Prowler matmen will be back in action tomorrow (Thursday) when Thief River Falls travels to East Grand Forks for a 7:30 p.m. meet. The Prowlers currently own a 4-3 dual meet season record.

The only points Ada mustered all night against Thief River Falls was in the event's final match where heavyweights Dave Panek of Thief River Falls and Dave Dahlen of Ada battled to a 2-2 draw, trading second period reversals.

Ada wrestlers managed to score points in only two other matches with Thief River Falls' Lonnie Olson tripping Ken Skalsky 6-5 at 105 pounds and the Prowlers' Steve Sorvig beating Ted Aaneson 12-6 at 167.

Skalsky gained an early 4-0 first period lead on a takedown and a nearfall before Olson recovered with a two point reversal. Skalsky escaped for a single point but Olson gained a takedown with only seconds remaining to trail just 5-4 going into the second period. The Prowler senior wrapped up the win with a second period two point near fall.

Sorvig opened up a 5-1 first period lead against Anneson with a takedown and a three point nearfall. Sorvig moved out to a 9-1 second period advantage and coasted to the 12-6 win.

No other Ada wrestler scored as Thief River Falls racked up five pins and four shutout decisions.

Thief River Falls' Mark Swanson followed with a 1:33 pin of Ada's John Jolin at 119 and Lyle Johnson upped the Prowler lead to 21-0 with a 7-0 decision over Ada's Doug Nelson at 126.

Brad Steiger and Joel Kezar posted back to back Prowler pins in the next two weight classes as Steiger flattened Ted Brommenschenkel in 5:20 at 132 and Kezar downed Watt Ford in 3:40 at 138 to push the Prowler lead to 34-0.

Bryan Steiger dominated Ada's Eric Benish to win 9-0 at 145 and Prowler teammate Steve Nordhagen followed with a 7-0 whitewash of the Vikings' Pete Kappes in the 155 pound match.

LHS JV Hockey Squad Topples Warroad By 7-5

Prowlers And Green Wave Both Eye NWAC Win Fri.

Thief River Falls hosts East Grand Forks in a Northwest Athletic Conference basketball game Friday night in the Lincoln high school gym with both teams eyeing their first league win of the season to climb out of the conference cellar.

Northwest Conference

Fergus Falls	1	0	7	0

EGF	0	1	7	1

East Grand Forks owns a near perfect 7-1 season record, but the Green Wave lost their only conference start, a 69-62 decision to Crookston last week, to share the bottom spot in the standings with the Prowlers who are 4-3 for the year, but 0-3 in league play.

Crookston and Fergus Falls currently sit atop the NWAC standings with 3-0 and 1-0 records respectively, followed by Breckenridge and Bemidji at 1-1 with East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls trailing the pack.

East Grand Forks plays at Fergus Falls Saturday in the weekend's only other conference game.

"East Grand Forks has a good ball club," acknowledged Prowler head coach Lee Swanson. "They have the ability to shoot the ball real well and the go to the boards (rebound) well too. We'll have to play good steady ball to beat them."

The familiar Green Wave starting line-up will include 5-11 Brian Beier and 6-2 Kim Knoff at guards, 6-3 Steve Wald and 6-3 Mike Jacobson at forwards and 6-4 Dan Driscoll at center. Dave Aker, a 5-6 guard, is the top East Side reserve/ All six Green Wave performers are seniors.

Swanson announced he would stay with the same line-up that started last week's Prowler split against Bemidji and Grafton with 5-7 senior Jerry Sandahl and 5-11 senior Duane Dicken in the backcourt, 5-11 junior Dallas Kemmer and 6-1 senior Randy Dallmann at forwards and 6-6 junior Wayne Peterson at center.

"We were happy with our split last week against Bemidji and Grafton," noted Swanson. "We knew Bemidji and Grafton both had good ball clubs and outside of a few spots we played well against them. Right now we've got to gain some consistency in our play. We're starting to turn the corner now, though."

GOALIE JIM Frolander of Warroad appears to have stopped the puck at this moment by using his head, but instead, the puck kept right on climbing up and over the Warrior netminder and settled into the net in the third period of Tuesday night's game played in the sports arena. The goal gave Prowler team captain Tony Dorn the hat trick for the night. Prowler forward Max Thrall kept close watch on the puck for a possible rebound on the play. Thief River Falls won the game 11-3.

Northmen Face Rugged Iron Range Road Trip

Coach Chet Engelman's touted Northland community college team will measure its basketball power against a pair of strong MCCAA opponents this weekend when the Northmen travel to Minnesota's Iron Range to face Vermilion and Mesabi in back to back Friday night-Saturday afternoon encounters.

Both games against the Northeast-Division foes will count in Northland's Northwest Division standings as the Northland quint plays against Vermilion in Ely Friday night and against Mesabi in Virginia Saturday afternoon.

Vermilion is the defending Northeast Division champion and boasts a strong home court winning percentage. Mesabi is currently rated as the fourth best team in the five state region XIII junior college area.

"It's tough to win on the road in this league," pointed out Engelman who will be taking his squad out of town for only the second time this year. "If we can play well we'll be able to beat Vermilion, but we'll have to play exceptionally well to win at Mesabi. We would like to win both games of course, but being realistic, if we can come back with a split we'll be in fairly decent shape."

Vermilion's offense is paced by 6-3 freshman forward Mike Kochevar, the leading scorer on last year's Minnesota state class A champion Chisholm high school squad. Steve Potter, a 6-0 sophomore guard, supplies an outside scoring punch for the Ironmen who have struggled to a 4-4 record to date.

Mesabi, while standing 9-2 in the overall won-lost charts, has not lost a game on the hardwood this season. The highly regarded Norsemen swept to 11 straight victories, but were stripped of two wins by the MCCAA for using an ineligible player at the start of the year. Mesabi is 2-0 in strong Northeast Division competition.

Northland will start the weekend trip with a 9-2 record, including a league leading 2-0 Northwest Division mark, but the Northmen have been slowed by sickness during the past week. Engelman still isn't sure about the status of front line players David Dickey and Ralph Fitts for the series.

Northland's weekly statistical report revelas that six Northmen still carry scoring averages in double figures through 11 games. Fitts leads the squad in scoring with a 17 point average, followed by Bill Gusa 16.5, Dickey 16, Burnie Stephens 12.5, Joe Brown 12.4 and Dave Kjos 12.2.

Dickey continues to add assists to his already established school record with the 6-0 freshman dishing out 148 assists in 11 games for an unheard of 13.5 average per game.

Fitts leads the team's rebounding charts with 163 caroms for an average of 14.8 boards a game. Stephens has totaled 139 rebounds for a 12.6 average and the 6-4 freshman center has also been credited with unusually high 28 blocked shots.

14 TRF Drivers Will Race In 1974 '500'

A total of 14 Thief River Falls drivers will be taking part in next week's 1974 international 500 mile snowmobile race, it was announced recently.

The 1974 race will start Tues., Jan. 22, and finish Thurs., Jan. 24. For the first time in the eight year history of the event, this year's race route will be reversed with drivers starting in St. Paul and finishing in Winnipeg to mark the start of the St. Paul winter carnival and the Winnipeg city centennial celebrations.

This year's race will feature overnight stops in Alexandria on Tues., Jan. 22, and in East Grand Forks on Wed., Jan. 23. The first driver is expected to cross the finish line in Winnipeg about midday Thurs., Jan. 24.

In shortening the race from the accustomed four days to just three days this year, race officials hope to intensify the action. In keeping with the nation's energy-saving efforts, officials will allow only the drivers with the first 100 best times on the first leg to Alexandria to run the second day's leg to East Grand Forks. The drivers with the first 50 best times to East Grand Forks will be allowed to race the final day to Winnipeg.

This year's total prize money has been increased from $32,700 to $35,000. The first place driver in this year's event will earn $10,000, compared to last year's top prize of $8,500.

Stan Hayes of Crandon, Wisconsin, is the defending race champion, winning last year's three day race in a time of eight hours, 12 minutes and 35 seconds on his Polaris. Last year's race was terminated after the third leg at Alexandria because of severe fog.

The list of Thief River Falls drivers who will be taking part in the 1974 international 500 includes Dave Thompson, Dale Risberg, Duane Lillevold, Ron Skime, Roger Graff, Donn Eide, Marv Ode, Larry Coltom, Roger Hible, Bill Benedict, Jerome Lund, Ken Halvorson, Charlie Lofton and Ed Mansueto.

To commemorate the memory of 1965-66 University of North Dakota hockey All American center Terry Casey, who died July 7, 1967, in a tragic auto crash in his native Montana, his hersey number 12 was retired at special ceremonies Feb. 2, 1968.

A first quarter Newfolden shooting barage carried the host Nordics to a 17-5 lead at the break. Middle River rallied to trim the difference to 24-19 at halftime and the Skippers climbed to within 32-28 late in the third quarter before Newfolden forward Tim Waterworth canned a pair of quick buckets to help boost the Nordics to a 40-28 advantage heading into the final quarter.

Newfolden shot 34 per cent from the field as the Nordics hit 26 of 77 attempts. Middle River shot only 27 per cent, making 16 of 61 tries. Newfolden sank three of five free throw chances while Middle River made four of eight. Newfolden held a 34-23 rebound advantage with Strandquist pulling down a team high 10 caroms.

Alvarado Trips Goodridge Quint By 63-61 Margin

Playing for the first time in nearly a month, Goodridge turned in a strong effort but fell prey to a highly regarded Alvarado quint 63-61 Tuesday night in a Polar Conference basketball game played in the Huskies' gym.

Coach Mike Borgman's Huskies held a slim 17-16 first quarter lead and Goodridge maintained a 33-31 advantage at halftime before the strong Indians moved to a 51-49 third quarter lead.

Free throws won the game for the visiting Alvarado quint as the Indians made 17 of [illegible] gift tosses compared to nine of 16 for the Huskies. "We committed a lot of foolish fouls," commented Borgman who watched his team slip to 4-4 for the year.

Gary Boman paced the Alvarado offense with 28 points while Bruce Kollin helped out with 10. Don Grabowska led the Huskies in scoring with 17 points, followed by Arden Hyland with 13, Tom Bendickson 12 and Howard Vigen with 10.

Goodridge shot 41 per cent from the field, making 26 of 63 tries, and the Huskies topped the rebound charts by a 35-32 margin.

Alvarado won the B squad game 40-35. Gary Satre and Rick Easthouse each scored 11 points for the Goodridge Bees.

Goodridge will be back in action Friday when the Huskies travel to Plummer for an 8 p.m. conference game.

Correction Made In Curling Club Information

An error in the article on the Thief River Falls curling club in last Wednesday's edition of the Times has been corrected by club officers.

The article stated that the curling club would be open to non-members on Saturdays at a one dollar fee. Actually, only curlers 18 years of age and under qualify for the special fee and curlers over that age must purchase club membership to participate.

Change in the procedure was made this year due to the addition of artificial ice, need for available non-league time for club use by members and anticipated increased membership this season.

Alvarado Trips Goodridge Quint By 63-61 Margin

Playing for the first time in nearly a month, Goodridge turned in a strong effort but fell prey to a highly regarded Alvarado quint 63-61 Tuesday night in a Polar Conference basketball game played in the Huskies' gym.

Coach Mike Borgman's Huskies held a slim 17-16 first quarter lead and Goodridge maintained a 33-31 advantage at halftime before the strong Indians moved to a 51-49 third quarter lead.

Free throws won the game for the visiting Alvarado quint as the Indians made 17 of 24 gift tosses compared to nine of 16 for the Huskies. "We committed a lot of foolish fouls," commented Borgman who watched his team slip to 4-4 for the year.

Gary Boman paced the Alvarado offense with 28 points while Bruce Kollin helped out with 10. Don Grabowska led the Huskies in scoring with 17 points, followed by Arden Hyland with 13, Tom Bendickson 12 and Howard Vigen with 10.

Goodridge shot 41 per cent from the field, making 26 of 63 tries, and the Huskies topped the rebound charts by a 35-32 margin.

Alvarado won the B squad game 40-35. Gary Satre and Rick Easthouse each scored 11 points for the Goodridge Bees.

Goodridge will be back in action Friday when the Huskies travel to Plummer for an 8 p.m. conference game.

Correction Made In Curling Club Information

An error in the article on the Thief River Falls curling club in last Wednesday's edition of the Times has been corrected by club officers.

The article stated that the curling club would be open to non-members on Saturdays at a one dollar fee. Actually, only curlers 18 years of age and under qualify for the special fee and curlers over that age must purchase club membership to participate.

Change in the procedure was made this year due to the addition of artificial ice, need for available non-league time for club use by members and anticipated increased membership this season.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume 63 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, January 16, 1974 Number 5

SHELTER BUILDING for the Viking snowmobile trail was under construction last week northwest of Thief River Falls. The shelter will be available to snowmobilers and the area around it is expected to be heavily used by enthusiasts of the winter sport. Trail construction is a cooperative venture by Pennington county and the state department of natural resources with local assistance from Arctic Enterprises, Inc.

Many Travel Ideas At St. Paul Show

Many facets of recreational camping and travel, from minimum outfitting for survival in harshest elements to all the luxury appointments of a spacious, modern motor home—and all the variations in between—will be featured at Cenaiko Productions' fourth annual Minnesota camping and vacation show, January 16-20, in the St. Paul civic center complex.

According to William Borry, president of the metropolitan recreational vehicle dealers association which sponsors the annual exposition, "over 150,000 square feet ofloor space will be devoted to a multitude of exhibits and displays including over 375 models of 1974 recreational vehicles and related camping gear."

Within the gigantic civic center complex, camping and vacation show visitors will also be able to study a variety of exhibits in the fields of tent camping, camp equipment and accessories, public and private campgrounds, and resort accomodations from throughout Minnesota, the U.S. and Canada.

Motor homes, trailer homes, truck campers and tent trailers of every variety will be on display and open for detailed public inspection. Visitors will be able to wend their way through scores of all-terrain vehicles, trail bikes, motorcycles and canoes—all ideally suited for campsite enjoyment in Minnesota's wilderness.

"With emphasis on the newest concepts in recreational camping and travel," Borry stated, "This year's show will offer another important dimension in leisure information—how best to survive the energy shortage." The whole problem of short gasoline and energy supplies presents the modern nomad with a unique and bewildering dilemma.

Although the nation's top energy policy advisor, William Simon, was recently quoted as saying "the suggested 10 gallons of gas limitation per driver will not apply to the vacationer," the need to conserve energy will remain vitally important. "To help in this national effort, exhibitors in the recreational vehicle industry will provide tips that can allow the average recreational vehicle vacationer to eliminate up to 80 per cent of his family's normal energy consumption," Borry said.

This savings can be achieved by several simple steps which amount to "turning off" the family's vacant home and "turning on" the motor home or tent trailer. Since the camper uses much less energy at camp than he would with his appliance-filled home he can greatly reduce his family's energy useage—even considering a limited amount of additional travel mileage.

For the devotee of the less mechanized camping vacation "Tent City" will provide a thorough overview of the latest in tent design, construction and materials. The variety will include models with screened "porches" big enough to accomodate large families as well as the smaller one-man tent designed for backpacking. There will be a great number of displays offering all types of camping gear including camp stoves, ice chests, portable toilets, back packs, safety gear, easy-to-prepare camp foods, and a myriad of other items designed to make camping trips easier, safer and more enjoyable.

Even the fully-equipped camping enthusiast will find something new and different during the five-day run of the show. Vacation resort and campground representatives from this country and Canada will be on hand to provide maps, photographs, informational brochures and other materials to assist the outdoor enthusiast in planning a vacation to the most remote woodland or the finest luxury resort.

Again this year, anglers will enjoy the opportunity to try their trout-fishing skills at the fully-stocked indoor trout tank. For 50 cents the fisherman is provided with rod, monofilament line and a variety of luring trout flies, to tempt his elusive prey for a full five minutes. The successful angler will take home his own freshly- caught trout dinner—providing those big ones don't get away.

Many other entertaining and educational exhibits dealing with outdoor survival, cooking, equipment and educational exhibits dealing with outdoor survival, cooking, equipment outfitting and camping movies will be displayed during the five day run of the show. Doors will be open from 5 to 11 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, (January 16-18), noon to 11 p.m. on Saturday, and noon to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Admission prices throughout the show will be $1.50 for adults, $1 for juniors under 18, 50 cents for children under 12, and free admission for pre-schoolers under six years old. The admission price will include an hour long state show, featuring five headliner attractions, which will be highlighted by Judy Johnson's breath-taking 50 foot plunge that ends in a flat-back landing on a large sponge. The other acts include Billy ThunderKloud and the Chieftones, a North American Indian quartet of national renown; the Jumping Jacks championship trampoline duo; the comedy, song and dance team known as the Wallace Brothers; and Feller Boys and Dodo, an entertaining and original comedy act.

The state show will be presented at 9 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, twice on Saturday at 3:30 and 9 p.m., and twice on Sunday at 3:30 and 7 p.m.

Two Lice Types Said On Upsurge In Minnesota

Head and crab lice are staging an upsurge in Minnesota as they are in much of the rest of the nation, according to state helath commissioner Dr. Warren Lawson. While infestation with human lice is a nuisance rather than an illness, the experience can be very distressing to a victim.

Head lice are tiny parasites which lie close to the scalp and lay tiny white eggs (called nits) which they glue to the hair shaft. Nits are most often found in the hair behind the ears and the back of the head and neck. Nits should not be confused with dandruff. Dandruff can be easily flicked off a hair, but nits stick to the hair shaft. Crab or pubic lice are related to head lice but are usually found in the genital area. The nits of crab lice appear as oval, brownish, transparent objects of very small size. (Humans can also get a third type of lice—body lice—but this insect is uncommon in Minnesota.)

Lice feed on human blood and can cause extremely uncomfortable itching. Repeated scratching can lead to infection in some cases. Lice are spread through personal contact. It is not unusual for a child who has head lice to spread them to schoolmates or to other members of the family. Crab lice are spread usually, but not always, through sexual contact. Prevention is primarily a matter of personal cleanliness.

A person who suspects lice would be well advised to call a physician. In the case of children, the parent might want to ask the school nurse to check the child. Special products to combat lice, sometimes in shampoo form, can be purchased at any pharmacy. (But just using an ordinary shampoo will not handle the problem.)

Nits remaining after treatment can be removed with a fine tooth comb. Contaminated clothing, towels and bedding should be routinely laundered, dry cleaned or pressed with a hot steam iron to destroy nits.

Vaccine Used To Treat Cancer Is Tested At U of M

A tuberculosis vaccine used experimentally to treat cancer, BCG, is being analyzed by a University of Minnesota biochemist.

Dr. Gary Gray, assistant professor in the chemistry department, has received a $91-700 three-year grant from the national cancer institute (NCI) to determine the antitumor active components in BCG cell walls.

BCG (bacillus Calmette-Guerin) is a strain of tuberculosis bacteria that causes tuberculosis in cattle but is used as a vaccine in man. Because BCG somehow stimulates the human body's immune system, physician-researchers at University of Minnesota hospitals and elsewhere are hopeful the vaccine will cause the bodies of cancer patients to fight the cancer as they would a bacterial infection.

Gray will be collaborating with Dr. Edgar E. Ribi of the national insititute of allergy and infectious diseases Rocky Mountain laboratory in Hamilton, Mt.

Ribi, an early BCG pioneer, has developed a unique instrument to obtain the cell walls which contain the protective antigens.

In animal experiements Ribi, along with NCI researchers Dr. Berton Zbar and Dr. Herbert J. Rapp, have found that BCG cell walls cause established tumors to regress. Furthermore the cell-wall vaccine caused immunity to spread from the tumor site throughout the animal's body.

Using the BCG cell walls supplied by Ribi, Gray will be examining and chemically characterizing the cell wall components; identifying those components responsible for producing the immune response, and finding a way to isolate those active components.

Because BCG bacteria is not easily grown, Gray said he hopes his work will lead eventually to the development of a synthetic preparation without the adverse effects of the BCG vaccine now used.

Roughrider Unit From This Area Formed By Army

Thirty-seven young men from North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota were sworn into the army as members of a special unit on January 8 in Fargo. The swearing-in, attended by Senator Quentin Burdick of North Dakota and Congressman Bob Bergland of Minnesota, followed a noon luncheon held at the Townhouse Motor Inn in Fargo.

Major General James F. Hamlet, the commanding general of Fort Carson, Colo., administered the oath of enlistment to the members of the Minn-Kota Roughriders, a platoon-size unit that will be stationed at Fort Carson for a minimum of 16 months beginning in April of 1974.

Following the swearing-in, congratulations were offered by the distinguished guests, and letters from governors Arthur Link and Wendell Anderson were read by representatives from the two states.

After the ceremony, the Roughriders boarded a Northwest Airlines jet at Hector field and were flown to Fort Ord, Calif., where they will receive basic training. A representative of Fort Carson, Staff Sargeant Morris L. Wyent Jr., flew to Fort Ord with the group and will act as the group's Fort Carson liaison non-commissioned officer while the Roughriders go through basic training.

After basic training, the Roughriders will split up and move to various Army training centers across the nation for advanced individual training in the military jobs guaranteed to them before they enlisted.

In April, the Roughriders will reassemble at Fort Carson, where most of the group will be assigned to the 1st (Raider) Brigade in Fort Carson's 4th Infantry Division.

Recruiting for the Roughrider unit began in October under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel James L. Killette, commanding officer of the U. S. army recruiting main station in Fargo. Lt. Col. Killette is responsible for army recruiting throughout North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota.

The Minn-Kota Roughriders, made up of 25 North Dakotans and 12 Minnesotans, is the most recent of regional units recruited especially for Fort Carson. Other such units—or platoons—stationed at Fort Carson include the "Hodag" platoon from Rhinelander, Wis., the "Dolphin" platoon from Miami, Fla., and the "Green Mountain Boys", a small unit of volunteers from Rutland, Vt.

According to General Hamlet, Fort Carson's experience with regional units has shown that men from the same geographical area train and perform better, and have fewer disciplinary problems when they serve together as a unit.

PURINA ACCURATION

I've just returned from a few days in the Dakotas— I wanted to see how the consumption on Accuration was running in this 20 degree-below-zero weather the past few weeks and since the cows were put on Accuration from this Fall.... Boys—This product, Accuration, has really made a "Believer Out of Me"....I wish every cow-man who isn't feeding Accuration could have been with me, talking with the Ranchers who represented some 3,000 cows....

SOME COMMENTS FROM THE RANCHERS I VISITED

"I got a couple Palmer Self Feeders (8 footers) with Accuration H. L. for some 250 cows-- All my cows have gotten is oat straw and Accuration H. L. and they have been averaging 2 lbs. of H. L. since I started feeding the first part of Dec. I haven't fed any hay yet...May put some hay out in a few weeks. They look real good and on this program, I'll winter cheaper than I've ever done."

"I've got 8 of those 8-footers out with Accuration-- Run around 500 head of cattle on them (cows, heifers, bulls, and some steers)...I feed corn silage (average100 bu. off irrigated land) and alfalfa-brome hay."

Answer: "I feed the H. L. and it averages from 1½ to 2½ a day."
Question: "How come you feed Accuration with all this quality roughage of good corn silage and alfalfa-brome hay to your 500 herd?"
Answer: "I fed Accuration to winter my cows last year and I "Flushed with it too", and here is a number of reasons:" (Without exception these given reasons were the same reasons every rancher we talked to would tell us why he fed it and how it helped his operation.)

1. They bred back real good.
2. Got most of the cows bred in 60 days.
3. My cows tell me that they did a whole lot better by feeding Accuration along with corn silage and hay in the winter.
4. Accuration helps me cut down on the roughage I feed.. I think I save 1/3 less on roughage feeding Accuration at 1½ to 2½ this winter.
5. It is cheaper all the way around by feeding Accuration.
6. Every cow or heifer can go up to that Self-Feeder when she wants to and get what she needs in nutritional needs--When you "Cake-'em"-- The Boss cows take over and so often the ones who need it, don't get to eat cakes.
7. The calves were stronger--they got up right away--so did the cows.
8. The cows milked better.
9. I'll feed Accuration in these Self-Feeders this summer on Grass and run maybe 1/3 more cows on the same grass for about 3 to 4 lbs. of Accuration per cow per day.. That is the cheapest feed cost for beef gains a cow-man can invest in.
10. I like Accuration a lot better than any other feed I've used. There is considerable more feed value in Accuration on a pound for pound basis,so it is cheaper on a dry matter basis of value. And with the Purina Dealer keeping the self-feeders full at all times--I've got a lot less work. I thought with this cold weather that my cows would "Eat me out of house and home" but I'll throw out a little more hay and they hold in there at about 1 1/2 lbs. of H. L. and are looking real good.

YOU CAN TALK TO ANY COW-MAN AND BRING OUT THE 10 ABOVE REASONS GIVEN BY THESE DAKOTA RANCHERS REPRESENTING OVER 3,000 COWS THAT I VISITED THIS PAST WEEK--AND YOU WILL HAVE THE SAME CONVICTION THOSE RANCHERS HAVE THAT ACCURATION IS "THE BEST THERE IS".

MIRACLE WATER

Marvin Carlson

The spine tailed swift bird is believed capable of moving faster than any other creature. Specimens clocked across a measured course have been credited with speeds up to 220 mph. Peregrine falcons swooping toward prey, attain top speed of at least 175 mph, while racing pigeons probably exceed 100 mph in short bursts. Many migrating ducks average 60 mph over long distances. Small birds seldom exceed 30 mph.

Would you like to fly through your cleaning chores and have time to pursue your favorite hobby or pleasure? You can with Refined Water. You will have fresh, clean Refined Water everyday of the week keeping top water spots off the counters and dishes, as well as sinks, cabinets, and everywhere in your home. Now we are four. Our family has assumed a new dimension. Molly has a brother, and we have a son.

There is new richness and happiness in our lives, but there is also new responsibility. Sure, we'll need to keep that "roof over the head," but there's much more to being a parent than that. Sometimes, when you look at the headlines in the paper, you get scared. As these kids grow up, can you face "the new moralities," the endless changes?

No—not alone. But you have the strongest ally in history to help you: the Church. In case you haven't noticed, the Church has been keeping pace with change.

Why not start next Sunday—and bring yourself up to date?

Making Cheese At Home Can Be Good Experience

Home cheese making can be fun, but despite claims by hobby kit manufacturers, it is not as safe or foolproof as the current winemaking craze, says Edmund A. Zottola, extension food microbiologist at the University of Minnesota.

"Poorly made wine usually results in vinegar, but a poorly made cheese may result in a good case of food poisoning," Zottola says. "Grapes and other fruits contain acids that prevent the growth of pathogenic bacteria, but the milk for cheese is neutral and nutritious, allowing almost any type of microorganism to grow."

Zottola urges caution and cleanliness whether the cheesemaking is done from a hobby kit or with other equipment. Bacteria from an infected cut, pimple or skin infection can contaminate homemade cheese, and dirty utensils also can make the final product unsafe.

Soft, unaged cheese are easiest to make, and Zottola advises the home cheesemaker to begin with these. Once he is familar with the steps in cheesemaking, he can attempt hard cheeses such as cheddar and colby that require lengthy aging under strictly controlled temperature and moisture conditions.

He suggests Latin American white cheese (caso blanco), cottage cheese or farmers cheese for beginners. Two booklets are available from county agents or from the Bulletin Room at the University of Minnesota, St. Paul, that offer tips and recipes for several types of cheese. They are "Making Soft Cheese at Home," Extension Folder 189, and "Making Cottage Cheese at Home," Home and Garden Bulletin 129.

In cheesemaking milk sugar (lactose) is converted to lactic acid by bacteria in the milk. Always use pasteurized milk, Zottola says, but because pasteurization destroys lactic acid bacteria, it must be restored, usually by adding salt-free cultured buttermilk or yogurt. Saled buttermilk inhibits the important lactic acid bacterial growth.

Buttermilk and yogurt are cultured dairy products that contain lactic acid bacteria needed in the home cheesemaking process. Most cheeses require the addition of rennet, a setting agent that speeds curdling and is available at drug stores in tablet form. The home cheesemaker also will need a good stainless steel dial thermometer with a 30 to 150 degree F. temperature range, two pots that fit together to make a double boiler, and cheese cloth.

Zottola offers this procedure for making white cheese (caso blanco):

(1) To a gallon of pasteurized milk, add ½ cup fresh buttermilk or ¼ cup yogurt. Stir and heat slowly in a double boiler to 92 - 94 degrees F. Maintain this temperature through steps two and three. (Homogenized milk produces a weaker curd cheese, but it is usable. Cream-top whole milk is preferable where available)

(2) Add ½ rennet tablet dissolved in cold water. Stir for two to three minutes. Then allow to set for 20 to 30 minutes until a firm gel forms.

(3) Cut the gel into pieces about an inch square. Stir gently for 20 to 30 minutes until the curd "heals" or becomes firmer.

(4) Pour off or dip out the yellow liquid (whey). Mix three teaspoons of salt into the curd in three portions five minutes apart. (one teaspoon, three times)

(5) Punch holes in the bottoms and sides of two or three small tin cans or two one-pound coffee cans. Line the cans with cheese cloth.

(6) Place the salted curd into the lined cans and apply pressure by adding weight to the top of the curd.

(7) Continue pressing until cheese surface is smooth and considerable whey has drained into a sink. (two to eight hours)

(8) When pressed sufficiently, remove from cans, wrap in plastic and refrigerate. Can be used immediately.

Zottola says this cheese procedure will yield about 20 ounces of cheese from a gallon of milk. Hard, drier cheeses are made from milk that weighed about ten times what the cheese does. A gallon of milk (8.4 pounds) produces about a pound of soft cheese or less than a pound of colby or cheddar cheese.

Homemade cheese is not cheap to produce, Zottola says. Caso blanco made from his recipe will cost the cheesemaker about $1.25 a pound to produce. "But it's the fun of making the cheese, rather than its economy that attracts people to cheesemaking," Zottola says.

Leave Winter Driving To The Most Experienced

A National Safety council spokesman had a few comments recently about an important generation gap that may crop up this winter in many households—Who'll be the better winter driver, Dad or the teen-age driver education student?

The percentages may be in favor of the teen-age driver education student, according to Donald C. Lhotka, manager of the NSC traffic department, especially if the young driver's teacher has had firsthand experience in controlling skids during the winter and emergency driving workshops held annually at Stevens Point, Wis.

Conducted by the NSC committee on winter driving hazards, the winter workshops provide a rare opportunity for driver educators—at both the high school and college teacher levels—to develop special handling techniques required on slippery pavements. The goal is to have this special training passed on to high school driver education students.

So that the older generation won't appear to be complete squares, Lhotka passed on six common-sense tips for safer winter driving developed by the NSC skid-testors:

(1) Get the "feel" of the road by accelerating carefully to see if wheels spin; or brake gently to see if they skid. Reduce speed accordingly.

(2) "Pump" your brakes to slow or stop—don't jam them on. An intermittent pumping action (three to five times per second) keeps wheels rolling and helps maintain steering control.

(3) Increase following distances on ice or snow. It takes three to nine times as far to stop on snow or ice as on dry pavement.

(4) Keep your windshield and windows clear at all times. Replace streaking wiper blades gone dead from exposure to sun, wind and oily road film. Be sure that your windshield washer solution contains adequate antifreeze.

(5) Equip your car with good tires with good treads. Better yet, use snow tires which provide half again as much pulling power in snow as regular tires. Studded snow tires, where legal, offer help on icy surfaces.

(6) Always carry reinforced tire chains in the trunk of your car for use during severe snow and ice conditions. They provide four to seven times as much traction on snow or ice as regular tires.

Lhotka explained that the driver education workshops have been an outgrowth of the annual test projects sponsored by the committee on winter driving hazards for more than 25 years. As part of the test programs, the committee has evaluated the performance of drivers, vehicles and equipment under a wide range of slippery and emergency conditions.

"Whether the driver learns about the recommended techniques through a driver education course, or through our public safety education channels is not important," Lhotka concluded.

Learn we must, he warned, for there's no place on a winter-slick road for a "generation gap" in any driver's ability to survive under the most adverse winter conditions.

Two Local Men Enlist In Navy On Buddy Plan

Gary Johnson

Richard Johnson

They reported to San Diego, Calif., on Jan. 2 where they are attending the navy's indoctrination course at the recruit training center. Their "boot camp" training will be followed by an intensive period of apprentice training in the field of mechanics. They will then be granted 15 days of leave before reporting to a ship of the Pacific fleet.

Ben Siebels of the Thief River Falls navy recuriting station reports that Gary and Richard have enlisted in the Navy's popular "Seafarer" enlistment program's buddy plan option which guarantees applicants who enlist together that they will train together at boot camp and that they'll be stationed together on the same ship or shore station when they graduate from boot camp.

Gully . . .

Mrs. Peter Rutkowski
Gully, 268-2845

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Agnes are the parents of a baby boy born January 3. He weighed 7 lbs. 6½ oz. and was 20 inches long. He will be named James LeRoy. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Emma Agnes. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pladsen.

While I was in the Cities I read an article in the editorial section of the St. Paul Dispatch, stating that every village official in Minnesota will get a promotion on January 1. That is the day all communities without home rule charters including such metroplises as Clontorf and Gully become statutory cities. This change was brought forth by 1973 legislature. It could create some problems during tansition as villages with large stocks of letter heads, forms or street signs should be replaced such as in "Gully City Limits". One mayor in a small village said, it doesn't cost much to pass a law but signs are expensive . But I guess this won't affect us much here.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Handy spent 13 days during the holidays with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Handy and girls at Washington D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thorsen accompanied by Mr.and Mrs. Victor Thorsen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thorsen went to Grand Forks Friday to attend the funeral for Nick Shabert. He was the husband of the former Selma Thorsen. Selma is a cousin of the Thorsens.

Thought For The Day

A father once told his son, "You may have the farm at no cost to yourself. The only condition you must meet is that you, alone, must farm it." The son had no heart for farming, so he turned down his father's generous offer.

We, too, may have the kingdom of God for nothing. It is the Almighty God's good pleasure to offer it to us. But like the farmer's son, we can only have it when we occupy it, work with it and assume the responsibilities that come with the gift. If we are to be part of the kingdom, we cannot be absentee landlords.

Tragically, not all people want the inheritance offered to them, for the honor is too great, the responsibilities too exacting. They have no heart for God's wonderful offer.

People who have accepted sonship have embarked on experiences so exciting and absorbing that they scarcely notice anything they may have left behind. Let God take your life and lead you where He will.

Farmers Lead The Way

Printing Impressions Magazine, in an article in its December issue, quoted President Woodrow Wilson as saying on Aug. 25, 1919: "Better standards of living are impossible without producing more. Men cannot consume what has not been produced."

The magazine article then continues: "We recognize that today's operational growth is generated through higher productivity and that it is this very growth which admits more workers into the labor force and provides interesting and even better opportunities.

"Take, for example, agriculture, which has continually reduced the ratio of farm workers to those in the United States work force. This reduction allows people more money to spend for other services and products and, inturn those service and manufacturing companies are able to hire additional workers for other jobs. Working at restricted levels of productivity to help other people is purely a myth.

"In 1920, 72 per cent of our labor force was engaged in agriculture. By 1960 only seven per cent was thus employed, and now the figure is 4.4 per cent. But in 1971 our food exports were worth $2 billion more than our imports. In spite of our daily complaints with respect to higher food prices, we pay less for food than do peoples of other nations.

"Why? Because of the tremendous strides made in agriculture productivity by the American farmers, scientific soil conservationists, bacteriologists, entomologists, farm equipment manufacturers, farm economists at the universities, and others.

"According to the Department of Labor Statistics, the percentage of workers engaged in agriculture in the United States as compared with other countries and their work forces are: United States, 4.4 per cent; Canada, 6.9 per cent; Germany, 8.4 per cent; France, 13.4 per cent; Japan, 14.5 per cent, and Russia, 31 per cent.

"What has been done in agriculture by over-all effort and cooperation for the common good must be done in all industries in the best interests of the people."

Consumers Get Stuck

Motherism of the federal government for the poor preyed upon "consumer" becomes almost stifling at times, to the degree that we are about to ask to be protected from our protectors. Arch Booth of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States tells it like it is with a story about a sticky situation:

Federal consumer product safety commission has ordered recall of a particular type of super-glue, a "cyanoacryloic" by chemical name.

The glue, it seems, sticks too well. Richard O. Simpson, chairman of the commission, was quoted in a wire-service story as saying, "It's a good, all-purpose glue. The problem is maybe it's too good."

For those who think sticking is what a glue should do, a word of amplification: Consumers union, a private organization, complained to the commission that some users of the glue are getting stuck up. Seriously.

The commission says a preliminary check also disclosed that at least two brands of the glue failed to warn users of possible eye irritation. That, to me, is a much more reasonable complaint, if true, than making an allegation that the product works too well.

The glue is being recalled under a quaint provision of the commission's statutory authority which authorizes a hanging first, then a fair trial. After the recall, the commission will hold a public hearing.

Pity the poor glue manufacturers. If they produce an inferior product, the federal trade commission will be down on them. And if they produce a superior product, they run afoul of the product safety commission. A very sticky situation.

I wonder if the commission will come up with a formula specifying exactly how bad a glue must be before the government will certify it as "good." Probably not. More fun to let the businessman try to figure it out for himself, then tell him he's wrong.

Where will it all end: As I mentioned in an earlier column, the commission also seems interested in documenting the fact that knives can cut people.

Remember those plastic "safety" scissors we had to use in elementary school...the ones that couldn't cut you, or much of anything else, either? I won't say it couldn't happen.

The possibilities are intriguing.

How about a regulation requiring boiling water to be hot enough to cook food, but not hot enough to burn the user if spilled?

Or matches that ignite (sometimes) only if we simultaneously push down and twist as we move the head over the striker pad?

I have no quarrel with the principle that consumers deserve adequate warning of all product hazards that are not self-evident (i.e., I don't belive it should be necessary to point out that knives can cut the user.)

But what we are dealing with in the glue purge is quite another principle: That all consumers should be forbidden access to a useful product because some consumers may misuse it. In other words, we will all be limited to the level of the lowest common denominator. That's "Big Motherism" in the extreme.

Getting one's fingers stuck together temporarily—which seems to be what Consumers union is exercised about—may be damaging to the consumer's dignity, although it hardly seems a sufficient threat to life and limb to justify banning a product.

But then, if memory serves me correctly, it was the product safety commission that solemnly denounced the tricycle, not long ago, as unsafe at any speed.

I wonder if they'll let us have visitors on Sundays?

No Gun Law Works

Following editorial is from the National Rifle association and makes a clear point which many politicians and others seem to have great difficulty in understanding:

The season is upon us when serious men of thoughtful mien will arise in the Congress of the United States and solemnly suggest that their words, if enacted into law, can by some kind of official magic slow down the shooting of their fellow Americans with firearms. Sitting among them, though not necessarily agreeing with them, will be U.S. Sen. John Stennis, of Mississippi, recently recovered from two bullet wounds inflicted in a Washington, D.C., street holdup.

What the pass-a-law gentlemen in Congress should realize or recognize was amply demonstrated in the Stennis case. According to facts brught out in the trail of his assailants, Federal gun control laws were violated no fewer than NINE times BEFORE Sen. Stennis was shot with the cheap RG cal. .22 revolver involved. The shooting itself violated Federal laws several timesmore. But that did not deter the attackers from committing another holdup with the same gun only five blocks away only 35 minutes later.

For the record, the revolver used was first purchased legitimately in LaGrange, Ga., from a licensed dealer by a resident of Georgia. Then it went "underground." In a series of Federal gun control violations, it changed hands several times. Finally, it was brought out in court, it passed into the hands of the Stennis holdup men for $45—in clear violation of the District of Columbia's stiff gun control laws.

So how much good did gun laws do in this case? Exactly none. For it must be remembered and repeated that no law can stop law violators. If they are professional criminals, breaking the law is their regular business. The problem is to put the criminals out of business. That would be something to talk about.

Interesting Opinions

"And man created the plastic bag and aluminum can and the cellophane wrapper and the paper plate, and this was good because man could then take his automobile and buy all his food in one place and he could save that which was good to eat in the refrigerator and throw away that which had no further use. And soon the earth was covered with plastic bags and aluminum cans and paper plates and disposable bottles and there was nowhere to sit down or walk, and man shook his head and cried: 'Look at this Godawful mess'."

notes from the governor

The reconvening of the Minnesota Legislature this week provides an opportune time for discussion of the priority needs facing our state.

On Tuesday members of the State House and Senate opened the 1974 portion of the state's 68th legislative session. In my State of the State address to the legislators, I outlined the concerns I believe we must deal with in the coming weeks.

First priority, quite clearly, must be given to the critical energy supply problems facing our citizens, our communities and our businesses.

While it may be tempting to spend time debating who is to blame for the current energy crisis, that is not what state government must do at this time.

Several pieces of legislation are ready for action in this field, including bills to create a new State Department of Energy and lower speed limits to a maximum of 55 miles an hour.

In these and other energy measures are enacted, state government will be in a much stronger position to protect our people and our economy in the short run, and to maintain a high quality of life in the longer run.

In addition to energy legislation, a very high priority must be assigned to the campaign finance, disclosure and ethics bill now pending before committees in both houses.

In my 1973 State of the State message, I called for enactment of a tough, practical and enforceable law that would provide for full disclosure of campaign contributions and partial public financing of election campaigns through a voluntary one-dollar checkoff on the state income tax.

The events of the past year, more dramatically than anything a governor can say or do, make clear the urgent need for high and uniform standards in this entire field.

While this is a complex and difficult area, I am confident that a good, strong bill can be passed.

My other top priorities include passage of a no-fault auto insurance bill and enactment of a major housing rehabilitation loan and grant program.

I know many other matters will be considered in the coming weeks, but the foregoing constitute my major legislative concerns. I am confident the session will be a productive session, one that will justify public confidence in our democratic process.

Furnace repair or replacement. Top operating furnaces heat more efficiently. Newer models can recover 50% of waste heat in fuel.
Drapes and shades. Glass windows lose heat about 14 times faster than plaster walls. Drapes and shades over windows reduce this loss significantly.
Insulation. Proper insulation of ceilings and walls can cut heating costs up to 36%, save a corresponding amount of fuel.
Carpeting. Quality carpeting is more than a luxury. Its insulating properties can reduce fuel needs. And cut fuel costs 13%.
Roofing. On a hot day, a white roof is about 30° cooler than a dark roof. Energy money can be saved on air conditioner use.
Humidifiers. You can cut heat bills up to 20% and be comfortable at lower temperatures when rooms are adequately humidified.
New windows and doors. Double-glazed windows, tight doors help stop the 40% heat loss leaky units can account for.
Ventilating fans. A good vent fan can reduce attic temperatures by 35°, and take that load off air conditioning equipment.
Temperature controls. New thermostats automatically reduce nighttime indoor temperatures, can help cut heat bills 11%.
New siding. A home's resistance to exterior cold and heat can be improved with new vinyl-clad, aluminum or wood siding.
Your ideas, too. Repair a foundation? Install a snug garage door? What other energy-saving ideas are on your mind?

The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

As the news media concentrates on Watergate and the destruction of a President, Congress goes forward with its leftward plunge. The United States, the land of the free and the home of the brave, faces the swift creation of a colossal planned economy. It will be in the name of emergency need, of course, and the goals will sound very wonderful. The truth of the matter is not great and wonderful when the price in freedom and money is considered, but no one seems to be too concerned. As I'm writing this, the market report indicated the price of beef down from a month ago. Those who advocated strict price controls on beef to protect the poor man seem to have forgotten all they should have learned. These same congressmen are now ready this year to push government control into health care, day care centers, food prices, fuel production, fuel consumption, education, travel and anything one might have the time to worry about.

The fuel crisis while possibly a healthy scare is actually a government created crisis. For over 20 years people in Congress have known about the impending fuel problems. In spite of this, according to Congressman Steven Symms (R. Idaho), Congress moved to virtually eliminate all coal mining on public lands. He also noted that government at the insistance of ecologists has curtailed the exploration of oil deposits off the Eastern sea coast. This same attitude resulted in stopping the production of oil off the California coast. The ecologist was largely responsible through the power of a liberal vote seeking Congress to stop the production of electric power by burning goal in many places. The switch to fuel oil from coal at power plants naturally added to a petroleum crisis. It is reasonable then to say that our fuel crisis today is for the most part the result of government meddling into areas such as ecology. These programs of control that sounded politically popular, but which actually had not been though through before the controls were imposed were the specific reasons for our fuel crisis.

A recent report indicated that the voluntary cut back by the American people has resulted in about 15 per cent reduction in fuel consumption. This is enough to compensate for what was lost by the action of our Arab source of supply.

Well meaning people have told me that what we need is gas rationing. I believe that Congress is thinking the same way, but I hope they don't impose rationing. The prices on the black market will be very high and hurt the poor man just as much as leaving the price to find its own level. The same powerful forces of supply and demand will keep gasoline prices in line if we are patient enough to let these forces do the job. In the mean time to create another government bureau for gas rationing is not going to solve anything.

While it is important to keep our environment clean, it is also important to be warm and fed. Problems always come after government meddling into the natural forces of survival. It is my opinion that the intelligence and the common sense of 200 million Americans is great enough to keep our Country on top of things. The less bungling help we get from Washington, the better we all will be. Let's remember that the next time a politician wants to help us with our problems.

Under the title, "An act of Hypocrisy", James Kilpatrick recently wrote about the repeal of the Byrd amendment, or the Rhodesian chrome amendment. I have looked through all the recent daily papers and most of the weekly reviews, but have found nothing concerning this important and startling legislation. In itself the matter is not so important, but its implications are many. It reflects a dangerous philosophy which in this case dominated the U.S. Senate by a vote of 54-37 on Dec. 18, 1973.

The repeal of the Byrd amendment means that from now on the U.S. is not to buy any chrome ore, vital to our defense industry, from Rhodesia. It must now buy it from Russia at twice the price.

Senator Humphrey, D. Minn., as one of the moving forces for passage of the repeal, gave two reasons that I think should be mentioned. His prime reason was that Rhodesia discriminated against blacks and because our country must stand for individual liberty, it should not buy chrome ore from them.

This statement seems a little peculiar for several reasons: In the first place I have conflicting reports about the discrimination of blacks in Rhodesia. It is reported by some periodicals that Rhodesia gives blacks the opportunity to earn the right to hold public office, run businesses, and generally participate as first class citizens just as the white do. This may not be true, but I have read or heard of no terrorism directed towards the blacks in Rhodesia.

Even if it were true, this argument is not sound because Russia continues to disregard individual liberty. Front page reports are seen daily even in our liberal press documenting Russian police repression of civil rights to even its own citizens. Torture of Christians in Soviet prison camps and hospitals for the insane continues.

Last week I heard of a Baptist minister sentenced to a second term of 25 years in a forced labor camp and his only crime was preaching the good news of the Gospel. Now since we must buy our chrome ore from Russia, the only other source, it seems a little strange that we are willing to pay Russia twice as much as we pay Rhodesia.

Senator Humphrey's second reason is more serious than the first. He was quoted as saying that since the sanctions against Rhodesia had been imposed by the United Nations Security council, the United States must consider it binding. He said also that once that council acts, its resolution "has the same standing as a provision of our Constitution. It is the supreme law of the land." In other words a group in the UN which is anti-American and pro-Communist can make resolutions and our country should abide by them!

I believe that although it may be politically attractive to some militant black groups in our country, this type of legislation is, to put it mildly, not in the best interests of our country. It is part of a general attitude that we should go international in our thinking. To do this we should reduce our power and authority so there can be universal peace and harmony. If we were dealing with honest saints, this might be possible, but history does not agree with this view and neither do I.

Northland CC To Present 'Carnival'

Northland community college will present its second annual musical production, "Carnival", February 5 through 9 at 8 p.m., February 10 at 2 p.m. in the Northland community college theatre and February 14 in the Roseau high school auditorium at 8 p.m. All seats will be reserved and tickets go on sale today (Monday) at the college.

"Carnival" was the winner of the New York drama critics' Circle award as the best musical of the 1960-61 season. The story captures the spirit and mood of the carnival people, making it a show for the entire family. The story centers around the lonely orphan, Lili, from the little town of Mira, who is drawn by the magic of the carnival and its colorful figures, the clowns, dancers, the magic of Marco the Magnificent, the circus parades, the glamorous harem girls, Olga the snake charmer, and the puppets, operated by Paul Berthaley and Jacquot. Lili becomes the pawn in a rivalry for her affections between Marco the Magnificent, who dazzles her with his magic tricks, and Paul, a puppeteer with a lame leg, whose shyness prevents him from expressing his feelings for Lili.

Music director for the production is Les Torgerson and Roger Vaughn is technical director. Deb Penning will play the lead as Lili. Other characters include: Marco the Magnificent (Played by Bruce Ueland), Rosalie (Heidi Bornholdt), Paul

District 31 one-act play contest will be held Saturday at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, according to Everett Marshall, director. Six schools in the district—Thief River Falls, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Warren, Red Lake Falls and Oslo—will each enter a play in the contest.

Starting time of plays to be presented during the day will be 9 a.m., 9:45 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 11:15 a.m., 1:15 p.m. and 2 p.m., Marshall said. The public is invited to attend free of charge but will not be permitted to enter the auditorium while a play is in progress.

Marshall said that names of plays being perfomed by each school and order of performance are not being announced prior to the contest because judges are not supposed to be aware of which group is performing. Awards will be presented at the conclusion of the judging at approximately 2:30 p.m.

Lincoln will also host the Region 8 contest to be held Thursday, January 31, beginning at 7 p.m. Winning plays from Districts 29, 30, 31 and 32 will be presented in that contest.

INSTRUCTOR in chemistry, biology and life and physical science at Lincoln senior high school, Lawrence J. Brown has been selected as Thief River Falls Teacher of the Year. He will be entered in competition for Minnesota Teacher of the Year honors in the event sponsored by the Minnesota Education association and the Minnesota state fair.

Chairman of the committee is Rep. Jerald Anderson of North Branch. Selected school administrators from throughout the state who are experienced in school finance have been asked to testify at the hearing.

Cattlemen Hear Information On Beef Handling

Area cattlemen numbering about 100 were given a review of beef cow handling equipment and housing Thursday afternoon at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Donald Bates, extension engineer from the University of Minnesota, was the guest speaker.

Various alternatives for wintering of beef cattle in the cold northern Minnesota climate were covered in Bates' talk. Cold housing unit designed as a shell to keep rain and snow off the ground and protect animals from the wind was one method discussed. Another was the use of only a shelterbelt of trees or a windbreak fence to reduce wind chill for beef cows being kept outside over winter.

Considerable interest was shown by cattlemen in a model corral and loading chute which Bates used to illustrate his talk on livestock handling. Slides were also shown of various handling procedures for movement or positioning of cattle where the producer wants them.

Developing or improving existing handling equipment would enable producers to more efficiently and effectively follow management practices considered routine in successful cattle operations. Bates emphasized that good, workable facilities help a cattleman do a better job with the least effort and smallest potential for injury to either cattle or producer.

Following the formal presentation, cattlemen studied the corral model and discussed beef operations among themselves. Attendance at the meeting was several times the number initially anticipated, according to Wayne Odegaard, assistant extension agent in charge of the meeting.

School Board To Hear Reports At Meeting Tonight

Reports from elementary principals William Desrocher and Richard Sauer and a report on athletics in the middle school by Dr. Milton Hoff will be presented tonight (Monday) when the Thief River Falls board of education meets at 8 p.m. in the Knox elementary school. Persons planning to attend the public board meeting are asked to note the change from normal meeting place.

Other items on the agenda include reimbursement of hockey season ticket holders for games lost during the Christmas holidays, discussion of proposed changes in athletic admission prices and other routine items of business.

The meeting is being held at Knox in keeping with board practice of holding at least one meeting a year in each school in the district. Main board business is transacted on the first Monday of each month at the district service center. Meetings on the third Monday of the month are designed to be study and report sessions as well as permitting the transaction of regular business.

First Meeting Of Small Business Program Is Held

First meeting of the small business management program offered through the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute was held January 8, according to instructor Don Jonson in a report to the Thief River Falls board of education and AVTI director Arnt Aune.

Communities represented in the initial group are Thief River Falls, Karlstad, Greenbush, Newfolden, Middle River, Crookston, Warren, Red Lake Falls, Grygla and Goodridge, Jonson's report states.

Types of business represented include meat markets, hardware stores, drug store, implement dealer, gas station and repair service, body shop, food drive-in, trucking firm, paint and glass store, radio and television sales and repair, electronics repair and machine shop.

"The over-all response of the businessmen at this point is one of excellent acceptance of the program," Jonson said. "I feel very optimistic at this point that in time to come this program will be very rewarding to both the participants and the school."

The first class session for the 20 businesses enrolled was devoted to an introduction to the course and stimulating interest in the total program, Jonson added. The instructor spent the week of November 26 at an in-service briefing session at the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota. Instructors from the other two schools involved in the pilot program were also in attendance.

Benedict Rides For MS Fund

Hoping to start a trend which could result in substantial contributions to worthy charities, Bill Benedict of Thief River Falls will participate in the St. Paul to Winnipeg snowmobile race starting Tuesday with pledges from a number of people to the state multiple sclerosis society. He aspires to his second finish in four years of race entry.

Although Benedict is a territorial salesman for Arctco distributors—company-owned distributor of Arctic Enterprises—Benedict races entirely at his own expense. He will drive a 1974 El Tigre model with 295cc engine this year and has prepared the machine to the extent that rules will allow for the all stock production sleds to be used this year.

Pledges for the multiple sclerosis society were secured by members of the Prowlin dance group at Lincoln high school, of which Benedict's daughter Teresa is a member. Goal in this first year was for 50 pledges of a specific sum for each mile Benedict covers in the race. Total race length this year is about 600 miles, but drivers have to survive numerical cuts at Alexandria and East Grand Forks as part of the race's energy conservation program.

Benedict's best year was two years ago when he finished 34th. In his first year he blew a head gasket on his machine after about 480 miles of the race, getting that far even after his machine caught fire when fuel spilled at a gas stop.

Teresa and other members of the Lincoln high school Prowlins dance group collected the pledges for set amounts per mile covered by Benedict in his fourth "500" race. Bill hopes to make the 100-machine cut at Alexandria Tuesday and continue on to Winnipeg to realize the maximum possible on pledges to the state Multiple Sclerosis society.

To explain reasons for and methods of accomplishing an outdoor recreation inventory in northwestern Minnesota, representatives of the soil conservation service and state department of natural resources conducted a meeting for soil conservation districts Thursday at the American Legion in Thief River Falls.

The Area I meeting, which included representatives of all 14 soil conservation districts in 12 area counties, was an all-day affair. Participating were soil and water conservation district board supervisors, district conservationists and district office employees totaling about 50 people.

Outdoor recreation inventory is being taken voluntarily by soil and water conservation districts in cooperation with the bureau of outdoor recreation of the U.S. department of the interior. Surveyed will be such facilities as resorts, private campgrounds, private golf courses, historic and archaelogical sites, picnic areas, shooting sports areas, snow ski areas, vacation farms and others.

Information is to be gathered by March 1 and forwarded to the state soil conservation service office in St. Paul. Data obtained is expected to be useful to the state department of natural resources and a number of other agencies, both state and federal.

Mary Gunderson Weds Mitchell Marquis At Oklee

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Marquis are at home in Goodridge following an exchange of marriage vows at Zion Lutheran church at Oklee and a wedding trip to Fort Francis, Canada and down the North Shore Drive.

The bride is the former Mary Gunderson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Gunderson of Oklee. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Dick Marquis of Goodridge. Rev. Gunderson officiated at his daughter's wedding.

Music for the double-ring ceremony was provided by friends of the couple. Miss Kathy Lee presided at the organ. She presented a program of nuptial selections as the guests were ushered in by John Gunderson of Oklee, brother of the bride, and Gene Marquis of Goodridge, brother of the groom. Miss Lee also played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist Geraldine Radniecki as she sang, "O Perfect Love" and "Wedding Song."

Yellow mums and white daisies graced the altar. Candelabra lit the aisle and white bows marked the pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white floor-length gown made by Mrs. Fritz Thorpe of Oklee. The gown, fashioned of satin and featuring an over-skirt of white organza, was styled with an empire bodice with satin covered buttons down the front. Lace ruffling edged the stand-up collar and the wide cuffs on the full bishop sleeves. To complete her attire, she wore a chapel-length mantilla of white organza edged with wide lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and daisies, accented with babies breath.

Serving the bride as her personal attendants were Misses Geraldine Radniecki and Valerie Thorson.

Eileen Lerohl of Oklee, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kaye Marquis of Bemidji, sister of the groom, Joani Jensen of Oklee and Mari Paquin of Thief River Falls, friends of the bride. Their identical gowns of yellow seersucker were styled like the bride's with the exception that they were fashioned with short puffy sleeves. All of the attendants wore yellow picture hats and carried baskets filled with yellow daisies.

Best man was Donald Vraa, a friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Arlen Marquis, brother of the groom, and Dale Anderson and David Vraa, friends of the groom. All reside at Goodridge. They wore black tuxedos, ivory ruffled shirts and black bow ties. Their boutonnieres were white carnations tipped in yellow.

The mother of the bride was attired in a light blue, floor-length, double-knit crepe dress complemented by a matching brocade coat. The mother of the groom wore a floor-length gown of apricot double-knit crepe, accented with black accessories. Both wore identical corsages of yellow roses and daisies.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mrs. Inez Gunderson, grandmother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Orris Olson, grandparents of the groom, and Mrs. Lena Iverson, great-grandmother of the groom.

Highlighting the reception table was a five tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with a cascade of yellow roses. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Rudy Rishood of McVille, N. D., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Bennie Johnson of Goodridge, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Leone Leckrom of Grand Forks, N. D., and Mrs. Roy Knudson of McVille, N. D.

Karen Rishood of McVille, a cousin of the bride, and Lori Marquis of Goodridge, sister of the groom, served the punch. Waitresses were Janet Brown, Donna Jensen and Margret Lambert, all of Oklee.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Bells in many cities throughout the nation will toll on Tuesday from 11:45 to 11:55 a.m.

Tuesday, January 22, 1974, is not a day to be marked with pride or thanksgiving. If that were the case, the bells would peal out the harmonious chimes used in announcing glad tidings, peace and happiness. Instead, the bells on Tuesday will be rung in mournful dirging knell, marking the first anniversary since the United States Supreme court put the stamp of approval on murder by allowing abortion on demand. As men and women hear the bells' ominous sounds on Tuesday, they will be reminded of the children who never had a chance to laugh or cry, to work or play, or to love or be loved.

Since the Supreme Court's ruling a year ago, according to the Right to Life Association, an estimated one and one-half million unborn babies have been killed. The lives taken is greater than the casualties in all U.S. wars.

The association states that since the rights of the un-born child have been struck down, experimentation on live aborted children is becoming a practice. (As distasteful as it would be to have an illigetimate child or grandchild, would it be any more distasteful to know that the child was being used as a guinea pig?'

Also in the past year, scientists, including a Nobel-Prize winning biologist, are actively promoting infanticide. They advocate that infants who are born with defects or deformities are not classified as human until they are three days old. (The Nobel Prize winner may be a noted biologist, but even he has a defect. He is lacking compassion.) To add to the gruesome picture, Euthanasia bills are being considered in the New York, Oregon and Florida state legislatures. Some of the proposals have classified the mentally retarded as automatic mercy killing victims.

Did someone say, "Those things won't happen during our lifetime?" Less than five years ago, we were told that legalized abortion would never be permitted in the United States.

What can we do to prevent the passage of such bills. Write to your Congressman and representatives, asking them to support the passage of the Constitutional Amendment to protect the lives of the unborn and the defenseless.

As the bells toll on Tuesday, pause for a moment in prayer, asking that the principles on which our government was founded will be restored; and that once again the unborn will be given the rights to be born and the deformed, handicapped, the aging, and the impoverished will be treated with compassion and dignity. (EMS)

The recipe today comes from the files of Mrs. Dale Hendrickson of this city. She stated that it is a favorite among her relatives and friends.

Wild Rice Supreme

¼ cup butter or margerine
2 tablespoons green pepper
1 tablespoon green onion
¼ cup chopped celery
8 oz. mushrooms, canned or fresh small package slivered almonds
1 cup rice, half white and half wild
salt and pepper to taste

Method: Combine all ingredients and saute about 15 minutes or until white rice gets a little brown. Pour into a covered two-quart casserole. Cover with 3 cups chicken broth, stir, cover and bake 1½ to 2 hours in a 325 degree oven. Stir once or twice during the baking time.

Mrs. Hendrickson stated that if canned chicken broth is used, use less salt as the broth is quite salty.

The Hendricksons came to this city a little over a year ago. They are former residents of New Richmond, Wis. She is a member of the Newcomers club and credits the club members for helping her to get acquainted. She said that their friendliness made it much easier for her to adjust to this community.

Her husband is director of personnel at Arctic Enterprises, Inc. They have two children: Kjersten, 5, and Erica, 2.

Mortality Rate Unchanged From Previous Year

It may have been a year of turmoil and woe, but the troubles of 1973 did not affect the mortality rate any in this country.

At least not according to the statisticians of a major life insurance company who report that mortality in the United States in 1973 was 9.4 per 1,000 populaton, virtually the same as experienced in 1972. Further, 1973 marked the 26th consecutive year in which a death rate below 10 per 1,000 population was registered in the United States.

Mortality from heart disease, which is responsible for about two-fifths of all deaths in this country, was fractionally lower in 1973 than the year earlier. The decrease in death rates from the ischemic type of heart disease, better known as arteriosclerotic or cornoary heart disease, was less than one per cent in the general population. Among lives insured under standard ordinary policies issued by Metropolitan life, however, the mortality rate from ischemic heart disease declined by more than five per cent.

The statisticans also reported that cancer mortality, which ranks second to heart disease as a cause of death in the nation, showed a slight increase in the general population but a five per cent decrease among the insured, who are drawn largely from the middle class.

Mortality from diabetes showed a decrease of eight per cent, but that from cirrhosis of the liver increased about two per cent.

Provisional data indicates that the number of motor vehicle accident fatalities in 1973 decreased somewhat from that in 1972. The gasoline shortage and the lowering of speed limits in the last two months of the year undoubtedly contributed to the reduction in motor vehicle accident fatalities, the statisticians said.

The homicide rate in 1973 showed a further increase.

Infant mortality, which had registered a record low of 18.5 per 1,000 live births in 1972, continued to decline and may establish a new low between 17 and 18 per 1,000. Between 1963 and 1973, the infant mortality rate in the United States declined about 30 per cent, or more than three times the decrease between 1953 and 1963.

On Jan. 23, 1949, Operation "Haylift" began to aid snowbound western ranches. Air Force cargo planes dropped hay and feed to sheep and cattle on snowbound western ranches for more than 4 weeks.

Tips On How To Survive In Car Are Suggested

Before taking off on a winter trip by car, motorists should plan for survival if caught in an emergency situation, the Minnesota department of public safety advised recently.

Following are some worthwhile suggestions offered by the Minnesota Para-Rescue team:

(1) Talk it over and plan before you travel. Pack your winter car kit and place it in the car.

(2) Stay in the vehicle. You could lose your life by trying to walk in a storm.

(3) Avoid overexertion. Attempting to push, shovel or jack the car invites overexertion. Take it easy and wait for help.

(4) Keep cool. Calm down and think. The storm will end, and you will be found. Don't work yourself into a sweat—wet clothing loses insulation.

(5) Keep fresh air in your vehicle. If you run the engine, be sure that the exhaust tail pipe is, unobstructed and that carbon monoxide cannot enter the vehicle.

Outside of extra clothing, shovel and other large items, your winter car kit can be contained in a three-pound coffee can. It should be kep inside the car and should contain flashlight, red or orange cloth for antenna banner, first aid articles, matches and candle stubs, small sharp knife, canned solid fuel or fuel tablets, compass, toilet paper, high calorie food.

If you find someone else in distress but cannot help them, call the emergency state patrol number at no charge. dial O and ask for ZENITH 7000.

North Central Boardings Drop At TRF In 1973

Reversal of a trend experienced here for a number of years was noted by North Central airlines at Thief River Falls in 1973 when passenger boardings decreased from 1972 by 396 passengers. Local boardings had been on the increase for a number of years.

Air express and air freight on and off flights at Thief River Falls also showed decreases while surface mail off and air mail off remained about the same. Only business increase here, according to unofficial figures, was in air mail put on flights leaving Thief River Falls.

Passenger boardings for 1973 totaled 9,183 or 396 fewer than the total of 9,579 recorded in 1972. Air express put on flights leaving the local airport dropped 1,020 pounds from 2,398 in 1972 to 1,378 in 1973. Air express off decreased 6,492 pounds from 18,432 in 1972 to only 11,940 last year.

Surface mail off remained steady at 79,253 pounds and air mail off was constant at 79,272 pounds. Air freight on dropped by 8,617 pounds from 81,739 in 1972 to 73,122 in 1973 while air freight off declined by 9,158 pounds from 2,032,283 pounds to 2,013,125 pounds.

Air mail put on the planes here increased in volume from 5,063 pounds in 1972 to 7,000 pounds in 1973.

For North Central as a company, 4,253,231 passengers were carried over a billion revenue passenger miles in 1973. Boardings were up four per cent and passenger miles rose six per cent over 1972, after normalizing 1972 totals for extra traffic gains generated by a third-quarter strike against another airline serving some North Central cities. Company records were set at 4,318,643 passengers and 1,029,000,000 passenger miles were actual records set in 1972.

Air freight, mail and express carried reached an all time high of 13,394,000 cargo ton miles, and completed 28,007,276 of its 28,381,385 scheduled miles in 1973 for an operating performance of 99 per cent.

SCS Inventory Of Area Outdoor Recreation Set

Warren Curtis, state resource conservationist with the SCS in St. Paul, gave an overview of the program at the morning session and explained how the inventory came about and how it is to be conducted. The idea originated with the bureau of outdoor recreation which did not have the distribution of staff nationally to conduct the survey. Soil conservation service agreed to assist with available staff which will provide national coverage for the inventory.

Allen Vaughn, biologist for the soil conservation service in St. Paul, acquainted the SCS personnel with the purpose of the survey, background and procedures for conducting the inventory. The Area I meeting was the sixth of seven area meetings held to cover all SCS areas in Minnesota.

Ken Wald, planner for the bureau of planning in the Minnesota department of natural resources, reviewed the survey made by DNR two years ago. That survey showed no private outdoor recreational resources in Pennington county, he said, and is one indicator why a more comprehensive survey is needed.

Wald said the DNR is making its information available for the current inventory for use as a data source. He explained use of materials to the SCS personnel in attendance and expressed the department's interest in having its information up-dated.

Warren Curtis outlined responsibilities of the districts cooperating in the inventory, cited examples of coding on the computer sheets to be used and illustrated how to locate facilities on a county map. He also explained that each SCS district is to form a coordinating committee for the inventory with one of the district's supervisors as chairman.

During the afternoon a work session was held with Allen Vaughn in charge of providing sample problems and answering questions about situations encountered.

Leonard Skaar of Thief River Falls, chairman of the Minnesota association of soil and water conservation districts, welcomed SCS supervisors and office personnel to the meeting. Area I includes the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman, Mahnomen, Clearwater, Beltrami and Hubbard. There are separate districts for east and west Polk county and the Marshall-Beltrami district serves east Marshall and northern Beltrami counties, creating 14 districts in the 12-county area.

Information obtained in the inventory will be prepared in published form and available to those from whom the information may be useful.

2 Roseau Youths Named In Bemis Hill Vandalism

Five vandals, who caused extensive damage to the Bemis Hill campground shelter on Christmas, have been identified as Roseau residents. They are Myron Olson and Wesley Otto, both 18, and three juveniles. It has been reported that all five will face criminal charges for damaging property.

Two picnic tables in the shelter were destroyed and their timbers were used to break 60 window paines, seven sashes and three frames. All of these items need to be replaced before outdoor enthusiasts can use the shelter.

Remind Aliens To File Address With Government

John W. Bowser, district director of the immigration and naturalization service in St. Paul, urges all aliens who have not yet reported their addresses to the government to do so no later than January 31 to avoid possible penalties.

The law requires that every alien except those having diplomatic status and representatives of certain international organizations must file the address report during January of each year. Forms with which to make the reports are available at all post offices and immigration and naturalization service offices.

"It is an easy matter to fill out one of these cards, form I-53, and then just place a postage stamp on the reverse of this card and drop the card in the mail box," Bowser said.

Social security number should be shown on the registration card. Aliens and employers are advised that the possession of a social security card does not entitle aliens to work in the United States. Only aliens admitted for permanent residence or certain classes of nonresident aliens authorized to do so by the immigration and naturalization service may take employment. Violators of this restriction are subject to certain penalties.

He provided leadership in the establishment of the North Central soil and water conservation research laboratory at Morris in 1958. Martin was listed in "American Men of Science" in 1946 and in "Who's Who in America" in 1954.

Pro-Life Group Adopts Position On Euthanasia

An official position paper urging humane care for the dying was disclosed recently by Minnesota citizens concerned for life (MCCL). At the same time, the statement condemned mercy killing and what the MCCL terms "managerial" euthanasia (or death selection).

The MCCL position was explained by Marjory Mecklenburg, Minneapolis, MCCL's president and Prof. Richard Berquist, Ph.D., a member of the MCCL policy committee, at a press conference announcing adoption of the position paper.

"Up to this point in time we have not had an official position on euthanasia," she explained. "We have been concerned for some time about the spread of a euthanasia mentality in the United States. But, until our position paper was adopted, we did not have any formalized organizational position," she explained.

Mrs. Mecklenburg went on to explain that her organization's position distinguishes three distinct aspects of what many people consider to be a single issue. "We break the question into three cateqories: death with dignity, mercy killing, and managerial euthanasia (or death selection)," she pointed out.

"We endorse the idea of humanizing the dying process," she explained. "We do not advocate neglecting the dying patient," she continued, "but we do advocate avoiding a kind of mechanized desperation which often turns death into a lonely inhumane ordeal. This would be an undignified death," she emphasized.

She cautioned, however, that "death with dignity" properly understood has nothing to do with euthanasia as such. "Letting a dying person die naturally is much different than killing the ill, the handicapped or the aged," she explained.

"We oppose any kind of medical killing, whether by neglect or by positive action," she said. "And we do not condone such killing even if it is done with the intention of saving the victim from the burden of pain and suffering. That is not a decision which one human being can make for another," she said.

"To kill an old person or an ill person to save him or her from pain is the same as aborting a child to save it from a less than high quality life. Such warped and sloppy sentimentalism cannot be too strongly condemned. It may start out with the best of intentions; but it usually ends up as cruel, perverted and violent," she charged.

"Even worse than mercy killing is death selection," Mrs. Mecklenburg continued. "The mercy killer is trying to help the individual involved. He may have a very twisted notion of life but he is at least concerned with individual suffering," she stated. "In contrast those who advocate death selection are motivated by cold utilitarian ideas. Their idea is to help society or humanity by getting rid of the burdensome, the unfit, the defective or the unproductive members of society.

"Unfortunately, there are a lot of people willing to advocate managed, sociological killing," she continued. "Usually they want to accomplish their ends through medical neglect—by withholding or withdrawing of medical care form the aged, the severely ill or the handicapped. This often called negativeeuthanasia," she explained. "But this kind of killing is not any more acceptable than overt killing. If the intention is to rid society of its weak and more vulnerable members, the methods used don't make that much difference. We look at the intention, not at the means used," she concluded.

Mrs. Mecklenburg also commented on what many euthanasia advocates have termed the "right to die." "They argue that people should have a constitutional right to kill themselves. Or to ask that they be killed by an attending physician," Mrs. Mecklenburg explained. "I am more concerned with the right to live than with the right to die. We have prevented very few people from dying, but we have certainly prevented a lot of people from living—particularly unborn children. Further, my guess is that the so-called right to die is just another excuse for speeding up the departure of unwanted or troublesome people."

The MCCL's euthanasia policy statement was adopted by the MCCL executive committee on December 19. It was prepared earlier by the group's policy advisory committee.
